M'ADOO LOSING; SMITH WINS

Put Pressure on Nazis to Avoid War on Czechs

BRITISH CABINET SHIES AT MAKING HITLER ANGRY

Defers Sending Note of Warning.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The British are playing a wily game with the Germans. That much was clear after today's unduly conspicuous cabinet meeting in London which Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, attended.

A noncommittal and mystifying statement was issued after the meeting. It said Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, had made a full statement of the international situation and added: "At the conclusion of the meeting the ministers expressed their entire agreement with the action already taken and the policy to be pursued in the future."

The element of mutual bluff in the diplomatic horseplay going on between London and Berlin emerged as the most salient fact about Europe's general war scare.

See Czechoslovakia's Doom.

Nothing indicated that the British believe now, more than they did several months ago, that anything can be done to save Czechoslovakia from annihilation.

The cabinet made no new approaches to Adolf Hitler with a more specific statement of British policy than Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, made last Saturday.

Though the government encouraged every one to believe that new approaches would be made, the cabinet decided that it would be best to defer for the moment any direct diplomatic message to the German government.

[In his speech, delivered in Lanark, Scotland, Saturday, Simon said Britain might have to fight if Germany started a war in central Europe. At the same time the foreign office asked "all quarters" to lessen tension in Czechoslovakia and praised the "conciliatory attitude" of the Czechoslovak government in dealing with the Sudeten Germans, who are demanding self-government.]

Try to Convey 3 Impressions.

Every effort was made in London to convey the following impression:

FIRST—That the British were going to convey privately the information to Berlin that they would be involved in a general conflict in case Czechoslovakia was invaded.

SECOND—That Ambassador Henderson would ask for a restatement of a promise made by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, German air minister, that German troops would be kept at a distance of fifteen miles from the Czechoslovak frontier. Goering made this pledge when Germany annexed Austria.

THIRD—That the British home fleet was being concentrated in the North sea until after the Nazi party congress in Nuremberg. The conference opens next Monday.

All this, of course, the British may have in mind, but so far it is of the same substance as was Hitler's gesture yesterday when he visited German fortifications opposite Strasbourg, France, in the company of eight generals.

May Extend Naval Maneuvers.

Plans for extending the British naval maneuvers in Scottish waters, with the bases at Invergordon and Scapa Flow at full strength, were discussed by the cabinet, the Daily Mail said. The German fleet also is scheduled to hold North sea maneuvers in September.

The Daily Mail asserted the ministers had agreed that any new approach to Hitler should be left to the judgment of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Halifax. The paper declared any action will depend on the course of events in the next forty-eight hours.

One report published by the opposition press was that the terms of a communication to Hitler actually were drafted by the cabinet, but that the communication will not be sent pending further developments.

Returns to Berlin Today.

Ambassador Henderson will fly back to Berlin tomorrow with increased prestige through his knowledge of government opinion as a result of attending the cabinet meet-

TAMMANY CHIEF DEALS BLOW TO HINES DEFENSE

Curry Admits Police Transfers.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—White-haired John F. Curry, former chief of Tammany hall, took the witness stand today against James J. Hines, powerful Democratic leader on trial as political fixer for the policy game racket. Curry testified he had brought about police transfers at the request of the defendant. He also declared Hines sought to control the district attorney's office in 1933.

Curry's testimony was the crashing finale to an all day parade of police officers to the witness stand. They told how they were demoted after conducting raids on policy game headquarters in the face of gangster threats that they would be sent back into uniform.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey called the Tammany veteran to the stand toward the end of another day in the trial of Hines before a jury and Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora. Hines is charged with conspiracy and violation of the lottery laws. He is accused of being in league with the late Dutch Schultz, gangster ruler of the policy racket empire.

Defense Taken by Surprise.

Taken by surprise at the damaging testimony of Curry against his one time political comrade, the defense asked for adjournment. Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of defense counsel, rising wearily to his feet, said the cross-examination of the witness probably would be long and suggested it be deferred until tomorrow. Justice Pecora granted the motion.

Curry's appearance on the stand was a scene of political drama. Sitting in the witness chair was the man who controled the most powerful city machine in the country from 1929 until 1934. Down in the courtroom as a defendant was the most influential single district leader in the city's Democratic organization, Jimmy Hines, pale of face, tapping an incessant tattoo on the table before him.

Standing beside the jury box and coolly conducting the examination was Dewey, successful prosecutor of New York's numerous rackets, 36 years old, a newcomer with bright political prospects.

Parted by Break in 1934.

Curry and Hines were friendly until a break in 1934. The groundwork for their parting was laid at the Democratic national convention of 1932, when Curry and other Tammany leaders stuck with Al Smith to the end, while Hines worked for Franklin D. Roosevelt's nomination.

Differences were patched up and harmony prevailed until 1934, when Hines, backed by the forces under Roosevelt and Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley, was the moving factor in a coalition which ousted Curry as chief of the Tammany wigwam.

Curry, a short, stocky figure with a white, bushy mustache, told the jury that he was on the friendliest of terms with Hines during 1933. Then Dewey brought out that Hines had come to him in the fall of that year and demanded he swing the organization for the nomination of William C. Dodge as district attorney.

Weinberg Story Supported.

"Did he ask for any other candidacy?" inquired Dewey.

"No," was Curry's reply.

The testimony on Dodge served to strengthen the story told by George Weinberg, Schultz payoff man who has pleaded guilty and testified for the state. Weinberg testified he handed over $3,000 in gang funds to Hines in Dodge's presence during the 1933 fall campaign. The gang lieutenant said Hines introduced him to the regular Democratic candidate as "one of Dutch Schultz's boys" and told him the money was from the gang leader. Dodge was elected.

Dewey next turned to the manipulation of police by Tammany district leaders. Curry readily admitted he conveyed the requests for transfers and assignments of police officers to

JUNGLE STORIES

The Purge Cat wore a harried expression. He was fidgety and ill at ease. It had been hours since he had had a vacation. And here now was a new worry that demanded his immediate attention. The Tory Hound was on the trail of the Jungle Folk. The scent was not hard for the Tory Hound to follow. The wild animals of the Jungle were all hundred-per-scenters, though the average was somewhat beyond that figure, due to the presence of Ode Cologne, the Skunk. Ode always rated considerably above par. Purge eyed the Great Hound malevolently.

"Mah frans" Harvarded Purge, "the Old Tory Hound has found us out." Then turning to those about him, he shouted "Do something! For the love of Michelson." . . . . "Somebody call my name?" inquired the Porcupen emerging like a ghost writer from a nearby stump. Purge explained the situation to the Porcupen, "Get that hound off my trail. Distract his attention." . . . "Easy enough" assured the Ghost Writer as he dipped his ever ready quills in the handy ink bottle. "Now" said Porcupen, turning to the Purge Cat, "if you will but huff and puff, my quills will be loosed at the Tory Hound. That will distract his attention." The Purge Cat took a deep radio breath, and stuck out his chin. . . . He huffed "You and I know," and he puffed "we planned it that way." And then he hissed "Tory press-s-s-s." The quills flew with great accuracy and the Tory Hound was distracted.

QUESTIONS: Do you see the grassHopkins chewing the long green? Carefully he adjusts his cud. Do you see the target in front of him? The Baked Idaho Pope-tato is wiping his eye and complaining about grassHopkins' marksmanship. See the Red Buzzard, the Jackal and Ode Cologne picking the chassis of a once noble animal. Do you see Baby Bunting in the distance playing with the pretty poison ivy? Can you find the Insurance Cheetah who has sought the privacy of a very deep hole?

Many Russian Admirals Shot in Navy Purge

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 30.—The soviet Russian naval commissariat admitted today that all the chief Russian admirals and naval experts had been executed in recent months.

Their exact fate was not explained precisely in all cases, but the official announcement said that the GPU [secret police] had shot Admiral Vladimir R. Orlov, former commander in chief of the red navy, who represented the soviet union at the British coronation in May, 1937; Admiral Sivkov, commander of the Baltic fleet, and Admiral Ludry, head of the naval academy.

[The executions of Admirals Orlov and Sivkov were reported from Moscow as long ago as last February.]

Many Others Listed.

Among the many others who have disappeared with the stigma of "traitors" and "enemies of the people" are:

Admiral Ivanov, who commanded the visiting warship Marat at the British coronation review; Admiral M. V. Victorov, who succeeded Admiral Orlov as commander in chief of the red navy; Admiral Muklevitch, chief of naval construction; Admiral Kozhanov, commander of the Black sea fleet; Admiral Kireyev, commander of the Pacific fleet; Admiral Dishenov, commander of the northern fleet; Admiral Kadatsky, commander of the far eastern Amur flotilla, and Professors Zherve and Petrov of the naval academy at Leningrad.

"Treachery" Is Explained.

After this "purge" the red navy today does not have a single officer who occupied a high post last year.

The soviet naval commissariat said the admirals and experts "treacherously" insisted upon building a "defensive navy," consisting of submarines and other small units, whereas the soviet union required a strong navy capable of offensive operations with big battleships and cruisers.

7 FOOT MODEL PLANE JUST MISSES CHURCH, SO POLICE GROUND IT

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The careening flight of a gasoline powered model plane which brushed the roofs of several buildings, zoomed across the business district and just missed a church steeple today, led police to issue an order temporarily grounding the craft and all like it. Police found the seven foot plane in a tree. Then they found the owner, David Benun, 16 years old, member of the Aero Putt-Putts, a group of high school "aviators," who explained that he forgot to set the timing switch of the motor, which cuts the power after thirty seconds.

MRS. CAPER CUTS QUITE A CAPER WITH A FUR CAPE

It must have been that last drink, Mrs. Frances Caper told Judge Michael Kaspar in the Felony court yesterday. She and her drinking partner, John Eckhardt, a WPA worker, had emptied their bottle.

They were on the way, said Mrs. Caper, to his apartment at 934 Concord place for another. But that last drink——. Mrs. Caper said she made a mistake and crawled into a neighbor's apartment at No. 936.

Some one saw her crawl out, and weave into Eckhardt's flat. Police found them there later. They also found the neighbor's fur cape and an alarm clock. She and Eckhardt were placed on probation for one year for larceny.

Birds Silence School Bell with Their Housekeeping

Herkimer, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP)—School bells will not ring out this year at St. Francis de Sales Parochial school. The reason: Two sparrows built their nest in the school bell and the principal has ruled that the birds are not to be disturbed.

Drowsy Fred Finds Chicago a Sleepy Town

The suspense was terrific. From the north, with its whistle screaming, rushed a fast passenger train. From the south, on an adjoining track, hurtled another with a clanging bell. On the cinders between the two sets of rails lay a figure in blue overalls.

"He must be dead," said Policeman Andy Dieriel to Policeman William Sommers as they left the Jefferson Park station's wagon and clambered on to the North Western right of way at 5000 Milwaukee avenue.

Shows Signs of Life.

The man on the cinders had a pulse. He also had a snore. Only by fanning his feet a little, with a club, could the policemen persuade him to wake up. Then he said he was Fred Gibson. He was on his way from the old home town, Dayton, Tenn., [site of the famous monkey trial] to Bay City, Mich.

Dieriel and Sommers gave him 7 cents carfare, led him to a carline, and suggested he ride a piece. Then they went back to the station. An hour later there was a telephone call. An angry trainman was insisting that somebody come and remove a snoozer from the North Western tracks a mile south of 5000 Milwaukee avenue.

"That's Fred again," said Sommers to Dieriel.

It was indeed. The train had stopped just before it minced him.

Police Provide a Bed.

This time Fred was loaded into the wagon and locked up in a station cell. That was on Monday. Yesterday police wakened Fred for breakfast, for dinner, and for supper. He ate heartily of the delicious bologna and bread and drank the coffee. Late last night he showed animation.

"Wake me for breakfast," he said.

"Wait a minute," demanded Sergt. Edward Corda. "Why did you leave Dayton?"

"Aw, it's such a sleepy little town," said Fred, and slumbered again.

BEAT PURGE IN CAROLINA; CALIFORNIA HITS NEW DEAL

Friend of President Trails Advocate of Pension Scheme.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Sheridan Downey, champion of a $30 a week "scrip" pension scheme, took a surprising lead of better than 2½ to 1 over Roosevelt indorsed Senator William Gibbs McAdoo for the Democratic senatorial nomination in early primary returns tonight. Roosevelt condemned the pension scheme.

However, as the night wore on and the vote from San Francisco and other north and central counties came in, McAdoo cut Downey's early lead to about 1½ to 1.

Totals from 5,559 precincts out of 12,438 in the state gave Downey, who proclaimed himself a Roosevelt supporter, 125,657, and McAdoo, 86,075.

John W. Preston, the "no rubber stamp" contender, polled 13,165; Anti-New Dealer James W. Mellen, 3,117, and Ray L. Riley, a Republican seeking also the Democratic nomination, 22,116.

In 4,617 precincts Philip Bancroft, militant farmer and critic of the WPA and relief administrations, took the lead over Riley for the Republican senatorial nomination. Bancroft had 59,498 and Riley 47,941. Louise Watkins, who claimed to be the first California woman senatorial candidate, had 9,335.

Pension Affects Governorship.

The power of the pension scheme supporters showed up heavily also in the Democratic race for the gubernatorial nomination.

In 5,302 complete and incomplete precincts stalwart liberal Culbert L. Olson, who professed willingness to try the pension idea, led with 123,129. Representative John F. Dockweiler, New Dealer who indorsed the pension plan outright, was second with 67,198. A. F. of L. endorsed Daniel C. Murphy was third with 53,071.

Raymond L. Haight, Progressive also contending for the Republican and Democratic nominations, followed with 36,463 on the Democratic side. Herbert Legg, Los Angeles supervisor, was next in line with 27,984. J. F. T. O'Connor had 18,331. William H. Neblett, McAdoo's former law partner, and T. A. Tomasini, San Francisco engineer, trailed with 4,377 and 2,380, respectively.

Gov. Merriam Ahead.

Conservative Republican Gov. Frank F. Merriam led in the early returns for the Republican gubernatorial race with 71,524 in 4,848 precincts.

Lieut. Gov. George Hatfield was second with 38,684, and Haight third with 30,800. Trailing were Francis O'Connor of Los Angeles with 3,359 and Z. S. Leymel, former Fresno mayor, with 1,921.

Roosevelt 'Yes Man' Defeated by Dixie Senate Veteran.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Senator Ellison D. [Cotton Ed] Smith, the first member of the senate to face the test of the New Deal party purge, was the victor over his Roosevelt indorsed opponent, Gov. Olin D. Johnston, on the basis of unofficial returns in today's Democratic primary.

With 1,347 of the state's 1,509 precincts reported Smith, senate dean who voted against several administration measures, had 150,171 votes. Johnston, 41 years old, a world war veteran and former textile worker, who promised 100 per cent coöperation with President Roosevelt, had 123,370.

Senator Smith said late tonight the voting in the primary was "a victory for true Democracy."

"The only thing I wish to say," said Smith, "is that I congratulate the people of South Carolina for the victory for true democracy. It was through them that it was won."

Maybank Leads for Governor.

In the governor's race, Mayor Burnet R. Maybank of Charleston forged ahead of seven other candidates. Wyndham M. Manning of Sumter and Cole L. Blease, former governor and former United States senator, were running neck and neck for second place.

The new deal was not an issue in the gubernatorial contest, as none of the candidates made a point of opposing the Roosevelt administration.

Returns from 1,339 precincts gave Maybank 86,788 votes, Manning 61,246, and Blease 52,621. The other candidates stood: Neville Bennett of Bennettsville, 38,586; Ben E. Adams of Columbia, 21,303; D. T. Blackman of Columbia, 2,733; John Hughes Cooper of Columbia, 923; F. M. Easterlin of Spartansburg, 6,181.

Two Congressmen Trail.

Two South Carolina representatives apparently had safe leads for renomination, while two others were trailing their opponents. Representatives Thomas S. McMillan of the 1st district and Hampton P. Fuller of the 2d were ahead. Representatives John C. Taylor of the 3d district and G. Heyward Mahon of the 4th were trailing.

G. Lloyd Ford of Conway and James L. McMillan of Florence headed six entries for the 6th district post left vacant by the recent death of Representative Allard H. Gasque. Representative J. P. Richards was renominated without opposition in the 5th district.

Climaxes Heated Campaign.

The South Carolina voting climaxed a heated campaign which saw three candidates for the senate seat that Smith has held for 30 years touring the state together and making speeches to identical audiences.

A turning point came Saturday when State Senator Edgar Brown, who, like Johnston, proclaimed himself a "100 per cent New Dealer," withdrew from the race. He explained that it was obvious he would run third.

Next day Mr. Roosevelt issued a statement saying Brown's withdrawal clarified the issues and South Carolina voters had a choice between a candidate who "thinks in terms of the past" and one who thinks in terms of "1938, 1948, and 1958 as well." Although he named no names, there was no mistaking his meaning.

POPE REFUSES TO RUN

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was reported taken aback today when he received word of the decision of Senator James P. Pope to abide by the result of the Idaho Democratic party primary in which he was defeated.

Pope was a 100 per cent Roosevelt supporter. He was defeated in the primary by Representative D. Worth Clark, who declared he would not be a rubber stamp for the chief executive. Thereafter Pope visited Mr. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., and was urged to run as an independent. But the Idaho senator announced today that he would bow to the decision of the voters and not run independently.

Pope's refusal was considered a slap at Mr. Roosevelt, who had declared Pope's defeat involved a matter of public and political morality. The President declared Pope had been beaten by the entrance of Republican voters into the Democratic primary and denounced such tactics.

Pope said that thousands of progressive citizens had urged him to enter the general election campaign as an independent, but that after giving careful consideration to the matter he had decided to abide by the results of the primary.

The decision was a victory for Postmaster General James A. Farley, who had advised against defeated Democrats running as independents on the ground that it would hurt the party.

Pope's decision came as Mr. Roosevelt was enlarging his invasion of Maryland next Labor day to the status of a stumping tour in favor of Representative David J. Lewis, 100 percenter, and against Senator Millard E. Tydings, marked for the President's purge.

Instead of one main speech against Senator Tydings, it was revealed, the President will make several rear platform stops along the eastern shore of Maryland, addressing the people. This illustrated the seriousness of Mr. Roosevelt's attempt to purge Tydings from the party.

Tactics Disturb Adviser.

Landing at Crisfield, Md., from the yacht Potomac on Labor day morning, the President's route will take him through Princess Anne, Salisburg, Sharpton, Federalsburg, and finally to Denton, Md., where he will speak for half an hour over a national radio hookup.

At his press conference this afternoon, the President was asked if he had heard that groups of Marylanders were assailing his excursion as a "federal invasion." He said he had first been amused at this statement, but that his next impression was one of sadness. He was sad, he said, that any one could put out a "hysterical statement" of that kind.

The President denied that he intended to wield the purge ax on Representative Vincent L. Palmisano of Maryland, who jumped the New Deal traces on the dictatorship bill.

The President said he had not decided whether to make a speech in New York City against Representative John J. O'Connor, chairman of the house rules committee.

Hopkins Endangers Purge.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's purge efforts are a proper course against men "who tricked the voters by wearing our insignia," Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said tonight. He declared the administration did not intend to be "gagged or muzzled" in presenting its case. Hopkins addressed a conference of Democratic women from the northeastern states.

WILLIS ATTACKS VAN NUYS AGAIN ON MACHINE AID

Angola, Ind., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Raymond E. Willis, Republican nominee seeking the seat of Senator Frederick Van Nuys, today outlined the general course of the campaign he has started to wage.

"Last Friday," he said, "in my first speech I challenged Senator Van Nuys to carry out his threat to expose his former enemies of the Townsend state machine. He made a speech at French Lick, which was something of an answer.

"Now I am going to reply to that answer and insist again that he tell about his present friends of the Democratic organization."

Mr. Willis' second full length speech of the campaign will be delivered tomorrow night at Noblesville.

Thursday the senatorial candidate is to appear before a Young Republican meeting at Hamilton Lake. Elaborate preparations for this gathering have been made. Friday he will attend a party conference at Marion.

COL. ROOSEVELT, LYONS TO SPEAK AT ST. CHARLES

Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for the United States senate, and Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. will be principal speakers on the Republican day program Sunday at the St. Charles homecoming. Charles A. O'Cannor, Kane county state's attorney, will be host. Other speakers will be Simon E. Lantz and Stephen A. Day, nominees for congressmen at large; William R. McCauley, nominee for state treasurer; Wiley B. Garvin, nominee for superintendent of public instruction, and George E. Lambur Jr., nominee for clerk of the Supreme court.

M'NUTT MACHINE ACCUSED OF GRAB FOR LOCAL POWER

Hammond Councilmen Fight Meddling.

Tentacles of the McNutt-Minton-Townsend statehouse machine of Indiana are grasping for power over a local health project in Hammond. This was charged last night by Democratic and Republican members of the city council. They said the machine will fail.

The council members are Warner Sutherland, Republican, and Dr. Ernest L. Eggers, Democrat. They belong to a bloc of five in the nine-man council which at present holds the upper hand against Mayor Martin's plan to create a sanitary board which would control a $3,000,000 sewage treatment plant.

The quarrel is blocking a start on a PWA project which would end the pollution of Lake Michigan by Hammond. Along with Gary, East Chicago, and Whiting, the city was ordered to stop contaminating the water by Jan. 1, 1939. The order was issued by the Indiana department of commerce after years of complaints by Illinois that Chicago's water supply was endangered.

Object to Interference.

Mayor Martin is a stalwart of the statehouse machine. He can get jobs in the state administration when other politicians can't, Lake county observers said. And his proposed board would be comprised of the city engineer [his appointee], a member chosen by the state administration, and a third selected by these two.

"The mayor is dominated by the Townsend machine," Dr. Eggers said. "The statehouse has no business messing in our local health affairs and will soon find that out.

"The mayor's plan calls for a politically-controled board which would be a cog in the state machine. But we're standing our ground. We will keep politics out of the sanitary project."

Sutherland was as emphatic in denouncing what he termed the "thrust for power into local affairs by the statehouse."

"The mayor went down to the statehouse and got the power to appoint the school board," Sutherland said. "He went down there again and got the law changed so he could appoint the water board. Now he seeks control of the sanitary project.

"We council members were told to give the engineering survey for the project to Russell B. Moore of Indianapolis, who is closely associated with Senator Sherman Minton. Eventually he would have obtained the contract for plant construction.

Refuse to Go Along.

"That would have fitted in nicely with the statehouse scheme. But we refused to go along, despite every kind of pressure. We contend that the mayor wants to let the McNutt-Minton-Townsend machine put its friends in here."

Mayor Martin has called a second public hearing for tonight on his plan. Dr. E. S. Jones, chairman of the sanitation committee of the Hammond Chamber of Commerce, is urging civic organizations to send their members, the councilmen said.

"Dr. Jones was a roommate of Senator Minton's at Indiana university," Dr. Eggers said. "He is active in Democratic politics and is helping the mayor drum up sentiment for his plan."

None of the five council members opposing the plan will attend the meeting tonight. Dr. Eggers predicted that the mayor would fill the hall with his political henchmen. The other three men of the bloc are Edward Glegg, Democrat, and Garland Fowler and Charles N. Scott, Republicans.

Four Democrats on Other Side.

On the other side are four Democratic council members, Hugh D. Studebaker, Joseph A. Weiss, Daniel Beiker, and Roy Switzer.

At the last council meeting the five passed a resolution directing the city department of public works to supervise construction of the sewage plant. The city's share of the cost would be financed by general revenue bonds.

Mayor Martin's plan calls for the city's cost of the project to be financed by a general tax levy.

PAINTS APPLE THAT FOOLS EVEN THE RATS IN FEDERAL ARCHIVES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Royal C. Steadman, who for twenty-three years has made models and pictures for the department of agriculture files and bulletins, today said one of his paintings was so lifelike it fooled even the rats. "I finished a painting of an apple, cut in half and showing seeds exposed," Steadman said. "I put it on a window sill to dry. The next morning I found it on the floor with tracks of rats over it and the painted seeds eaten off."

GEORGE ASSAILS RELIEF CASH AS PURGE WEAPON

Calls Coercion of Voters 'Crime of Century.'

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Protests against the use of relief appropriations to control votes assumed increasingly scandalous proportions today as Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.] denounced such activities on the part of the Roosevelt administration as "one of the crimes of the century."

The speech of WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins in Boston last night, assailing what he called "Tory" Democrats and defending President Roosevelt's purge program, brought a retort today from Senator George, the first man in congress to be denounced personally by the President.

Speaking at Dublin, Ga., in his campaign for renomination on Sept. 14, Senator George condemned the use of relief funds to coerce voters.

"There are people in this country who want relief in order to administer it so they can control the votes of this country," Senator George said. "It is one of the crimes of the century that any man charged with the administration of relief funds should use them to compel and coerce and control the God-given will and desire of the poor and unfortunate fellow citizens who have to receive benefits from the government."

Wears No Hopkins Halter.

Senator George apparently was incensed by Hopkins' charge that "Tory" Democrats in congress "tricked the voters by wearing our insignia, only to turn against us as soon as they got in office." He repeatedly has told the voters of Georgia that he does not wear the "insignia" of Mr. Hopkins and the other members of the President's purge committee.

Senator George also called upon President Roosevelt to practice what he has preached with respect to the use of relief funds for political purposes. He said the President, last February, told the directors of the National Emergency Council to be "absolutely hard boiled" in dealing with the misuse of relief, "even if you hit the biggest political head in the United States."

"I subscribe to that and I ask the President of the United States if he now will subscribe to the same doctrin," said Senator George.

Berry Renews Complaints.

Almost at the hour Senator George was delivering his blast against the use of relief distress as a purge weapon, a letter from Senator George L. Berry [D., Tenn.] to the senate committee on campaign expenditures was made public.

Senator Berry quoted Administrator Hopkins as saying last spring that he had enough evidence concerning WPA activities in Tennessee to "blow the roof off." Berry said Hopkins refused to do anything about the Tennessee situation either before or after the primary in that state on Aug. 4.

Senator Berry's complaint was the second received from him by the campaign expenditures committee. Originally he charged that the machine of Senator Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.] and E. H. Crump, Memphis political boss, collected a slush fund of $125,000 from the WPA organization.

"Disgruntled," Hopkins Retorts.

To this charge, Administrator Hopkins replied that Senator Berry was disgruntled because he tried to take over the "Works Progress administration in Tennessee, bag and baggage," and failed.

Senator Berry, who was defeated in the senatorial primary by Tom Stewart, candidate of the Crump-McKellar machine, presented the senate committee with copies of letters he wrote to Hopkins last spring to refute charges that he sought to take over the WPA.

In one of these, written April 29, 1938, he told Hopkins:

"I have exhausted all resources and recourses in the hope of establishing decency in the conduct of the WPA in Tennessee."

"I have not asked for any political appointments," the letter continued, "I simply seek to require that partisan activities, unfair conduct, and waste of public funds be discontinued, or those who are responsible for it be dismissed."

Senator Berry's charges have been substantiated by the senate committee itself, which reported that "every scheme and questionable device known to politics" was employed in the Tennessee primary campaign.

Pursues Slush Fund Drive.

David Lasser, president of the communist controled Workers' alliance, a union of WPA reliefers, said he had not yet abandoned his plan to raise a $50,000 fund from members of his organization for the purpose of aiding President Roosevelt's attempted purge.

Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.], chairman of the senate campaign expenditures committee, has warned Lasser that the shaking down of relief workers would violate the criminal code of the United States.

Enforcement of the law, however, rests with the justice department. That presumably is why Lasser is threatening to defy Senator Sheppard's warning. Lasser may rely upon two notable precedents:

1. The justice department did nothing when President Roosevelt autographed Democratic convention books which were sold for $250 a copy.

2. The justice department did nothing when many government officials purchased $100 plates at the Democratic Jackson day dinners to provide funds for others receiving compensation from the government.

PEDDLER TELLS COURT HOW HE FOUND BODY OF OSTEOPATH'S WIFE

Laclede, Mo., Aug. 30.—(AP)—An itinerant magazine salesman turned Dr. William Lamance's preliminary hearing on a wife murder charge into an uproar today by saying he found the body in the Lamance fruit cellar three days before officers did. The salesman, Irwin Harbough, testified he pretended to keep on hunting with the osteopath for Ella Lamance.

"Why didn't you tell Dr. Lamance?" roared Lon R. Owen, attorney for the osteopath, who once was a prize fighter. Harbough said he was afraid.

10,000 ASSEMBLE FOR CONVENTION OF ILLINOIS G. O. P.

Drafting of Platform Is Principal Task.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The advance guard of the 10,000 Illinois Republicans expected for the state convention tomorrow arrived here tonight. They found the convention machinery in good working order.

Simon E. Lantz.

A tentative draft of the platform was completed late in the evening by the pre-convention platform committee under the chairmanship of Edward A. Hayes of Decatur. It will be submitted to the resolutions committee, which may send it to the floor in its present state or amend it.

Hayes said the document was about 1,500 words long. While no announcements were made as to its contents, the rough draft was said to include the following points:

1. Condemnation of the principle of sitdown strikes by workers to enforce their demands in industrial disputes.

2. Raising the state old age pension to a minimum of $30 monthly and reforming the pension administration.

3. A demand that social security funds be kept in a separate trust fund instead of being used, as at present, for current governmental expenditures.

A farm plank was being drafted by State Senator Simon E. Lantz, nominee for congressman at large.

Campaign Ammunition Ready.

When the delegates receive their official programs tomorrow morning they will find a wealth of campaign material against both the Roosevelt and Horner administrations.

The section of the booklet devoted to the Horner administration assailed the governor's sincerity in his anti-boss campaign.

One particularly hot section reads as follows:

"The reuniting of Boss Horner and the Kelly-Nash forces on Governor's day at the state fair a few days ago represents the boldest insult that could be offered to the citizens of Illinois.

"Once more it demonstrated the hypocrisy of Boss Horner and his supposed crusade against bossism. If Mayor Kelly of Chicago and National Committeeman P. A. Nash are the vile bosses that Boss Horner has on numerous occasions declared them to be, then Boss Horner has very little regard for the state of Illinois when he shares the governing power with such men.

"If Mayor Kelly and Mr. Nash are not guilty of the charges made against them by Boss Horner, then Boss Horner has merely used a subterfuge to retain his own political power, and is himself guilty of the lowest type of political trickery.

"In either event, the governor of Illinois, who has turned out to be the greediest boss in our state's history, should explain to the citizens of Illinois the reasons for his conduct."

Lyons Is Keynoter.

Richard J. Lyons, the senatorial nominee, will be the keynoter tomorrow. The convention will be called to order at noon, Chicago time, by A. K. Stiles, state chairman, who will yield the gavel to Congressman Everett M. Dirksen of Pekin, the permanent chairman.

Scerial Thompson of Harrisburg, an attorney for the United Mine Workers of America, tried to induce the platform drafters that they should include a condemnation of the leadership of National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton, Herbert Hoover, and Alfred M. Landon. He would have the convention substitute and commend the "wise guidance of Abraham Lincoln, William McKinley and Calvin Coolidge."

The preconvention committee chose, however, to refer the matter to the resolutions committee. It was believed the Thompson motion would be defeated.

NOT GUILTY, SAYS JEALOUS SLAYER OF WIFE'S LOVER

Trial of Rudolph Sikora Is Set for Sept. 26.

Rudolph Sikora looked hopefully about the courtroom yesterday for his dark eyed young wife. And then, realizing she was not there, he entered his plea to the charge that he murdered the man who had won her from him:

"Not guilty."

In the back of the courtroom, his wife's mother beamed approval as she sat with his kinsmen. She has sided with him against her daughter, Margaret Sikora. Margaret's refusal to return to young Sikora is blamed by his mother-in-law for the killing.

Sikora shot Edward Solomon to death Aug. 22, across the street from Solomon's home at 1463 Winnemac avenue.

Trial Set for Sept. 26.

Sikora was calm when he was brought before Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court. The young husband was wearing a brown sport coat and black trousers.

Judge Harrington assigned the trial to Judge James Fardy and set the date for Sept. 26.

Sikora, who is 31 years old, was arraigned immediately after he had been indicted by the grand jury. The indictment was hurriedly voted after the grand jury had heard the story of police, the victim's brother, Paul Solomon; Mrs. Sikora's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Boehme, and Mrs. Sikora.

Wife Tells of Romance.

Mrs. Sikora, already known to the courtroom fans as Margaret, came to the inquiry room in a trim black suit.

Without hesitation, it was reported, she told of her romance with Solomon. It began a month before her marriage to Sikora, and flourished because she and Solomon worked in the same accounting office. Solomon was 35 years old, 13 years older than Margaret. He was handsome, urbane, college bred.

And although Sikora was her ideal of what a good husband should be, he lacked the glamor Solomon had. Eventually, Margaret is said to have told the grand jurors, she broke with her husband and told him she was going to Solomon. She spurned her husband's pleading, and went to see her lawyer about a divorce. When she returned to their home at 3221 Cullom avenue she found her husband had changed the lock. She went to live at 2241 Bissell street.

Tell Story of Slaying.

Other witnesses told the rest of the story: that Sikora, stung by jealousy, stalked Solomon as he bought a newspaper and shot him down with a target pistol.

Margaret's mother, summoned to the grand jury room, began a recital of the virtues of her son-in-law. The grand jurors, regarding this as irrelevant, had her led out.

BAILIF INJURED IN PRAIRIE CRASH DIES IN HOSPITAL

Joseph Kolin, 35 years old, passenger in a ten year old plane which went out of control and crashed in a prairie at 65th street and Springfield avenue Sunday, died early today in Holy Cross hospital.

Kolin, a Municipal court bailif, lived at 1614 South Loomis street. He had paid $1.50 for a fifteen minute ride. Also injured were another passenger, Bert Kuchis, 28, 3939 West 65th place, and the pilot, Raymond Chevedden, 37.

The crash occurred only a few hundred yards from the Kuchis home. Kuchis had asked the pilot to pass over his house so that he might drop his cap. At 1,000 feet the plane went into a spin, but Chevedden managed to land it in pancake fashion.

DEPUTIES SLAY 2 OUTLAWS IN PISTOL BATTLE

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Two unidentified gunmen were slain today when they shot at three deputy sherifs who stopped them for questioning. The deputies escaped unscathed. They are expert marksmen.

Finger prints of the pair could not be found in files of city or state police. The prints were sent to Washington and the bureau of investigation reported the slain pair probably were John Bowman and Tilghman Van Acker, fugitives from the Texas state prison. They registered under false names in a hotel here last night.

Their automobile, parked in the hotel garage, bore stolen Iowa license plates. In the car were a rifle, a police dog, and two sets of stolen Arkansas automobile license plates.

LOOP'S BOOKIES ELUDE AX MEN; POLICE FIND FOUR

Demolition Squads Wreck Six Other Places.

Both city police and State's Attorney Courtney's ax squads were active in raiding gambling joints yesterday.

28 The prosecutor put six squads in the field. They demolished six books, bringing their total to twenty-eight for the campaign, but reported that thirty-five others which they had orders to wreck were locked up tight. Capt. Daniel Gilbert, head of the state's attorney's police detail, said informers had told him that all of the big loop gambling spots were either closed or restricting entrance to a few select patrons.

4 Raided in Loop.

About the same time squads sent out by Capt. George O'Connor of the 1st district and Acting Supervising Captain Martin Mullen of the morals division raided four downtown handbooks. They made arrests in each place, but did not damage furnishings.

"We are after the big joints," Capt. Gilbert said. "There are small books still running in the loop, but the big ones which have been given the ax are closed and will stay closed."

The loop raids were at 20 East Lake street, 169 West Madison street, 63 West Randolph street, and 10 South Clark street. Raids and arrests were also made at three south side spots.

The demolition squad that was sent into the loop didn't unsheath its axes. It finished its day with the report it could find no loop betting joint open.

Capt. Dan Gilbert, head of the prosecutor's police detail, said informers had told him loop books were either shut down or were running behind closed doors, turning away all but a few favorite customers.

Until a few days ago, many of the books did not bother even to lock their front doors, although they kept doormen on duty.

Forty-five Defendants Freed.

City police continued to run against a blank wall yesterday in their efforts to convict gamblers before Municipal Judge Eugene Holland. He dismissed forty-five defendants on gambling charges, the majority because they had been arrested without search warants.

In two cases, where police had obtained warants, Judge Holland sustained defense motions to dismiss evidence, destroying the prosecution case. He quoted a Supreme court opinion in which he said it was held that the use of wall sheets, listing entries in a horse race and the numbers by which the horses are designated in the "call" by the telephone racing service, are not evidence of gambling.

Hearings Become Routine.

So routine have the hearings before Judge Holland become that yesterday he reprimanded two defendants, Tony Calcia and Clarence Crappo, arrested in a handbook at 321 South La Salle street, for starting to walk out of court while their hearing was still in progress.

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday set for hearing on Sept. 27 a petition that the commission require the telephone and other utility companies to deny all services to handbooks and other illegal business.

A raid in the 24th ward by an ax squad yesterday disclosed that Ben Zuckerman, lieutenant of Ald. Jacob M. Arvey, the Democratic committeeman, had set up a new handbook after having one wrecked ten days ago. As on the previous occasion, when the ax squads wrecked his book at 3124 Roosevelt road, Zuckerman was not present when the raiders arrived.

Two in 26th Ward.

Lieut. Charles Egan and his squad destroyed two handbook rooms in the 26th ward, in which Ald. Frank E. Konkowski is the Democratic committeeman. Their first call was at 1752 Chicago avenue, where they found 100 women and 200 men placing bets in a large well furnished room behind a cigar store.

The second raid was on a smaller handbook at 822 North Ashland avenue, also behind a cigar store. There Bernard Cygan and Leo Wolkowicz were arrested.

Sergt. Thomas Cooper and a squad routed 200 men and 40 women from a book at 7631 North Paulina street, which they then proceeded to wreck. They arrested Sol Shapiro, 2214 Granville avenue, and Edward Meyer, 2234 37th street. This place was in the 49th ward, for which Ald. Frank Keenan is the Democratic committeeman.

Small and Luxurious.

Two more raids in the same ward hit small but luxuriously furnished handbooks which the raiders reported were patronized principally by women. Sergt. James McInerney raided one of these places, behind a cigar store near the "L" at 1401 Morse avenue.

Sergt. Ernest Sloey found 250 players, most of them women, in a nicely furnished handbook at 2009 Howard street, at the city limits. Here Bob Lozar, 5043 North Troy street, the owner, and Nate Gomberg, 1528 Pratt boulevard, cashier, were arrested. This place also had several poker tables at which games were run during the evening.

Thomas McGrath, a "model boy," was sentenced yesterday to a year to life on three charges of robbery with a gun. The sentences will run concurrently. The youth, who is 17 years old, lived at 6426 Stony Island avenue with a Chinese family. Howard Wong, a son of the family and McGrath's schoolmate, was arrested as the lookout in the robberies, and turned over to the juvenile authorities.

Judge Joseph Sabath denied a motion for probation. "I'm sorry," said Sabath, "but when a young man comes into court and admits carrying a loaded gun for purposes of robbery, I have no choice."

Jesse Johnson, colored, was returned to Chicago yesterday from Brookhaven, Miss., to stand trial for the holdup murder of Wesley Van Norman, south side manufacturer. Johnson and two other Negroes who are in custody have admitted their part in the slaying.

STEALS FUNERAL FUNDS; CHARGED WITH BURGLARY

Walter Grisa, 23 years old, who stole his grandmother's funeral fund and used it all up in joy rides, was formally charged with burglary last night at the Englewood police station. Grisa has a criminal record extending over seven years.

Mrs. Mary Grisa, 6847 South Ada street, his grandmother, is 87 years old. She is visiting at Gleason, Wis. When she heard of the theft yesterday she said the fund was $250 instead of $200, as first reported.

Grisa has served a term at the Vandalia state prison farm and a year in the Bridewell. His father, Gus, signed the complaint on which he was booked.

Dentist Dies Suddenly When Painting in Office

Dr. Oliver Worden, 52 years old, died last night of a heart attack while painting the floor of his dental office at 3001 North Central Park avenue. His body was discovered by police who sought to learn why his office light was burning late. Dr. Worden is survived by his widow and a son, Edmund. He lived at 6350 Indian road.

SALESMAN CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Robert Finnegan, 59 years old, 7917 Oglesby avenue, died last night of injuries incurred earlier in the day when he was crushed in a fall of goods in a freight car. He was a salesman for a sash and door company at 1435 West 37th street.

BRITISH CABINET DEFERS SENDING HITLER WARNING

Shies at Enraging Nazi Dictator by Note.

ing. He will not deliver any messages to Hitler unless the Nazi dictator appears to be making irrevocable decisions in Nuremberg next week.

There was no indication in the cabinet's statement that Britain and perhaps France would march to the aid of Czechoslovakia if Germany attacks the republic under circumstances which would permit the war to be kept purely local.

[The French cabinet yesterday reaffirmed the nation's determination to help Czechoslovakia in case of a German invasion.]

Every one had expected the cabinet would approve making some kind of approach to Hitler through private and diplomatic channels. The public had believed that the government would tell the Fuehrer in more precise language than Simon used that Britain would fight if he starts a general war by assaulting the Czechs.

Approves Simon's Speech.

But this did not happen. It was only disclosed that the cabinet gave full approval to Simon's speech. It felt that all who cared to read could deduce from it the British government's outlook on the problem confronting Europe.

There has been talk of a disagreement in the cabinet. Some back Simon's viewpoint. Others support another group which believes that war more likely would be avoided if the British came out and said clearly where they stood. The upshot of the meeting seemed to indicate that Simon and the pro-German element in the cabinet are leading for the time being.

Public Remains Calm.

Anyway, the population remained calm in the face of what should, on its face value, be an alarming moment. Chamberlain tonight left for Balmoral, Scotland, where he will remain for three days in attendance on the king, as it is called in Britain.

All members of the cabinet dispersed after the meeting. They do not expect to be recalled for at least three weeks, although they are remaining in easy reach of London.

Charles Corbin, French ambassador to London, will return to London tomorrow. It is believed he will have a conversation with Halifax.

Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to London, returned to London hastily after a vacation on the Riviera and conferred with Chamberlain this afternoon. The prime minister was reported to have given Kennedy a full report of the whole situation.

Hope to Scare Hitler.

This threatening but noncommittal diplomatic activity is intended to have its effect on Hitler. The British hope he will be so scared that he will not dare make any wild speeches or take any irrevocable steps in Nuremberg. It is realized that national sentiment will be whipped up to fever heat by Hitler and his leaders at the Nazi convention which will be attended by the Sudeten German delegation.

It might even be that through private diplomatic channels Ambassador Henderson will convey renewed hints to Hitler to behave if he wants to keep on the good side of the British. However, the British say they do not want to rile up Hitler and therefore will avoid any appearance of a rebuff that might come from a new and more precise public statement of British policy.

RAISE WAR RISK FOR AMERICANS' PLANTS ABROAD

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—War risk insurance rates on American property in Europe have doubled, in general, during the last week and today these rates were fluctuating hourly according to executives of the American Foreign Insurance association. Rates vary sharply according to location and character of the risk, it was explained.

The companies operating through the association are continuing to offer protection both to American shipments and American property abroad for any property holders who are willing to pay what the insurance companies consider to be reasonable rates, it was said.

Variation in rates because of location results from two considerations it was explained. For example, property in Czechoslovakia would command higher rates than in the Netherlands, and property situated near known military objectives also would carry higher rates than similar property that was more isolated.

War risk insurance, it was explained, applies to actual destruction of property by warlike operations, whether or not war is declared.

Bermuda Gets War Jitters as German Warship Arrives

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 30.—Bermuda has the war jitters. The German cruiser Emden arrived today for a visit until Saturday. It anchored at Granaway Deep, two miles from Hamilton. All the ships of the British West Indies fleet are cruising elsewhere and rumors are current that a British cruiser has been ordered to Bermuda "just in case." The Emden has 150 cadets aboard and is accompanied by an oil tanker.

Sacred Gate, Weakened by Japanese Floods, Collapses

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Aug. 30.—The largest torii, a gateway which corresponds to the Christian cross, in the Minatogawa shrine at Kobe, suddenly collapsed today because of the summer floods. Thousands of worshipers were close to the torii, but none was injured. The torii, of stone, forty-one feet high and weighing 183,400 pounds, collapsed with a roar, caving in the ground. Dust enveloped the shrine. Nearby windows and street lights were broken. The Japanese consider the lack of deaths as the direct intervention of the Shinto gods.

NAZIS TURN DOWN NEW CZECH PLAN TO END DISPUTE

Spurn Compromise Before It Is Made Public.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 30.—The people of this city today showed complete recovery from the nervousness they exhibited yesterday. The renewed hopefulness rested, however, entirely on news from abroad and the conviction that the British cabinet had decided to make it clear that Reichsfuehrer Hitler must expect an attack from Great Britain if he attacks Czechoslovakia.

So far as Prague itself was concerned, there was less hope than ever of reaching some solution of the Sudeten German problem, and thus depriving Hitler of a pretext for going to war. The chief event of the day was a meeting between President Eduard Benes and two heads of the Sudeten German party. They were Deputy Ernst Kundt, chairman of the negotiations delegation, and Dr. Wilhelm Sebekovsky, press chief for Konrad Henlein, chief of the party.

Reject Peace Proposal.

The two Sudeten Germans were closeted with Benes for more than an hour in the latter's quarters in Hradczany castle, which towers above the city on the bank of the Moldau [Vltava] river. They came out with set, tense faces, and refused to say a word for publication.

Later it was learned that they had told Benes there was no chance that the Sudeten Germans would accept the new proposals being prepared by Premier Milan Hodza and his cabinet for solution of the minorities question.

The main lines of the government's project, whatever it may be—it is almost certainly a scheme for dividing the country up into cantons—already are known to the Sudeten Germans. Officially their story is that they still know nothing of the plan, and therefore they cannot be said either to have accepted or rejected it.

Inner Cabinet Meets.

Not discouraged by this event, Premier Hodza later called a session of the inner cabinet—the so-called committee of political ministers—and made further progress with the new plan.

The work will continue at top speed in order that it may be presented to the Sudeten Germans in its entirety before the opening of the Nazi party rally in Nuremberg, Germany, on Sept. 5.

Since it is believed in Prague that Hitler, in this rally, will ask the world to authorize a plebiscite in the Sudeten territory, the government is anxious to have its project before the world first in order to deprive Hitler's proposition of any appearance of reasonableness.

Nazis Want New Ireland.

Viscount Runciman, British mediator in the Czech-German dispute, today received a delegation of Sudeten German trade union leaders. Runciman and his staf are putting pressure on Henlein to make the latter give up his uncompromising stand.

Tonight the Sudeten party bulletin came out with an appeal to Runciman and the British public to favor solution of the Sudeten problem on the same lines as the arrangement between Great Britain and the Irish Free State [now Ireland].

France Warns Hitler It Will Fight for Czechoslovakia

PARIS, Aug. 30. — (AP) — Premier Edouard Daladier's government today affirmed once more France's determination to march to the aid of Czechoslovakia in case of a German invasion.

Georges Bonnet.

A foreign ministry spokesman announced tonight that Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet emphasized this stand during a two hour review of the German-Czechoslovak issue before the cabinet and that the policy was voted full approval by the ministers.

The spokesman said no new note would be sent to Berlin immediately lest it arouse further animosity, but that the French position already had been made clear to the German government in recent contacts.

Decree Longer Work Week.

The government coupled its action with an urgent decree stepping up the working hours of defense industries, public services, and plants working "for the public safety," while motorized army units held war games near the German frontier.

Government orders were expected soon putting into actual effect today's decree empowering the government to extend working hours beyond the present 40 hour week. Signed by President Lebrun and every cabinet member as evidence of solidarity, the decree gave the government virtual power to mobilize French industry for war. Under it the government can abandon the 40 hour week in any other industries it deems necesary.

[The French government is empowered to rule by decree until parliament meets next autumn. At that time parliament will pass judgment on the government's actions.]

30,000 Troops Maneuver.

The war game in the Besançon region, coming shortly before British naval maneuvers in the North sea, were considered by some sources as an exposition of both French and British defense equipment.

Involving some 30,000 crack troops, the Besançon maneuvers in the region where the French, German, and Swiss frontiers meet were scheduled before the present crisis arose. An unconfirmed report, however, said France would keep its troops mustered for maneuvers just as long as Germany maintains its forces, estimated in France at 2,000,000, under arms for annual fall maneuvers.

The French general staf decided to take the unusual step of replacing troops on maneuvers with reserves. The 14th division moved into the garrison at Valdahon to replace the 13th, although the latter was waging mimic warfare only a mile away.

[The artillery of the American 33d division was trained at Valdahon during the world war. Two regiments, the 123d [howitzers] and the 124th [75s], lived there. The 122d regiment was billeted in lower and upper Valdahon and adjoining towns.]

HULL CONFERS WITH PRESIDENT ON CZECH CRISIS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The German-Czech crisis attracted grave attention here today. Officials took the view that Europe is at a cross-roads, and that a choice between the roads marked "peace" and "war" may be made soon.

President Roosevelt conferred with Secretary of State Cordell Hull for a half hour on the international situation. Both refused to comment on their conference.

Prior to going to the White House, Hull conferred with his advisers from the European division of the department. On his return he called a number of high officials of the department into his office for a conference.

At present every American ambassador or minister in strategic centers is at his post. They are keeping in close touch with fast moving events in Europe. The opinion here is that the convention next week of the Nazi party at Nuremberg may be the climax of the German-Czech crisis.

Mysterious Fire Covers Three Nations with Smoke

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 30.—Enormous smoke clouds passed over Finland, Sweden, and Norway this evening, stretching as far north as Lekhand and as far south as the Baltic states. There was a strong smell of forest fire. Fire brigades and police searched the countryside for forest fires but found none. It is thought an immense fire must be raging in Russia.

GERMAN CZECHS RULED BY FEAR, LEADER CHARGES

Tells Nazi Warnings to Million Voters.

Konrad Henlein, Nazi leader of the Czechoslovak German minority, gained his power through terror. Many of his 1,000,000 followers are expected to desert him for the Czech army if Hitler invades Czechoslovakia. The Czechoslovak government was on the road toward satisfying German minority grievances when Hitler stopped negotiations.

Willi Wanka.

Those statements were made here yesterday by Willi Wanka, 28 year old leader of the youth division of the German Social Democratic [anti-Nazi] party of Czechoslovakia.

Wanka is touring this country after attending the second World Youth congress last week at Vassar college.

Tells Voters' Fear.

"Most of the million German Czechs who voted for Henlein's party in recent elections did so because they feared they would be placed in concentration camp if they didn't," Wanka declared. "For months our people have received warnings such as 'Join Henlein or lose your job when Hitler comes' and 'If you love your family follow Henlein.'"

In spite of these warnings, said Wanka, 200,000 voted for his German Social Democratic party.

"When Sudeten Germans go to their factories they often find Nazi warnings attached to the machines they are to operate," he added.

"We are confident that the majority of the German group will join the Czechs if Hitler invades. In Czechoslovakia we Germans have freedom of press, speech, organization, and religion. We would have none of those under Nazi rule.

"We have two principal grievances in Czechoslovakia. We want a proportionate representation of Germans in civil positions and an equal right to use the German language in the lower courts. The government was adjusting these difficulties when Hitler stepped in.

Peace Possible, He Says.

"It is absolutely possible to solve the German minority problem on a democratic basis in a peaceful way."

Wanka's party has eleven seats out of 300 in the Czechoslovak parliament. Henlein's party control fifty-five seats. There are eighteen political parties in the country.

Wanka will address the Chicago Heights Kiwanis club at a luncheon meeting today, and on Sunday will talk at a gathering of American Czechoslovaks at Pilsen park. About 4,000 are expected to attend the Sunday meeting.

SYMPATHY OF RUMANIA AND JUGO-SLAVIA WITH CZECHS IN NAZI CRISIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Aug. 30.—Officials indicated today that the sympathies of Jugo-Slavia and Rumania were with Czechoslovakia. They denied, however, that these nations sent warnings to Berlin not to march into Czech territory.

Newspapers counseled the public not to be alarmed, saying war was not expected immediately. The Balkan capitals were calm in the face of the German-Czech crisis over the German minority in Czechoslovakia.

One official asserted that the Balkans would remain neutral in case of war. Another asserted that war would aid Premier Milan Stoyadinovich of Jugo-Slavia in realizing his plan for a United States of the Balkans.

CZECH MOB RULE OF NAZIS CHARGED BY BERLIN PAPER

Press Plays Up Stories of "Violence."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—War fever is being whipped to a frenzy by Nazi newspapers. They are printing headlines such as: "Sudeten Germans in dire distress—Bloody terror of Czech bands—Unleashed mob roars through tortured country—Help refused."

They were published in the semi-official newspaper Der Angriff. Many similar sensational headlines appeared in other German papers.

The government controled press intimated that Germany expects the British government to help Germany "liberate the Sudeten land."

Paper Describes Violences.

Violences described in Der Angriff, organ of Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister, included the "destruction on Sunday of the entire furnishings of the Stump saloon in Gabersdorf, which belongs to a Sudeten German leader." The paper said the place was destroyed by "gangs of Czechs working on fortifications in the region."

The press referred to these men as "organized terrorist gangs."

On Monday the gangs smashed the windows of the saloon and started a regular siege of the whole village, said the newspaper story.

Police Stop Firemen.

The Nazis charged that the local police were too weak to fight the invaders and that the fire department turned hoses on them. The Germans further asserted that police stopped the activities of the firemen in order to "not anger the Czechs too much."

Military help which was summoned by the police had not arrived, the press said, but the "Czechs retreated at midnight hurling invectives at the Sudeten Germans."

Der Angriff said that two Sudeten Germans were injured with knives during the battle at the Stump saloon. This incident was used to explain the headline: "Blood Terror of Czech Bands."

Still Expect British Support.

A feeling that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain and Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, will support Germany when the final showdown in the Sudeten German minority issue takes place, continued to exist in Berlin.

Nazi officials pointed out that Sir Nevile Henderson, the British ambassador to Berlin, had warned the British government that Germany will not stand for further delay in granting Sudeten Germans the self-government they are clamoring for.

"Hitler's patience is at an end," the officials said.

Henderson, who reported Germany's attitude to the British government, was scheduled to see Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler Friday.

New military reservists and workers drafted to dig trenches and build fortifications are being hustled daily toward the eastern and western borders of Germany. Authorities had hoped the veteran soldiers would recover their military ability in short training courses. It soon was discovered that many of the reservists did not adapt themselves so easily to military routine. Many were handicapped because of anxiety over the welfare of their wives and children.

Germans' Income Drops.

The vast majority of Germans earn just enough to make both ends meet. They now find their families are compelled to live, at the utmost, on half of their normal income. This is because most employers only can afford to pay a fraction of what their employés normally earn. The government foots the rent bill, which the landlord must slash by 10 and 20 per cent. A small sum is added for the daily needs of the family.

Realizing that heads of families will not make crack soldiers, military authorities warned conscripts whose two years of service expire in September or early October that they must remain on duty at least until the end of October.

Formerly the drilled conscripts were sent home a few weeks before new men reported for duty. This lull will be avoided this year.

Charges Nazis Garble Facts.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The official press bureau said today ten boys, from 8 to 12 years old, were involved in a knife fight at Horatitz in the Saaz district Aug. 20. The bureau declared one Czech, one German, and one Slovak were wounded.

The German radio, the bureau said, picked up an account of the affair ten days later, but suppressed the fact that two others besides the German were wounded.

The inquest into the death of Policeman Patrick E. O'Malley was continued yesterday to Oct. 6 to allow more time to search for the three Negro bandits who escaped after the fatal shooting. The three suspects sought are Lucius Webb, Henry Napue, and Howard Poe.

O'Malley, who was 31 years old, died early yesterday morning from bullet wounds received Aug. 21 when he engaged in a gun battle with four robbers in a cocktail lounge at 2405 North Clark street. A fifth gunman waited outside. One of the invaders, Trussie Townsend, was killed, and another, George Hamer, was later arrested when he applied for medical aid.

Solemn requiem mass will be said at 10 a. m. Friday for O'Malley at St. Clement church, 642 Deming place. Burial will be at Mount Carmel cemetery.

BARBED WIRE ON SWISS FRONTIER KEEPS OUT JEWS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]
GENEVA, Aug. 30.—Barbed wire has been strung along the Swiss-Austrian frontier to help keep Jewish refugees out of this country, the Journal de Geneve said today. This and other police measures, the paper said, have cut off the "flood." A fortnight ago Jews were entering Switzerland secretly at the rate of 140 daily.

"It would be premature to affirm that all danger is over," the paper added. "According to some sources several hundred men and women now in Voralberg [just across the frontier] are only waiting the propitious moment to enter Switzerland, which to these unfortunates is the promised land."

NAVY TO ASK 200 MILLIONS EXTRA TO BUILD SHIPS

Leahy Outlines Program After Conference.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The navy expects to ask congress next year for 200 million dollars more than was provided for the current year, Admiral William D. Leahy said today after conferring with President Roosevelt. The regular appropriation for this year is $546,866,494.

The needed increase is due almost entirely to the added cost of carrying forward the billion dollar fleet expansion program which congress approved this year, the admiral said. He added that next year's construction program contemplates two battleships, four cruisers, eight destroyers, and six or eight submarines.

Fit to Meet All Comers.

Admiral Leahy, the navy's top ranking officer, said in an article in the seventy-fifth anniversary number of the Army and Navy journal that when the navy's present building program is completed, the fleet should be adequate to protect the country against any foreign naval force now contemplated.

The admiral said that with the present construction program the United States will have for the first time in its history "a homogeneous fleet, well balanced and equipped with modern weapons and machinery."

Claude A. Swanson, secretary of the navy, in a journal article revealed that when the existing naval program is completed the navy will comprise 272 fighting vessels with a total tonnage of 1,517,480 tons.

List of Fighting Craft.

In the completed fleet, he said, will be 18 battleships of 630,000 tons, 28 light cruisers of 232,525 tons, 144 destroyers of 228,000 tons, 18 heavy cruisers of 180,000 tons, 8 aircraft carriers of 165,000 tons, and 56 submarines of 82,000 tons.

The tonnage of the navy will approximate 2 million tons, the secretary said, with the auxiliaries either built, under construction, or authorized.

Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring said in a statement in the journal that increased appropriations will be asked to speed the army's mechanization program and that the air defense must be greatly accelerated.

BODY IN SEINE MAY BE THAT OF TROTZKY AID

PARIS, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Detectives working to establish identity of a headless and legless body found in the Seine river near Meulan reported today that two members of the International Workers [Trotzkyist] party said it appeared to be that of Rudolf Klement, former private secretary of Leon Trotzky, exiled former soviet Russian, war commissar.

Klement disappeared on July 13. Party officials charged he had been kidnaped by soviet agents to aid prospective trials against revolutionary leaders in Barcelona.

Japs Open Full Power

(Story in adjoining column.)

Japanese struck forward today on many fronts in China. (1) Fords of the Yellow river are menaced, (2) the Tungkwan "gateway" to Shensi province is under attack, (3) Hwoshan was captured, (4) the Chinese key town of Kwangtsi is the next objective, and (5) Teian is the goal of a southward drive.

JAP CHIEF CALLS FOR BIGGER ARMY ON SOVIET FRONT

TOKIO, Aug. 30.—(AP)—War minister Lieut. Gen. Seishiro Itagaki called for a strengthening of Japanese forces on the Siberian frontier today and listed the conditions of peace in the Chinese war.

"Our border strength in Manchukuo must be increased," he said in an interview in the newspaper Nichi Nichi. "More incidents like Changkufeng are likely to occur. [Changkufeng is a hill on the Corean-Siberian-Manchukuo frontier where soviet Russian and Japanese troops clashed between July 11 and Aug. 11, when a truce was reached.] Our border forces have been sacrificed to the fighting in China. They must be replenished, particularly the air force."

Gen. Itagaki, who on July 25 predicted a ten year conflict to conquer the Chinese, expressed doubt that Japan would accept even an unconditional surrender from the Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, and repeated his determination to crush the present Chinese régime. He declared if the Chinese would depose the leader and offer to surrender, Japan would accept only on condition that the nationalist government merge with the present pro-Japanese régimes in Nanking and Peking.

JAPANESE FORGE AHEAD ON DRIVES IN SIX PROVINCES

Win Towns Near Yangtze and Yellow Rivers.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Japanese reports from scattered sectors of central and north China said today the Japanese command was loosing its full power in principal and secondary drives to crush Chinese resistance.

Japanese troops, fighting Chinese forces as well as the natural obstacles of heat, flooding rivers and mountains, were said to have captured twelve towns in the past three days.

The provinces touched by this patchwork of war fronts were Kiangsi, Hupeh, Anhwei, Honan, Shensi, and Shansi. The most important towns reported occupied were Juichang, Hwoshan, and Liuan on the Yangtze river, or Hankow front, and and Fengling on the Yellow river front.

Threaten Many Objectives.

Japanese armies announced they were threatening the following objectives:

1. Teian, a Kiukiang-Nanchang railway town. It is thirty miles south of Kiukiang which is the principal base of Japanese operations southeast of Hankow.

2. Kwangtsi, the pivot of the Chinese line in southeastern Hupeh province. The town is 120 miles southeast of Hankow.

3. Tungkwan, Shensi province town at the great bend of the Yellow river nearly 400 miles northwest of Hankow.

4. Numerous fords along the Yellow river from Loyang, northwest Honan, eastward.

5. Honan-Anhwei border points which the Japanese were said to be approaching after occupation of Liuan and Hwoshan in southwestern Anhwei.

The Japanese said their swiftest progress was in the Hwoshan sector and along both banks of the Yangtze. Juichang, twenty-five miles west of Kiukiang, was said to have fallen to a column on the south bank. The column now is within 100 miles of Hankow.

Fire Barrage Across River.

Within the great bend of the Yellow river, Japanese troops were said to have occupied Fengling, opposite Tungkwan and to have placed Tungkwan under Japanese shellfire across the river.

The Japanese said that by occupation of Fengling they threatened the defense of the western end of the Lunghai railway which terminates in Shensi province at Sian. They said their envelopment of Fengling caught thousands of Chinese who sought to flee across the Yellow river only to be caught in Chinese-Japanese crossfire. Many of them were said to have perished.

Japanese airmen continued bombing along the Yangtze to assist land and naval forces. The flyers extended their operations to the northwest of Hankow. Advices from Hankow said an estimated 1,000 persons were killed when 200 bombs were dropped on Kinshan.

Nineteen Chinese planes were said by Chinese officials to have shot down six Japanese bombers near Shuikwan, on the Canton-Hankow railway in northeastern Kwangtung province.

STALIN'S ARM BROKEN IN CRASH; CHAUFFEUR SEIZED, LONDON HEARS

[New York Times-London Mirror Cable.]
LONDON, Aug. 30.—Josef Stalin, dictator of soviet Russia, suffered a broken arm in an automobile accident yesterday which brought fatal injuries to one GPU guard, and left another critically hurt, reports here tonight said.

The account of the accident was supported by a Moscow dispatch in the official Polish newspaper, Kurjer Czerwony, which said specialists had been called to Stalin's bedside, and that while his injury was causing no special anxiety, his state duties had been canceled.

Stalin's driver for the last ten years, Erik Schultze, has been arrested, accused of sabotage against Stalin, the dispatch said.

The GPU charged that Schultze, who was born in Germany, was acting on behalf of that country.

BATTLE RELAXES ON ALL PRINCIPAL FRONTS IN SPAIN

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish frontier], Aug. 30.—(AP)—The Spanish civil war lapsed into a new stalemate today, rebel and government dispatches indicated. There were only minor raids and advance guard skirmishes on all fronts.

On the Ebro river front of northeastern Spain the struggle which was started on July 25 by the government's surprise offensive in southern Catalonia appeared to have ended, temporarily at least, with the government still clinging to the west bank of the river.

On the Estremadura front of southwestern Spain, where lines have been remodeled by a rebel offensive and government counteroffensive within the past six weeks, both sides were reported resting.

TAMMANY CHIEF DEALS BLOW TO HINES DEFENSE

Curry Tells of Police Transfers.

the police commissioner, who always carried them out. The police commissioner in 1933, when Hines is alleged to have obtained transfer of officers who molested the racketeers, was James S. Bolan, a Tammany appointee.

Testifies About Requests.

"How many of these requests did you get in a year?" asked Dewey.

"O, between twenty-five and fifty," answered Curry.

"Did Hines make these requests?" asked the district attorney.

"Yes," replied Curry.

"When those requests were made did you ever inquire into the reason for the change?" continued Dewey.

"Never," replied the witness.

Curry's testimony caused a sensation in the courtroom. It was delivered in the silence of a graveyard at midnight. Since the organization of Tammany hall in 1789, on the heels of the establishment of the federal government, it has been a tradition that Tammany sachems kept their fights within their wigwam, never airing them in public, least of all in the trial of one of their number.

Police Captain on Stand.

Just before Curry was called, Police Captain William P. Bennett took the stand to testify regarding the transfer of men under his command who had been raiding policy banks and drop stations for the slips recording the bets. He said Chief Inspector John O'Brien, commander of the 18,000 men on New York's uniformed force, called him in on three different occasions and arbitrarily ordered him to move out his men.

This was in the fall of 1933. Weinberg had testified he went to Hines and demanded the transfer of the men in the chief inspector's office who persisted in policy raids.

"Did you ask the chief inspector why the transfers were being made?" asked Dewey.

"Yes, I said the men were entitled to know, that I didn't think they were getting a fair break," Capt. Bennett replied.

"What did he say?"

"He told me it was on the orders of the police commissioner," answered the police captain.

Officer Tells of Transfer.

Sergt. Thomas W. Gray, a veteran of twenty-five years on the force, preceded the captain on the stand and told how he had been removed from his duties in plain clothes and put back in uniform after leading numerous raids on policy game banks and drop stations.

"That's commonly known as being 'broken,' isn't it?" Dewey asked.

Stryker jumped to his feet with an objection and a demand for a mistrial. Judge Pecora granted the objection but denied the second motion.

James M. Canavan, a detective now attached to Dewey's office, said that he lost his standing as a plain clothes man and had his salary cut by $240 annually when he continued to arrest policy game workers.

Warned by Schultz's Aid.

Otto [Abadaba] Berman, Schultz aid who was killed with the gang leader in a Newark saloon in 1935, warned Canavan that the gang was working on his transfer several months before it was effected. The $240 had been added to Canavan's yearly salary of $3,000 [basic for a New York patrolman] for excellent work.

A similar experience befell Raymond R. Stilly. Stilly said his salary was cut and he was sent back to "pounding a beat" after Weinberg had threatened him with a transfer.

Edward J. McCarthy, another policeman who was transferred, said he and his partner, Robert Jones, were shifted from plain clothes to uniforms after they arrested Lulu Rosenzranz, Schultz's bodyguard.

"I'll get you'se for this," McCarthy quoted Rosencranz as telling him.

"That's the plural of 'you,' I suppose," remarked Stryker on cross-examination.

Court Record Read.

At the morning session Dewey produced the record of a policy game case before Magistrate Hulan Capshaw, one of the judges Hines is alleged to have fixed. The transcript of the court hearing at which fifteen defendants caught in a policy game bank were discharged was read to the jury by Sol Gelb, Dewey's assistant.

This was the case which Hines and Capshaw talked over on the steps of the Andrew Keating Democratic club following a beefsteak dinner one night, according to the testimony of Weinberg, who said he was there. Weinberg quoted the judge as saying: "I'll take care of it—I haven't failed you yet, have I, Jimmy?"

The policy bank run by Alexander Pompez, with Weinberg on hand to watch out for the Schultz interests, was raided by a squad from the chief inspector's office on Nov. 23, 1932. The fifteen persons arrested came up before Judge Capshaw on Dec. 23 of the same year.

Tries to Negotiate.

Police Under-Sergeant Thomas W. Gray testified that Weinberg, who gave the name of George Klein, at first tried to negotiate with them. When they refused he pleaded with them to break down the door, saying he feared trouble from the higherups for letting them in.

Once inside the place, a Harlem apartment, the police testified they found their prisoners standing at tabulating machines and seated at a table. Heaped on the table, the raiders said, was a "potato basketful" of policy slips representing the numbers, amounts of bets, and the identification of those betting. There were also three pouches containing the scraps of paper. More than 200,000 policy slips were confiscated.

J. Richard [Dixie] Davis, the eloquent legal "mouthpiece" for Dutch Schultz, who has pleaded guilty and will testify against Hines, was the attorney for the defendants at the hearing before Capshaw.

Davis Attacks Evidence.

"There is no prima facie case here," Davis declared, according to the court record. "You wouldn't say because a man has a gun on him that he is guilty of a crime. I move all defendants be discharged."

Judge Capshaw then ruled that the question was whether there was sufficient evidence of possession of the slips. The court record from this point went on as follows:

Capshaw: "Of course, somebody brought those slips in there, but I don't think there is sufficient evidence to hold these prisoners. Is this all the evidence the people have?"

The assistant district attorney and police said it was all they had.

Capshaw: "Of course, if the people could get more evidence they could arrest these defendants again. [Turning to Dixie Davis] I grant your motion."

Davis: "I thank you."

Capshaw: "All defendants discharged."

Earlier Witness Recalled.

The first witness of the day was Dudley Brothwell, proprietor of a riding academy at Fairfield Conn., who testified last week that Hines and Schultz had visited his place together one Sunday in August of 1935 when the gang leader was hiding out at Bridgeport, five miles away.

Stryker called Brothwell back for further cross examination and brought up the conviction of the riding master's wife on a liquor charge in 1923. Mrs. Brothwell was fined $200.

"What was she selling?" asked Stryker.

"Cider brandy," answered the witness.

There was no examination on the identification of Hines.

DEMAND PROBE INTO RELIEFERS' FOOD THIEVERY

IERC Leaders Cite 3 Ways of Diversions.

Two members of the Illinois emergency relief commission [IERC] charged yesterday that federal relief food is being stolen, both before and after its delivery to families on relief. They urged an investigation to prevent a widespread scandal. The charges were made at a heated session of the IERC in the Merchandise Mart. Three kinds of thefts were described:

1. In many instances only half as much food is delivered to families as the amount shown on receipts bearing their forged signatures.
2. Relief families are selling federal food or trading it to grocers in order to get luxury articles not provided by relief authorities.
3. Relief families receiving an excess of certain foods are sending it to friends and relatives who are not on relief.

Cites Diversion of Food.

"The next scandal to hit the IERC will concern federal commodities," said Omar H. Wright of Belvidere, acting chairman.

"The situation literally stinks," Thomas E. Courtney, another member, of De Kalb, warned. "There is no doubt but that there is diversion of food intended for relief purposes."

Their disclosures were made when the IERC passed upon the monthly allotment of $18,000 for distribution of the federal commodities to about 1,400 local relief units. These units in turn distribute the goods to relief families, old age pensioners, and certain other indigents with the aid of WPA labor.

Last month in Illinois the value of federal food products distributed was $626,000. The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation buys them to bolster market prices and relies on state relief bureaus to see that they are properly used for charitable purposes.

Makes Personal Investigation.

Courtney said the leakage and diversion he found exist in all relief units in downstate Illinois.

"I made visits to relief families," he said. "I found that the receipts supposedly signed by them were for as much as 100 per cent more food than they actually received.

"The signatures on the receipts were not the same as those on file at relief headquarters in many cases. I don't know what happens to the other half of this food. This situation should be investigated thoroughly."

Chairman Wright said that Rockford families who get more federal food than they can use have sent the excess to frieds and relatives in his county [Boone].

Urges an Inquiry.

They urged that IERC investigators look into these irregularities.

"It would cost money to increase the IERC staf to do this," said William H. Sexton, a Chicago member.

"I don't care how much it would increase administrative costs," Courtney retorted, "if it would stop petty thievery. Any time you let them get away with it, you're doing more harm than good."

Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary, promised to consider the plea for closer IERC supervision of commodities distribution.

Increased relief expenditures for September were approved by the commission. Needs were estimated at $5,656,434, compared with $5,464,748 in August. The number of relief cases is expected to rise from 166,687 to 167,559. There would then be 512,228 persons on direct relief in Illinois.

The IERC directed the state auditor to prorate $3,800,000 in state relief funds among 518 local units. Cook county's share will be $2,806,839.

PAYMENT TO JOBLESS 36 MILLIONS IN JULY; MORE FINDING WORK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The social security board announced today that $36,665,000 in unemployment benefits had been disbursed to jobless workers in twenty-eight states in July, raising the 1938 total to 216 million dollars.

The July figure was 8 per cent below June and there was a 21 per cent drop in the number of new claims filed.

The board said factors responsible for the decreases were reëmployment of workers who had been receiving benefits, fewer layoffs, and exhaustion of wage credits of workers who had been receiving the benefits.

The board said the average weekly payment in July for total unemployment in eighteen states from which it had information was $10.90, ranging from $7.44 in Tennessee to $12.65 in Utah. Payments for part unemployment averaged $5.72.

STATE WPA JOB QUOTA BOOSTED TO RECORD PEAK

Illinois' WPA job quota was increased from 243,591 to 256,591 late yesterday. Until the spring of this year, the peak employment by the Works Progress administration was 196,000, in March, 1936.

The 13,000 new jobs will be distributed among districts where relief needs are greatest, according to Charles E. Miner, state WPA director. Last night his staf was working to list the communities having the longest lines of eligible persons and the largest shortages of direct relief funds.

Requirements for getting on WPA were liberalized recently. Persons are eligible if their family income is not more than 50 per cent of standard relief budgets. They may be placed directly on WPA rolls.

MADAM PERKINS SPURNS DEMAND TO OUST BRIDGES

Defends Red and Rebukes Dies Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] of the house committee investigating un-American activities today demanded that Labor Secretary Frances Perkins act at once to deport Harry Bridges, leader on the west coast of the C. I. O. maritime workers.

Mme. Perkins.

Dies told Secretary Perkins that the secret labor department files on Bridges contained sufficient evidence that Bridges was a communist and waranted deportation.

Madam Perkins replied to Dies tonight with a scornful criticism of the committee's activity and said she wouldn't do anything about chasing Bridges out of the country. She accused Dies of trying to usurp her job. Madam Perkins also told Dies it was fortunate Shirley Temple was born a citizen since his committee had testimony that Shirley and other movie players had been made stooges for red propaganda.

No Reason for Delay.

Dies insisted that the labor department was not justified in suspending deportation proceedings against the Australian-born Bridges last April 20 because of a decision of the Fifth Circuit court at New Orleans holding that mere membership in the communist party was not sufficient cause for deportation. That case involved Joseph G. Strecker of Hot Springs, Ark. A Supreme court test is pending.

Dies mentioned affidavits that showed Bridges had belonged to the communist party and that it had advocated overthrow of the American government by violence. The Circuit court ruling said that deportation was justifiable only if overthrow of the government by force was taught.

Mme. Perkins told Dies he didn't understand the Bridges case.

Rebuked for Doing Duty.

The secret files, as disclosed by Dies, also showed vigorous protests by R. P. Bonham, Seattle immigration director, against the labor department's handling of the Bridges case, and a subsequent departmental rebuke to Bonham.

Charges that Secretary Perkins has been coddling radicals, such as Bridges, have been made frequently. Witnesses have testified before the Dies committee that labor department officials advised Bridges how to conduct himself to avoid trouble.

When the department reluctantly turned over its files on Bridges, it warned the committee against publication of the material, saying that several persons might suffer.

President Insulted By Bridges.

Dies said that the labor files disclosed that one witness testified he had heard Bridges say: "To hell with the President of the United States."

Witnesses testified, Dies also said, that Bridges on one occasion said of the American fleet, when it was anchored in San Francisco harbor: "We will see the day when we can sink those damn things because they are the enemy of the workers."

Another witness testified that he had seen Bridges pay an assessment of $2 to the communist party and that he saw him pay membership dues.

Terrorist Methods Told.

Dies quoted another witness as having said Bridges boasted that his squads in San Francisco handle all opponents of the communist party labor movement by beating them, destroying their homes, and other methods.

One witness told labor department commissioners that Bridges said he had more power behind him than the government of the United States and that before three years he would be in a position to prove his statements."

"Your file," Dies told Madam Perkins, "also discloses ample evidence that the communist party of the United States advocates and teaches the overthrow of the United States government by force and violence."

NEW YORK MILK PRICE TO GO UP 1¼C TOMORROW

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—An increase of 1¼ cents a quart for milk will be put into effect Thursday by the Sheffield Farms company as a result of the new federal-state marketing order, which will increase payments to more than 60,000 dairy farmers supplying the metropolitan area. This was announced tonight by Benjamin S. Halsey, vice president of the company, one of the largest distributors in the New York area.

The advance will make the price of home delivered milk 13¾ cents a quart. Halsey said the company's payment to farmers will be increased almost 1 cent a quart.

Officials of the Borden Farm Products company said they would make a statement tomorrow. It is expected this also will be a price increase announcement.

Chicago time] today on a 2,397 mile trip to New York. The plane reached the Azores from Lisbon, Portugal, last Wednesday.

Check Passer

MRS. EVA LINDERMAN.

Two years of check passing, during which she obtained between $5,000 and $7,000, was admitted yesterday by the young mother of two children. She was arrested in a department store in River Forest, and said she had worked her tricks on nearly every big store in Chicago.

She is Mrs. Eva Linderman, 28 years old, of 3608 Douglas boulevard. Her method was to write a check for a small amount, either $6, $7, $8, or $9. This she would have approved by a store official. She would then add a zero behind the numeral and a "ty" or a "y" to the written six, seven, eight, or nine, thus multiplying the value of the check by ten. Change would be handed out after her small purchase.

She said she recently obtained an "O. K." stamp from one store. The company told police later they had lost at least $1,000 in this way in recent months. She is not living with her husband.

WPA'S LITTLE HOUSES TO DOT LAKE COUNTY

Offered to Buyers for $25 Each.

Gay little back yard buildings of the newer age of leisure will soon be dotting Lake county's landscape. The people want them. The WPA's specialists are ready with their hammers and scrollwork saws to build them.

They will be cute as a bug's ear. And if they all look exactly alike, a little paint and an artist's touch here and there can make them different.

They'll cost about $25, delivered and installed, in the duplex home size. It's a low price and you can buy as many as you wish.

Building them is the WPA's idea. The Lake county board of supervisors gave the plan its blessing at a merry session in Waukegan yesterday by agreeing to pay $20 a month rent on the factory building at 122 Dugan street, Waukegan, in which they will be turned out.

The architecture is to be modern but not extreme, according to Daniel Hentges, chairman of the board of supervisors.

Getting one is as simple as the architecture. Just telephone your lumber dealer, give him your name and address, mention the new WPA project, and give him some idea about the size.

Folks with cottages in the lake region couldn't wait. Even before the board of supervisors had approved the plan, they sent in their applications. And now the specialists have 350 advance orders.

LABOR DEMANDS U. S. INQUIRY ON C. I. O. TERRORISM

Illinois Coal Fields Called Example.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—A congressional investigation into the dictatorship and terrorism of John L. Lewis, czar of the C. I. O., in the coal mining industry was demanded today by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

The council adopted a resolution urging the investigation after Joseph Ozanic, president of the Progressive Mine Workers of America, a federation affiliate, told of terrorism in the coal fields. The resolution was addressed to the National Labor Relations board and the department of justice as well as to congress.

Cites Three Charges.

The resolution called for investigation of the following charges:

1. That officials of the United Mine Workers union have instituted a reign of terror in the coal fields of Illinois, West Virginia, and Kansas.

2. That these union officials are working in conspiracy with the coal mine operators to dominate and control the mine workers and to exclude the American Federation of Labor unions from the field.

3. That these union officials have allied with state and federal government agencies to perpetuate the U. M. W.'s control in the coal fields contrary to the desires of the miners themselves.

Violence and Intimidation.

"The executive committee listened with surprise and amazement to the charges filed by Mr. Ozanic," said William Green, president of the federation. "Never before has the council listened to a story in which it was made plain that workers have been brutally prevented from exercising the rights of free speech, free assemblage, and free organization."

Ozanic charged that the Lewis and his fellow officials used violence, lawlessness, and intimidation to prevent organization activities of the federation union in the coal industry. The Lewis methods, he alleged, were even worse than those charged against the mine operators of Harlan county, Ky., who were prosecuted by the department of justice for interference with the rights of miners.

He charged that Lewis dominates public officials in some coal communities to such an extent that they have refused police protection to meetings of the Progressive Miners' union.

Charges Perjured Evidence.

Ozanic asserted that dominated officials have prevailed upon state and federal agencies to prosecute federation union members with perjured evidence and bribed witnesses for the purpose of depriving A. F. of L. unions of leadership and making miners helplessly and hopelessly subjugated to the will of Lewis.

The council was told that U. M. W. officials have conspired with coal mine operators to enter into contracts without the consent of the employés and in outright violation of the labor relations act. Ozanic struck heavily at the Peabody Coal company in Illinois, alleging that it was working hand in hand with Lewis against the interests of miners.

Story of Illinois.

"I unfolded to the council the full story of the conspiracy between the U. M. W. and the Peabody Coal company since 1932, which led to the organization of the Progressive movement," Ozanic said.

"I explained how dominant leaders of the U. M. W. and the Peabody officials, without the knowledge and consent and in violation of the constitutional rights of the Illinois miners, made a contract covering their employment providing for substandard working and living conditions.

"After the Illinois miners seceded Peabody and the U. M. W. indulged in espionage, intimidation, and terrorism, usurped the offices of public authority in communities where the employés live, imported strike breakers and persons not qualified for the work to replace qualified employés who expressed dissatisfaction with the conditions of employment.

"They sought to undermine the Progressive organization in Illinois; and used illegal methods to prevent the Progressives from organizing the Peabody employés and to prevent the Peabody employés from expressing their choice of the labor organization to which they desired to belong."

Hangs in the Air

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

ARTHUR REED.

Two men who are normally up in the air were left there yesterday. One dangled for fifteen minutes, the other for half an hour.

Arthur Reed, 4133 Arthington street, a sign company employé, was putting new bulbs into an electric sign on the side of the Chicago theater. He climbed down from the sixth floor on a rope ladder. One side of it broke. Reed grabbed a ledge with one hand and the rest of the rope with the other and hung there until a fire company rescued him.

Stanley Shinkus of 817 West 51st place, a window washer, was working on the sixth level of 4750 Sheridan road. One strap of his safety belt broke. The other held him, dangling for thirty minutes where he could not get a hand hold, until Fireman Michael Murphy pulled him to safety from a window.

BARE HIGH COST OF AN EDUCATION IN TVA SCHOOLS

Spend More to Supervise Fewer Workers.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Congressional investigators of TVA took up the sujects of TVA school costs and the TVA merit system. Gordon L. Clapp, 33 year old TVA personnel director was on the stand all day.

Representative Charles Wolverton, [R., N. J.] and Thomas Jenkins [R., O.] drew figures from Clapp that indicated TVA spends almost twice as much to educate children of TVA workers as the average in similar communities.

Towards the end of the day Wolverton centered his inquiries on the dismissal of TVA employés who have good records. He asked about Leslie Lancaster, who was employed as a field clerk in 1933 at $2,400 a year and rose to a position as a purchasing agent at $3,600. He went on a wedding trip and on return found his services with TVA had been terminated Aug. 17, 1937.

Move Called Economy.

Clapp explained this was due to economy. That two jobs had been made into one and Lancaster was let out despite a good record.

Wolverton brought out that while such economies were being practiced, TVA on Jan. 1, 1937, jumped salaries about 7 per cent, adding $275,000 more on the pay rolls.

With a rasp in his voice, Wolverton asked why the personnel department is spending $643,000 this year to supervise 12,000 employés.

"How can you justify dismissal of individuals with good records for economy," asked Wolverton, "and still increase salaries? In 1934 the personnel department expended $202,000 for six months. In 1935 it was $407,000, in 1936 it went to $523,000, in 1937 it grew to $563,000, and for 1938 it is $643,000."

"One answer," said Clapp, "is the work is scattered more."

Work Down; Cost Up.

"Well," said Wolverton, "when TVA had 17,000 employés the personnel division operated for $407,000. Now employment is down to 12,000 and the personnel department expenses are placed at $643,000, or 150 per cent of what they were at the peak."

At Norris TVA property inquiries disclosed that there are 136 pupils in the elementary school and 164 in high school. The system costs $46,577 a year, or $155 a pupil. The average cost for each pupil in all TVA schools is $140.

"How does this cost of $140 a pupil compare with other places?" asked Jenkins.

"The average cost in four communities [3,000 to 10,000 population]," Clapp replied, "is $80. The rate is $30 to $283 a pupil."

"Isn't the average nearer $70?" asked Jenkins.

Expense Above Average.

"The TVA costs are considerably over the average for group 4 communities," said Clapp. "One reason is that our units are below the minimum for which the average of $72 a pupil in this size community is figured."

"Is it the idea," asked Jenkins, "that TVA children are too good to associate with Tennessee mountain children, finest in the world? This is the only government agency with its own schools. Why not use the public schools of the neighborhood?"

Chairman Donahey announced the committee by unanimous vote had decided to recess Friday subject to his call.

A MINIATURE LIQUOR BOTTLE SHAPED LIKE GUN IS BOY'S UNDOING

Fred Spaulding, 15 years old, of Los Angeles, Cal., visited the laundry at 18 West Harrison street three times yesterday. First he was told his laundry was not ready. On the second visit Mrs. Mary Myron, 25, the clerk, said she could not change a $20 bill.

Fred Spaulding.

On the third visit Spaulding said: "This is a stickup." The object in his hand looked like a gun to Mrs. Myron. She gave him $7.15. Suddenly Spaulding struck her on the head with the "weapon."

Mrs. Myron fled screaming to the street. Two passersby rushed in and seized Spaulding. His gun was a two ounce miniature liquor bottle.

UNION PREPARES PAY BENEFITS FOR N. SHORE STRIKERS IN DEADLOCK

Negotiations for a settlement of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad strike were at a standstill yesterday. The Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés prepared to pay strike benefits to its members the last of this week. Strike benefits are payable after the first two weeks of a tieup.

Harry E. Scheck and John A. Moffitt, federal conciliators, met yesterday with Ralph Bradley, attorney for Receiver A. A. Sprague, in hopes of arranging a new conference with the union today. The Amalgamated, however, plans to concede nothing more, it was indicated by the plans to begin benefit payments.

In Atlantic City the executive council of the American Federation of Labor extended the support of the federation to the strikers.

Meanwhile, there were new rumors that the railroad, which had a deficit of more than 8 million dollars at the end of 1937, is in danger of dissolution before the strike can be settled. Bernard J. Fallon, operating head, said several days ago that "things can't go on this way."

LIFE ON THE RANGE.

Congressman W. D. McFarlane, one of the New Deal indorsed candidates in Texas and one of the hopes of the purified congress, survived the first election in which the greatest of faithful Texans, Maury Maverick, was defeated, to the dismay of the truly good. Mr. McFarlane went into the runoff primary and was defeated by an unregenerate Texan who has turned his face away from the light.

Texas apparently is entirely lost to the reformist purge of the Democratic party which is the hope of Mr. Browder's communists. Mr. Garner, the fisherman of Uvalde, doesn't say much, but somebody has been sawing wood wherever there are trees in Texas. Not only has Texas thrown the New Dealers off the range but two of its best known members of congress in the line of duties assigned to them have turned out to be thorns in the side at Washington.

Congressman Dies, in charge of the committee investigating un-American activities, and Senator Sheppard, as chairman of the senate committee on campaign expenses, have been put by events in the forefront of vexations to the Roosevelt revolution. Both committees were restricted in appropriations for their work, but nevertheless the evidence pouring in on them has revealed, in one direction, the subversive character of the purge of the party and its Moscow tendency and, in the other, the shameless exploitation of the unfortunate families the New Deal has deprived of support except as they get it on federal money.

These two Texans from Mr. Garner's state and their committees have done more than any other political agencies in the United States to reveal to the people just what is going on behind the banner of the greater good which Mr. Roosevelt waves when he tells the Democrats they must get rid of every man who does not think as he thinks and who will not act as he orders.

THE GOOD AND SAFE LIFE.

An investor's guide advises his clients to lay up treasures in heaven, choosing such as will permit preliminary use on the way. These times being such as they are, here today and gone tomorrow, life is precarious and rust and decay get the worldly goods if they can beat the tax collector. The adviser lists in the order of their value as desirable investments: good children, health, education, books, and furniture, and recommends for living purposes a small farm outside a college town.

With these assets, on such premises, the winds may beat and the rains come down, but the investor will have at least a chance. Fortunately the United States is so sprinkled with college towns that almost any one can find a small farm outside one, and a better life than may be led in such surroundings would be hard to find, provided the character of the person is what it should be.

The daily experience will be permeated by the glow of life which comes from frugal desires warmed by the sun upon the soil, and at every pause for rest the toiler will sniff in the airborne inspiration from the college. The whistling bird in the tree and the shouts from the rooting section under the cheer leader in the distance will give the music to the pastoral scene.

Good children will take their turn in the field and in the college. Health is an investment which ought to be sustained in a sound bull market, and education, although it has its weak days, may be said nearly always to have a strong technical position. Books and furniture will complete the necessary holdings of the protected life. Of the two the investor will do well to be longer on books than on furniture, carrying always enough of the latter to guarantee that there will be something to burn on the coldest days.

Most of the ills of life will take a detour around the person who has entrenched himself in such a happy valley. Children, of course, may always be a problem, but the wise investor will have only good ones and so he will never be awakened at 3 o'clock in the morning to come into town and get Willie out of the hoosegow and disentangle the car from two or three lamp posts. The simpler life would be not to have the telephone or the car or Willie.

MURDER IN MINNEAPOLIS.

The magazine, Crime Detective, is not being circulated in Minneapolis these days because the current number contains an article entitled "Murder in Minneapolis." The author is Mrs. Edith Liggett, widow of the crusading editor of a weekly newspaper in Minneapolis who was murdered three years ago. Her article tells of the unpunished killings of two editors and two labor leaders and of numerous other acts of violence in the city. Mrs. Liggett speaks of Minneapolis as a hideout for criminals. Public officials, she says, have protected hoodlum elements.

They are still protecting them, it appears, for the magazine's circulation has been halted by a threat from the county attorney, Ed Goff. Mr. Goff calls attention to a state law, the so-called anti-defamation statute, which "protects the memories of dead men from attack." The dead man in question is the late Gov. Floyd Olson of Minnesota. Mr. Goff says he will prosecute any one who sells the magazine and thereby casts discredit upon the name of Olson.

That would be an achievement in view of Gov. Olson's record in public office. His administration was notorious for bloodshed and violence, the protection of criminal elements in Minnesota, and the use of the militia on behalf of lawbreakers. The Olson record constitutes the blackest page in Minnesota's history.

Mr. Goff's devotion to the memory of the late governor is not likely to fool anybody. The effort to suppress Mrs. Liggett's article will very generally be interpreted as another of the numerous attempts by public officials of Minneapolis to keep the people of their community from learning the truth about their public officials. The first effort took the form of a statute which was intended to prevent any undesired exposure from taking place. The law provided that local officials might suppress so-called scandalous publications. Both the local court and the state Supreme court upheld this vicious law as constitutional, and it was only when THE TRIBUNE carried the case [Near vs. Minnesota] on appeal to the United States Supreme court that the law and the suppression which had taken place under it were declared in violation of the guarantee of a free press.

The law was unconstitutional, but the desire of the political gang to prevent the people from learning the truth persisted. Two editors were murdered and no one has been punished for the crimes. Now a magazine of national circulation has been suppressed, this time on the pretext that it defames a man now dead.

The real reason for all these murders and suppressions has never been in doubt. The criminals and the politicians fear the truth. Therefore they do not dare let the people of Minneapolis benefit from a free press.

THE HOLLYWOOD LADY'S SALARY.

One of Hollywood's darlings, a highly paid movie actress of renown, is induced by her publicity man to say that she regards the payment of income taxes as a pleasurable duty. She said her returns showed an income of $460,000 a year and a tax of $391,000 which she paid gratefully, thankfully, and with a cheerful spirit.

Both sums are, as she says, a lot of money. But there is sunshine everywhere, because when the lady has paid all her expenses she has $20,000 a year clear, and if she is frugal, as everybody in Hollywood is, including, according to report, Jack Benny, and if she continues as a box office attraction for a while she can hope when she retires to have an income sufficient for a small place, probably in the country, where with a few chickens and some petunias she can live the tranquil and satisfied life.

The lady has heaped coals of fire on the head of the tax collector and even higher federal personages may feel the glow of them. Mr. Roosevelt, in one of his occasional references to anti-social high salaries, referred to the Hollywood pay scale, saying he did not wish to be impolite, but certainly these glamorous young people were drawing down sums which would be absurd if they were regarded as payment for anything the young people had to offer. Mr. Roosevelt did not follow through and say that of course his administration had so much easy spending money because, as revealed in the lady's tax schedule, if she earned $460,000 the government took $391,000 of it.

Hollywood's biggest silent noncontributing partner is Mr. Roosevelt's revenue department. The lady is working for the government, as is every other citizen who pays an income tax, and working without thanks. The governmental ladies and gentlemen who are spending the money get the acclaim. They say they are the people with the great good will to all the population of the United States. Their virtue doesn't cost them a nickel. They earn their living being good with other people's money, and whenever they think of it, which is often, they take a crack at the human live stock supporting them.

Any lively sense of favors received that the lady professes to feel for the privilege of turning her earnings over to the federal government might be modified if she could sit, say at a corner of Mr. Ickes' desk, and listen to a power politician selling him a bill of concrete to harness the tides at Passamaquoddy, to turn salt water into the Florida orange groves, or to put a nice big dam in some stream which would be sure to flood the surrounding countryside the next time there was a good rainy spell.

Mr. Ickes prides himself on watching the dollar closer than any other man in Washington. What the lady would think if she were let behind the scenes when some of the better money tossers were making their forward passes might be even more illuminating. Her money isn't going into productive enterprise. She may be earning too much, but it comes to her because millions of people want to pay their two bits to see her. When they don't want to see her she won't earn anything. At present what the tax collector takes from her makes her salary all the more antisocial, if it is at all, because that money is diverted from the useful purposes it might serve in creating employment to the wasteful purposes it does in prolonging unemployment.

A nation cannot drain its money away from profitable enterprise and spend it in nonproductive governmental undertakings without continuing to be in precisely the shape the United States is at present.

RULES FOR CITY CREDIT.

[Bloomington Pantagraph.]

The other day at a convention in St. Paul an official of Dun & Bradstreet set up a program of six requirements for cities to maintain a good credit.

In these days when officials of cities, states and the nation are often reckless regarding a proper credit, these points are worth noting:

1. That a city's obligations clearly fall within its ability to pay.
2. That plans for repayment be soundly formulated before debts are contracted.
3. That proper legal power is assured for drawing on the community's resources.
4. That city income be budgeted to keep current finances from becoming involved in the debt.
5. That a city administration provide necessary services economically and efficiently.
6. That there be genuine responsibility and honesty in government officials.

This sounds like Benjamin Franklin stuff, but who can say it is not sound advice?

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

A MYTH GOES GLIMMERING.

So May Yohe is dead, after all these years of serving as a heroine for articles in syndicated Sunday supplements about the actress who had once been in possession of the Hope diamond, alleged to carry a fatal curse. It is surprising to find that the touch of mortality has fallen upon a character who seemed to be permanently enshrined in American folklore. We had never thought of May Yohe as a human being—she was like a figure of mythology.

We have been a persistent playgoer for thirty-five years without ever seeing Miss Yohe. Furthermore, we have listened to talk about the theater for the same span of years or longer without ever hearing any one speak of her as a player per se. And yet she made her début and her reputation in this city as a soubrette in the extravaganzas produced by David Henderson in the vanished Chicago Opera house [1887-1888].

• • •

James O'Donnell Bennett, however, remembers her vaguely from the playgoing of his youth as a plump little singing girl and pert personality of a type then much in favor. Her talent, he says, was slight, but she was popular as a personality, particularly in stage-door and midnight-supper circles. On the stage of that era such girls were standard characters. One might cite Adele Rowland, undoubtedly more gifted, as an analogy of twenty years later in Chicago.

After the Henderson extravaganzas here ["The Arabian Nights," "The Crystal Slipper," and other fairy-tale musical shows, comparable to modern revues] Miss Yohe's career expanded into comic opera in London. "The Magic Opal," "Mlle. Nitouche," and "Little Christopher Columbus" gave her the glamor which transformed her into Lady Francis Hope and temporary holder of the Hope diamond. This is a historical stone which had been owned by Louis XIV., Mme. de Montespan, Nicolas Fouquet, Louis XV., and Marie Antoinette.

Miss Yohe left the stage in 1896 and did not reappear until 1906, when she made a vaudeville tour in the United States. Her last recorded theatrical engagement was in London in 1913, when she sang one of her old songs, "Honey, Ma Honey," in a revue called "Come Over Here."

Until her death three days ago in old age and poverty she was a "natural" for the Sunday supplement editors who pretend that some diamonds carry curses. Her story, in full page or "double-truck" form, appeared about six times a year in hundreds of newspapers. Now, at long last, deprived of their favorite myth by due process of Nature, these creative journalists will have to think up something new.

How strange it seems that you should be
Despised of gardeners, graceful tree.
Are you too lavish with your seed
That makes them scorn you like a weed?
I like your waving foliage dense
That hides unsightly backyard fence.
I like the way you seem to pity
Children of the sweltering city,
And spread your frond-like leaves before
The blistering heat at tenement door.
Who named you "tree of heaven" first?
Was it some city child athirst
For grass and flowers and birds and bees
And cooling shade of friendly trees?

Butterfly Stays at Home.

The young man thought she looked like Zasu Pitts around the eyes and mouth. Her hands fluttered incapably, too. But she was smaller than Zasu and not funny. Holding the big Persian cat in her arms she had looked at first no larger than a child. It was disconcerting to realize that she was old. It gave the young man an uncanny feeling as if an undernourished child had aged before his eyes.

"I have to go take care of my sister," she explained, "or I never would sell Butterfly. He's a champion," she went on proudly, "and he's always been treated well. He adores salmon—and cream. If you'd be good to him I'd let him go for almost nothing. Maybe I should give him to you"—a fat paw trustingly patted the thin, sallow neck—"somehow that seems more loyal to Butterfly, don't you think?"

"No," the young man protested, trying to seem unaware of the worn grass rug, the sagging daybed and the table with the cream bottle that was empty, "you must not give your cat away. I'll lend you five dollars and you feed Butterfly well."

The thin face grew radiant—"five dollars"! Her gratitude made the bill as big as a blanket.

PROTECTION AGAINST LOCKJAW.

DESPITE the number of ailments that have been partially disarmed, those over which a complete victory has been achieved are few in number. However, we have learned to become better dodgers, as many a battle has been won by a strategic retreat on one front followed by an assault in another sector. Faced with an attack by some disease, we may launch a counter movement with great vigor, whereupon the surprise element may put the foe to rout.

In dealing with an infection such as lockjaw we must make certain that the sentries of the body are constantly alert—ready to give the alarm—for it is one of our most deadly microscopic outlaws. Unfortunately, the tetanus bacillus exists almost everywhere and those who are employed about farms or dairies come into contact with it constantly. Soil which has been fertilized with manure is heavily infected and dust blown from fields may carry the spores [seeds] for long distances. City dwellers are not immune. In fact, every child playing in the street may be exposed, as microbes can remain alive for years in dirt of any sort. Those who work about the gardens, among flowers and shrubs, should wear gloves to prevent tears of the cuticle which open avenues for infection.

How do these organisms injure the members of the human family? By entering a cut—a tiny scratch may suffice—where they remain, multiply, and produce a poison which affects the nervous system disastrously. The toxin travels along motor nerves to the spinal cord and thence to the brain. Lockjaw may follow such injuries as a compound fracture, nail punctures, firecracker burns, blank cartridge wounds, and occasionally such a minor incident as an insect bite. As has been emphasized repeatedly, prompt attention to every abrasion, no matter how trivial, must be the rule and the first thing to do is to cleanse the area with soap and water. If some foreign body such as a nail has pierced the tissues deeply, where soap and water may not reach, the channel should be opened widely or injected with tincture of iodine or a 1 per cent solution of silver nitrate.

Under no circumstances should the injured part be covered with collodion or adhesive tape. If free access of air can be provided, the lockjaw bugs will have difficulty in growing and hence they will be unable to manufacture their lethal product. No wound of any sort, therefore, should be sealed tightly. Three or four layers of sterile gauze may be used as a covering, held in place with narrow strips of adhesive.

For complete safety, however, tetanus antitoxin should be used in dosage of not less than 1,500 units, and this may be repeated every few days until the area is completely healed. But we must recall that if a nerve near the cut already has absorbed a considerable amount of the poison the serum will not neutralize that portion.

If, despite these precautions, the toxin has reached the nervous system, the patient will begin to show signs of irritability with some stiffness of the neck and a feeling of tightness about the jaws. The first symptom complained of may be difficulty in chewing or swallowing. In young children the onset may be signalized by a severe convulsion. The battle is then on to keep the patient alive.

If symptoms develop late—that is, three or four weeks after healing—this means, as a rule, that recovery will occur. But with the disease ablaze everything must be done to give the patient absolute quiet, with enough sedatives to control the spasms.

But why not prevent the affliction, and here is where the bugle sounds the advance. We are now immunizing children against diphtheria with toxoid. This is a marvelous boon and can wipe out this dread disease if it is universally employed. In like manner tetanus toxoid has been prepared and may be administered in two or three doses at three month intervals. The recommendation is that the first injection be given before the youngster starts to school, as more vigorous play will be the rule. In addition, workers who are subject to frequent injuries may be safeguarded in like manner.

SNEEZING.

S. C. writes: Do almost daily sneezing attacks in the morning indicate sinus trouble? Can this be the cause of my hearing being below normal? During a heavy cold my hearing is noticeably affected.

REPLY.

Daily sneezing may indicate an allergic condition such as hay fever. Your hearing difficulty, particularly in relation to a cold, would indicate that one or both the Eustachian tubes [which lead from the throat to the middle ear] may be shut off. This usually is the result of infection with swelling. Sinus disease will aggravate the conditon. Good nose and throat hygiene is called for, and you may need the services of a skilled specialist.

WORK UNDER PRESSURE.

P. R. writes: I am about to take a job on tunnel construction under compressed air. My friends are trying to discourage me, saying this is dangerous to the health. Are they right?

REPLY.

Most companies take pains to protect their workers in compressed air and some states have laws in regard to minimal requirements. Prevention of caisson disease [the bends] is possible under gradual entrance to and exit from the pressure chambers. Vigorous youthful workers of low fat development are least likely to develop the disease.

MENOPAUSE IRRITABILITY.

J. D. C. writes: Is the development of an antipathy to an object formerly loved a characteristic of the menopause? Specifically, we had a canine pet for more than ten years. When the change came, nothing that the dog did was right thereafter.

REPLY.

Merely a manifestation of irritability that frequently is associated with the menopause.

TOBACCO STAINS.

J. B. writes: What will remove nicotine stains from the teeth? The fingers?

REPLY.

The best remedy is to moderate smoking. You might try powdered pumice stone applied via a bit of moistened cloth. If ordinary tooth paste will not remove the stains from the teeth, your dentist can clean the structures.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

LOOKING FOR AN ORACLE.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—In today's TRIBUNE there are two statements from two eminent citizens whom we would all naturally follow. But, unfortunately, they are irreconcilably contradictory, and we are left in the lurch.

The President says: "The objectives of the administration's program—legislation to improve the lot of the average American and give him security, give fair play to the farmer, the laborer, the storekeeper, and the great rank and file of our citizens."

Roger W. Babson says: "If relief continues at its present pace we are headed for real inflation. If relief is stopped we are headed for revolution. The other possibility is a coalition government, for which we pray but see few signs thereof at present. Hence we say the country is facing 'coalition or chaos.'"

Under all other circumstances we ought, unhesitatingly, follow the President. For he is on the inside and is better informed; he is the one who carries the burden of tremendously heavy responsibilities. But our present case is different. The President talks of bright hopes, intentions, notions, doctrins. Babson lays bare before us facts, lurid ones. Where is the oracle to point out to us, the humble perplexed rank and file, the right path to follow? J. L.

CORN IN BANK VAULTS.

Peotone, Ill., Aug. 26.—The United States constitution provides that the government shall "coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard weight and measure."

Why not regulate the price of grain? Corn is more valuable for the human being than money.

If one man had all the corn and the other man had all the coin the man with the coin would starve. Both come from the soil—corn and coin.

From early days in England we remember "corn leases"—that is: Specifying that the rental should consist of so many quarters of corn. In some countries corn was deposited in banks and lent and borrowed on time or call loans as money is with us.

In Central America and Mexico maize was long employed to serve the uses of currency.

If you want to bring prosperity back to the country banks all you need to do is to fill them up with 56 cent corn or its equivalent. JOHN P. F. CONRAD.

THE O'CONNOR CONTEST.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Along with numerous others who like myself are believers in constitutional government, I have been writing to friends in the congressional district now represented by John J. O'Connor and urging their active support for him in the approaching primaries. The purgers are bending every energy to defeat Mr. O'Connor. I think every good citizen should do all possible to effect his renomination. I merely give the boundaries of his New York City district:

14th street on the south.
63d street on the north.
Park avenue on the west.
East river on the east.

If people who think as I do would write to personal friends in the above area and stimulate their interest in the O'Connor candidacy they will be helping to defeat the purge. E. A.

POLITICS PERILING COLLEGES.

Champaign, Ill., Aug. 26.—I hope THE TRIBUNE will continue to give impartial but complete publicity to the action of the state normal school board against President Adams of the De Kalb Teachers' college. Ever since the spring primaries it has been common political gossip from one end of the state to the other that the board would soon find a way of removing one of the teachers' college presidents in order to appoint a deserving Democrat who rendered service to the Horner faction. If the boast of the governor to make the schools of Illinois second to none was sincere it is difficult to reconcile it with a policy of political spoliation and skulduggery on the part of a board made up entirely of his own appointees. Give us the facts in the case.

CITIZEN.

APPEAL FROM A CARPENTER.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—I would like to put this in the paper: an appeal to all building trades to help in this hard time. I would make a motion that we go and work for lower wages. I'm sure we would get more work this way. What good is it to get $1.62½ an hour—carpenter and painter? We are getting swell wages on paper and we don't work even half of the time. I would sooner work for less and work more steady. So, brothers of all trades, do this and you will see we will have better times. We all can help the condition.

WALTER GALANT, Carpenter.

EXPOSING COMMUNISM.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 26.—It was a pleasure to read the amazing discoveries of Dr. J. B. Matthews, a "convert" from communism, on the activities of the different leagues for "democracy."

This investigation was supposed to be done last year when the communists of America were recruiting our youngsters for Spain.

The Catholic press of America was continuously stressing the fact that all these leagues were pure communistic organizations, but nobody paid any attention to it. Our brothers, the Protestant ministers, were first to sponsor meetings and entertainments at which collections were made for the Spanish "democracy." I hope this investigation may open their eyes.

REV. PHILIP SEPAROVIC.

CHURCHES AND GAMBLING.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—This acute zeal displayed by the churches against gambling is peculiar. The only direct contact many people have with gambling is through religious institutions. Note the children ringing doorbells to sell chances on this or that which their church is fostering.

Note the street carnivals under religious auspices wherein official sanction is implied by allowing public thoroughfares to be blocked that games of chance might be run.

Note bunco parties, card parties, raffles, and lotteries, all conducted in church buildings. C. D. P.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

GARBAGE RECEPTACLES.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—I am the owner of a building directly across the alley of a four flat building. The owner of this building has not equipped the tenants with a garbage container sufficiently large to hold all of the refuse, resulting in an alley full of garbage for which there was no room in the can. Last Sunday the alley was littered with garbage, which gave off a very offensive odor. M. R.

The owner of the building complained of has been notified to provide proper receptacles for refuse.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

RIGHT TO DISINHERIT.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please tell me [1] what to do to disinherit an adopted child when you have children of your own?

2. Is there no way to make void adoption papers? L. L. S.

1. A parent can disinherit any of his children by will. This means that if you leave a will giving your estate to your blood children, your adopted child will have no claim, unless he can prove undue influence, or lack of mental capacity.

2. If the foregoing does not cover what you have in mind, please state the facts on which your further questions arise.

TRACK REMOVAL PACT TO EXPAND AIRPORT IS NEAR

City and Railroad Settle All but Eight Points.

The city and the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad are virtually in accord on a proposed ordinance authorizing the expansion of the Municipal airport, First Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman said yesterday. It is hoped to have it ready for consideration by the city council next week.

"We are rapidly nearing an agreement on all points," Grossman said. "We agree in principle. All that remains is to get together on the language of the ordinance."

Track Removal Necessary.

Expansion of the airport necessitates removal of the tracks of the C. & W. I. which bisect the tract bounded by 55th and 63d streets, Cicero and Central avenues. The tracks run east and west along the line of 59th street, forming a barrier which now prohibits the use of the north half of the area for airport purposes.

The plan is to relocate the tracks north of 54th street parallel with the present right of way of the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad. Under the terms of the ordinance the city would pay for the new right of way to be acquired by the railroad through outright purchase or condemnation proceedings. The city would also pay for relocating the tracks. The total cost of the project is estimated at $800,000.

29 Differences Settled.

Grossman last week sent a list of thirty-seven differences to J. R. Barse, general counsel for the C. & W. I., with suggested compromises that would be agreeable to the city. Yesterday he received a reply in which Barse approved twenty-nine, leaving only eight of the compromise clauses.

However, there are still two main questions, Grossman said. The city demands that the ordinance include a list of each specific item for which it must pay. It also asks for a clause which would permit it to take possession of the old right of way as soon as the new tracks have been put in place north of the enlarged landing field. The C. & W. I. has raised objections to both of these.

Time Limit Clause Spurned.

The railroad also has refused to be bound by a time limit in doing the work, explaining that emergencies might arise over which they have no control.

"I am sure we will be able to iron out these difficulties," Grossman asserted. "I received answers and suggestions on the controversial points which indicate that we are getting somewhere. Perhaps the city will have to make a further compromise."

Triplets Celebrate 73d Birthday

George Hough (left), Mrs. Elizabeth Hough Williams, and Louis Hough as they appeared at birthday celebration.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Too busy to celebrate their 73d birthday last week, the Hough triplets, George and Louis Hough, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hough Williams held a belated celebration. They met at the farm home of Louis at West Newton, near Pittsburgh, for an old fashioned country dinner. They claim they are the oldest triplets in the state.

Twins Celebrate

Mrs. Martin Anderson and Charles Hawkinson.

A brother and sister, twins, celebrated their 84th birthday yesterday in a trailer. Mrs. Martin Anderson of Cameron gave the party in her trailer for her brother, Charles Hawkinson of Aurora. The two were born in Skone, Sweden. Mrs. Anderson, a widow, plans a trailer trip to the west coast with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wilson of Cameron. The birthday party yesterday was held in Aurora.

FIRES AT NOISY YOUTHS IN ALLEY; WOUNDS BOY, 17

Surgeons at Evangelical hospital were fighting last night to save the life of Harold Murphy, 17 years old, who was shot in the back earlier in the evening. He named his assailant as John Robinson, 463 West 43d street. Robinson fled but was arrested in Hammond early today and admitted the shooting.

Robinson, who is about 28 years old, operates a radio repair shop in a flat which he occupies with his mother, now out of the city. Yesterday a number of boys were throwing bricks against a fence across the alley from Robinson's home. The noise infuriated him. He rushed out, picked up a brick and chased them away.

Later in the evening the boys returned, among them young Murphy. This time Robinson came out with a .22 rifle. He shot at the fleeing youths and hit young Murphy in the back. The boy was on the operating table last night for more than two hours in a hunt for the bullet. His condition is critical.

LAUNDRY OWNER STICKS TO LABOR KIDNAP CHARGE

Julius Borgeson, Des Plaines laundry owner who was found Monday after a three day absence, reiterated yesterday that he had been kidnaped and drugged.

"Three men in a black sedan stopped my truck Friday," he said. "They took me into the forest preserve near Oakton and River roads. One of them hit me and another jabbed me with a hypodermic needle. Then they put me on the floor of their car. We drove by day and stayed in a cabin by a lake at night. They let me out near Highland Park on Monday."

Borgeson's plant had been picketed since Aug. 16 by the Laudry and Dye House Drivers and Chauffeurs' union, local 712. He had refused to hire a union driver. Monday afternoon Mrs. Borgeson, trying to carry on the business alone, signed a union contract. Borgeson said his captors told him he had better sign such an agreement. Union officials said yesterday it was ridiculous for him to intimate they were responsible for his disappearance.

Two Fined for Delivering Liquor in Dry Oak Park

Earl Brucknel, 19 years old, 526 Elgin avenue, Forest Park, and Harold Olderr, 21, 600 North Lorel avenue, were fined $25 each in the Oak Park police court yesterday for delivering liquor in violation of the suburb's dry ordinance.

Jailed on Charge of Taking $5,100 from Woman of 80

Mrs. Bernice Wiesniewski of 2230 North Monticello avenue was locked up at the West North avenue police station last night on the complaint of Leo Kozlowski of 1220 North Washtenaw avenue. He said that in the last three years Mrs. Wiesniewski had persuaded his mother, Kate, 80 years old, to pay her a total of $5,100 on her promise to keep the Kozlowski children in good health through the use of charms.

AUTOIST SEIZED IN POLICE CHASE GETS JAIL TERM

Philip Scaduta, a private watchman, who was seized by police after a chase of more than a mile, was sentenced yesterday to thirty days in the county jail for reckless driving. Judge John V. McCormick in Safety court also suspended his driving privilege for a year.

Philip Scaduta.

Scaduta, 32 years old, of 838 Cleveland avenue, was arrested Aug. 9 by Policeman Ray Eddy. The policeman said there were no license plates on Scaduta's car and that the watchman was abusive. Since Scaduta has been in jail since his arrest Judge McCormick said he would have to serve only nine days of the thirty day sentence.

In Trafic court Judge John Gutknecht imposed a $50 fine on Sidney Ruben for speeding fifty-three miles on hour in the Outer drive on June 27. Park Policeman William Connors testified that Ruben offered him $3 to forget about the whole thing. Ruben, 24 years old, of 3232 South Evergreen avenue, said he didn't remember saying that. He paid the fine.

Boy's Plea Wins Probation for Mother Who Stole Coat

The plea of Joseph Krall, 13 years old, resulted in probation yesterday for his mother, Mrs. Martha Krall, 32 years old, 3109 North Leavitt street. Judge Oscar S. Caplan had sentenced her to 15 days in the Bridewell for the theft of a coat from a loop department store when the boy spoke up. He said his father was ill and the family is on relief. Judge Caplan placed Mrs. Krall on probation.

MAYOR AND TWO ALDERMEN RAP SURFACE LINES

Back 80 Mile Extension Clause in New Plan.

The street car system of the Chicago Surface lines was assailed as inadequate on two fronts yesterday.

First, two aldermen told a meeting of the special traction unification committee that poor service has driven many customers to other forms of transportation. Then Mayor Kelly, speaking at night on a radio round table conference sponsored by the Citizens committee on public transportation, characterized the system as ramshackle and out of date. John T. Pirie presided as chairman of the broadcast.

The surface lines, Mayor Kelly said, are as far behind the times as any transportation system in the world except the Toonerville Trolley.

"Rolling stock of the Surface lines averages twenty-five years in age and some of the cars are thirty-three years old," he said. "The truth is that Chicago is twenty years behind the times in its street car transportation. Yet 80 per cent of the riders must depend upon this decrepit system for their daily transportation.

"Our transportation systems have failed to give the service demanded by the long suffering public because they have been engaged in a wasteful duplication of effort. Unification is the natural solution. Coördination of the services is inevitable. As single entities, the companies can never achieve true modernization and give satisfactory service."

Line Protests Extensions.

The aldermanic criticism came after E. J. MacElraith, chief engineer for the surface lines, objected to a clause in the proposed ordinance which would require eighty miles of street car extensions.

"Fewer people are using the street cars and we can't make our expenses now," he said. "The surface lines should not be forced to commit itself to something that might be impracticable. These extensions would add another burden. We cannot be certain now that they would be justified."

Alderman Raps Service.

"The truth of the matter is," retorted Ald. Bryan Hartnett [12th], "that the surface lines has forced many persons to use another kind of transportation. The public hasn't been satisfied with your service. You offer dirty cars, worn out equipment and poor and infrequent service. Citizens won't put up with it any longer."

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] backed up this statement.

"I know of several instances in my ward," he said, "where men have clubbed together to buy a car in order to get to work on time. They share the expenses and are satisfied with that arrangement as a substitute for street car riding."

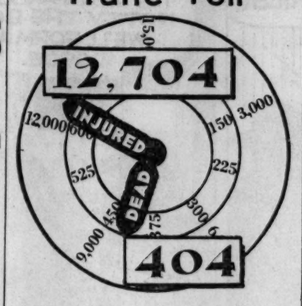
Harvey B. Fleming, receiver for the surface lines, and Col. Edward Blair represented the street car company. The meeting was called to consider extension and improvement in transportation service. Harley Johnson of the Rapid Transit [elevated] lines and Benjamin Weintraub, vice president of the Chicago Motor Coach company, were the other traction representatives.

Consider Cross Town Buses.

Tomorrow the committee will consider the possibilities of requiring the bus company to institute express service across the city. Several sections of the new ordinance have been completed. The committee is now working on controversal items.

Elimination of unnecessary noise and annoying gases was considered yesterday morning. The committee also took up the question of requiring the elevated lines to remove certain parts of its structure. It also considered whether the street car company could be forced to relocate its tracks in the center of streets that are widened on one side only. Another meeting is scheduled for today.

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1938 Trafic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

COASTER WAGON HEADLIGHT COSTS LIFE OF BOY, 10

Glenn Stenwall and Robert Wadstrom, each 10 years old, thought to make their coaster automobile more realistic.

They were in the garage at the rear of the Stenwall home at 6481 Oxford avenue on Aug. 20. Glenn fixed up a tin can for a headlight, poured gasoline into it, and ignited the fluid. It blazed up merrily.

Then he started to pour in more. The two gallon can he was holding exploded in his face, burning both boys. Last night Glenn died in the West Suburban hospital. Robert will recover. His home is at 1233 London avenue, Park Ridge.

Firemen Give Columbus First Bath in 7 Years

Columbus got a bath yesterday. The statue in front of the Englewood fire station, 6345 Wentworth avenue, was scrubbed clean of seven years' accumulation of dirt and grime and given a new coat of paint. Firemen of Engine Company 51 paid for the reconditioning. The statue was erected in front of the station in 1893 in memory of two firemen who lost their lives in the fire at the Cold Storage building at the World's Columbian Exposition.

ARREST WOMAN SECOND TIME IN HIT-RUN KILLING

Police Hold Mrs. Hotchkiss as Accessory.

Mrs. Emma Hotchkiss, 75 years old, was arrested again last night by Oak Park police and was held as an accessory in the hit and run killing of a small boy last Saturday. Mrs. Hotchkiss, who lives at 3349 Madison street, was released after questioning Monday, but was rearrested when arrangements were made with the coroner's office to hold the inquest today instead of Sept. 15.

Mrs. Hotchkiss is a cousin of Jesse C. Bader, who lives in her home, and who was found there after she had asserted he was in St. Louis. He is held on manslaughter charges. Richard Flemming, 8 years old, of 316 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, was the victim.

Miss Jennie Szajko, 18 years old, 2142 Medill avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries suffered last Saturday when she was struck by a hit and run driver near Wheeling. One other person was killed and a third injured in the accident.

Police later arrested Joseph Gahlbeck, 26 years old, of Palatine, as the driver of the car. He said he became ill while driving and could not remember what occurred.

William Harsel, 65 years old, a mechanical engineer of Indianapolis, died yesterday in Illinois Central hospital of injuries he sustained Saturday when his automobile went into a ditch south of Lemont. He was driving home with his wife, Elsie. She suffered bruises.

Hans Teutsch, 23 years old, 429 East 91st street, died last night in the County hospital from injuries received Aug. 21 when his automobile collided with another at 75th street and Indiana avenue. Henry Taggart, 7212 Indiana avenue, drove the other car.

Thomas Carr, 61 years old, and his wife, Helen, 49, were severely injured last night when their automobile crashed into the retainer wall of the new Field drive, south of the outer drive link bridge. They were taken to St. Luke's hospital. Carr, a special accountant for the Pullman company, lives at 8046 Vernon avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 530 persons were killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 404 were killed in Chicago. In the same period 12,704 were injured in trafic accidents within the city.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

BEYOND THE NORM

By CALEB

"OUR GUARDS had their rifles handcuffed to their wrists to prevent them from being stolen while they slept. The Pathans and other mountain tribes were restless, and a few days earlier had massacred every member of a passing caravan.

"The water wasn't fit to drink, and we couldn't trust the native servants to boil it—so for days the only liquid we drank was the juice of watermelons. We were in constant fear of scorpions. While we were in Keshan, six persons died from their bites.

"We couldn't hurry. The traders with rugs to sell were maddeningly slow. Their theory was that we would pay exorbitant prices in order to get our goods and be on our way. But in spite of scorpions, snakes, hostile natives, and the distressing lack of supplies, we stuck it out—and were able to get some fine goods at very reasonable prices."

It is a common assumption today that with the world's markets so well organized a buyer of merchandise has only to move from one great center to the next to procure every advantage that any one can have in the field, choosing in leisurely fashion the things that suit his fancy and his market.

It is true that the greater portion of the goods we need is available in these larger markets. But we have never been willing to leave the matter there. The lines above are taken from the diary of a Marshall Field buyer who spent eighteen months and traveled thousands of miles through mountain and desert in search of merchandise finer, rarer and more valuable than any to be found in the ready markets.

This particular buyer was on a search for fine rugs, but his adventures are paralleled by a dozen others every year. In the matter of antique furniture unusual enterprise on the part of our people has tapped sources far from ordinary. In prints, draperies and wall hangings the same is true; in china, in books, in stamps, in great silver sets, delicate porcelains, jade, tapestries, bronzes, wood carvings and scores of other items large and small.

The habit of persevering and searching beyond the obvious and the commonplace has come to be a tradition of the store. We have never felt that modern transportation and improved marketing centers relieve us of the duty of scouring the world for rare merchandise, the assembling of which enhances an opportunity we cherish—the opportunity to serve the community distinctively.

INDIAN WAR CRIES ENLIVEN WABASH VALLEY PAGEANT

Old Muskets and Spinning Wheels Placed on View.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—This is the season of memories, conscious and otherwise, as the Wabash valley celebrates in various ways its homecoming week.

Indian war cries resounded in the staid precincts of the State Teachers' college this morning as John Grable Jr. and a group of boy aids inaugurated a series of Indian dances of long ago. It was just 125 years ago that the first settlers came here and 100 years ago that the Indians were driven along the sundown trail to make way for civilization.

It has been suggested by anthropologists and by the philosopher, Count Keyserling, that Americans have inherited in some way certain Indian characteristics, such as the keen eye and the hawk nose. It may be that here also is the genesis of the jitterbug craze—that the Indians are getting their revenge by driving young America into "swing." Certainly the Indian dances—with their emotional flow, their mounting intensity, their lilting, abandoned rhythm—suggest this.

Unwrap Antique Heirlooms.

Pioneer families brought out old muskets and spinning wheels, quilts, Bibles, and McGuffey readers for the antique show at Stalker hall on the campus.

Returning visitors, seeking in memory the old moonlit banks of the Wabash, now lost amid the city's welter, might well ask with the verse "The Better Land" in McGuffey's fifth reader:

"Mother, O, where is that radiant shore?"

"Is it where the flowers of the orange blow and the fireflies dance through myrtle boughs? Is it where the feathery palm trees rise and dates grow ripe under sunny skies? Or is it far away in some region old, where the rivers wander o'er sands of gold?"

And mother answers that it is in none of those places but "beyond the clouds and beyond the tomb."

Dip Into Memories.

And so, having no place to go but memory's shore, the visitors sat on chairs from Daniel Boone's family, fingered quilting from Aunt Becky Batton's home over on Lost creek, or thought about drinking again at Possum Hollow. They dipped again into McGuffey and found that while this world was made for Caesar, their souls shall flourish in immortal youth.

"Unhurt amid the war of elements, the wreck of matter and the crash of worlds."

Memory again might touch the historical features of this celebration, which centers in the 150th anniversary of Northwest Territory. Under the ordinance of 1787, on which the constitutions of six states are drawn, the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty were established. And it is here in these middle western states, if anywhere, that the American genius will work these principles into the complicated fabric of today.

Caravan Due Saturday.

The pioneer caravan from Massachusetts, which all summer has been wending its way here, will arrive Saturday. Carl Applegate, a Terre Haute boy, will be honored on that occasion. Applegate has written ahead significantly that the greatest receptions accorded the ox cart caravan have come from the small towns. The cities don't seem to know what it's all about.

Terre Haute, being a medium sized city, is planning a real reception to the caravan group. Country folk will hitch their horses, if any, to the old hitching posts on Wabash avenue. Girl clerks in the downtown stores will wear hoop skirts and other pioneer garments.

Peach Queen

JOSEPHINE SMITH.

Michigan's peach queen, Miss Josephine Smith, a slender, dark eyed beauty, whisked through Chicago yesterday distributing samples of her home state's finest fruit. With her were four maids-in-waiting, Miss Winifred Lerch, Benton Harbor; Donna Pitcher, St. Joseph; Miss Arline Thomson, Grand Rapids, and Le Ila Bradley, Battle Creek. Queen Josephine is from South Haven.

The girls left the Hotel Sherman last night to return to South Haven to reign over Michigan's harvest festival which begins tomorrow and runs for three days. It will be the last of the court's duties ending a season which began last spring with the arrival of first peach blossoms.

2 BOYS SUE PARK FOR $15,000 EACH IN TORTURE CASE

Two suits for $15,000 each were filed against Riverview park yesterday in Circuit court as the aftermath of torture charges brought recently against two concession attendants. One suit was brought on behalf of Matthew Morgan Jr., 15 years old, 1228 West 31st place. The other was for Clarence Goerres, 15, of 6725 South Sangamon street.

Both boys declare they were compelled to perform painful squatting exercises. Young Morgan also says he was hung up by the thumbs until he lost consciousness. The suit says that as a result of the torture both are "sick, lame and in a disordered condition."

Police are still searching for the two concession attendants, Ulysses Beck and Roy Larsen. Patrick Murphy, park policeman accused of having aided them, has been discharged. He will be arraigned Thursday on an assault and battery charge.

PACIFISM DEAD, AIM FOR PEACE, HAGOOD ADVISES

General Tells Legion His Views on Defense.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Pacifism is dead, Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, U. S. A., retired, declared today in an address before the state convention of the American Legion. He said pacifists have talked their listeners and themselves into believing the only road to peace is through preparedness.

Gen. Hagood, formerly an outspoken critic of the nation's military program, retired from the army in 1936 after a tiff with the national administration over relief spending.

"It may seem strange that pacifism has blown itself out, but it is true," he told the convention. "We can readily understand it if we remember that most of our presidents, most of our secretaries of state, and all of our secretaries of war went into office as pacifists and came out militarists.

"Pacifism is born of ignorance. The more you study it the sooner you find it is a hollow mockery."

Lists Three Groups.

He said there are three kinds of pacifists. He listed them as follows:

1. The conscientious objectors. These are harmless people who isolate themselves from the rest of mankind and refuse to shed human blood, just as some people refuse to eat hot dogs or ham and eggs.

2. The militant pacifists. These are dangerous ones. They want to ram their own opinions down the throats of other people. They are against war, but they want just one more war to end war. They are against all weapons of defense, but they like to attack each other with their fingernails, especially at peace conferences.

3. The bogus pacifists. These are the most dangerous of all. They include the reds, the yellows, the pinks, and the greens. They go about like sheep in wolf's clothing, using the cloak of peace to cover their plans for revolution.

But in spite of the united efforts of all kinds of pacifists, Hagood said, congress has just enacted into law the biggest preparedness program in history.

None Opposed to Preparedness.

"Not a member of the house or senate dared to rise in his seat and oppose this program on the ground of pacifism," the general said. "Some feared it might get us into a foreign war, others thought it would cost too much money. But there was not one who would say he was opposed to national defense."

Gen. Hagood said his opinion of adequate home defense could be summed up thus:

The world's best navy in our own waters.

The world's best air force in our own air.

The world's best army in our own land.

"I am not one of those who would be satisfied with any half way doing about our army," he said. "I would not be satisfied with a few more thousands of private soldiers in time of peace, a few more hundreds of automobiles and trucks getting out of date in army garages, a few more dozens of automatic rifles and tanks.

"I am not one of those who can visualize our people waiting around a year until we can mobilize our man power and industry. I do not believe we should plan to let New York City get captured as it was in 1776 and then try to get it back. I do not want to see Washington captured as it was in 1814 and then have a congressional investigation.

3 Million Small Arms.

"We have three million machine guns and rifles. They are the kind you used in the Argonne. They may not be of the latest model, but they will go off if you pull the trigger. We have plenty of 3 inch and 6 inch artillery. We have plenty of ammunition, most of which, thank God, still is good. We have the American Legion, and the sons and grandsons of Legionnaires coming on.

"America's problem is not to potter around with a little seventeenth dimension army of regulars and National Guard. It does not consist in getting a few thousand soldiers to sign up for an enlisted reserve, instead of waiting to be drafted.

"It consits in devising simple and effective methods by which all of our young men can be called out immediately when the emergency comes, can be instantly armed and equipped with what we have, can be rapidly trained in the great essentials, and can be given the chance to fight as they go.

"The American soldier is entitled to the best weapons, the finest equipment, and the handsomest uniforms the world can provide. But he will fight like hell without them.

"A Lewis machine gun, a suit of overalls, and a can of tomatoes make a mighty good combination. That was more than they had at Valley Forge."

MONKEY IN AUTO IS NO NEWS, BUT HERE'S A SNAKE

When Robert Terry saw it in front of the restaurant at 906 South Wabash avenue, where he works, he began calling for witnesses. They all agreed. There really was a snake curled around the steering column of the car at the curb.

Then Policeman Lee Davis arrived and diagnosed the critter as a bull snake five feet long. He stuck his arm in and the serpent coiled around it and hitched hiked to the Central police station.

A little later C. Hazeltine of Ripon, Wis., called for his pet. He had found a note from Davis in the car.

"That snake's a valuable traveling companion," he said. "He's insurance. Nobody will steal my car while he's in it."

Clubs of City Get Ready for Fall Openings

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHILLY nights and autumn clothes in shop windows make the end of summer seem all too near. Soon urban dwellers who have been suburban ones during the warm weather season will be moving back to town and all the activities that keep every one rushing in town during the winter will be resumed.

The Casino and the Arts clubs, two popular gathering places during "the season," are being cleaned and gotten into shape for their fall openings.

Work on the Casino in East Delaware place was started a bit earlier than on the Arts club rooms in the South Wrigley building. The Casino will be opened on Sept. 20 and the Arts club not until Oct. 1. There will be nothing especial to mark the fact that in the little low building at Seneca and Delaware members can be served luncheon, tea, and dinner on and after the third Tuesday in September. The Arts club, however, according to custom, will have a tea on the opening day, which this year is a Saturday. The first exhibition will not be hung until November.

The Fortnightly in Bellevue place, that stately old mansion that was the home of the late Mrs. Bryan Lathrop before it became the home of the Fortnightly, Friday, and Contemporary clubs, will be ready to start another season on Oct. 1. The Woman's Athletic club, which has a large and handsome clubhouse on the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Ontario street, has been partially open all summer, but it will be opened entirely after next Tuesday. The lecture season starts on Oct. 25.

Dinsmore-Kite Nuptials Take Place in Italy Today.

The Chicago Junior league will be welcoming a transfer from the Philadelphia league when Francis William Dinsmore Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Dinsmore of Yardley, Pa., formerly of Princeton, N. J., brings his bride here to make their home.

Miss Sallie Merrick Kite, daughter of Mrs. Edwin M. Finletter of Chestnut Hill, Pa., and Mr. Dinsmore are being married in Italy today at Villa de Papiano, San Baronto Pistoria, the home of the bride's cousin, Miss Mary Merrick.

The bride's mother and brother, Clement C. Kite, are in San Boronto Pistoria and quite a large group of Americans is included in the wedding party. In the group are James Avery Worden III. of Princeton, who is to be best man, and Miss Kitty Du Bois of Washington, D. C.; Miss Emilie Merrick Lennig, Miss Rebecca Phillips, and Mrs. H. Dick Blabon, all of Ardmore, Pa., and Miss Barbara Stewart of Albany, N. Y., who are to be bridesmaids.

Party to Welcome Returning Honeymooners.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Rogers have cards out for an at home from 4 until 7 o'clock on Saturday, Sept. 10, to meet their son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. George Bartlett Rogers [Margaret Ann Waller], who were married on Aug. 10. Because their wedding was a small one, the party will serve to introduce the former Miss Waller to all of the Rogers family friends. The occasion also will welcome young Mr. and Mrs. Rogers from a Canadian wedding trip.

Mr. Rogers and his bride are to make their home on the south side, not far from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parnell Waller, who live in Beverly Hills.

Emmy Lou Freund to Return Labor Day.

The Labor day week-end will be an especially gay one for Mrs. Frederic C. Woodward because her younger daughter, Miss Emmy Lou Freund, is arriving at home on Monday from a year's study abroad. Miss Freund and Miss Elizabeth Wallace are sailing today from France and will come directly to Lakeside, Mich., to the cottage the Woodwards have for six weeks.

Miss Freund does not want to make a formal debut this year, as her elder sister, Miss Nancy Freund, did two years ago, but she may change her mind when she hears about all of the gay parties planned for the debutante group. In case Emmy Lou does decide to bow this year, her stepsister, Miss Jean Woodward, who will go to Beloit college later in September, will share the introduction.

Miss Nancy Freund will attend the University of Chicago this fall instead of returning to Sarah Lawrence college for her last year. At Christmas

Prepare for Golf Tourney

Mrs. George W. Ross often is seen on the golf links of the Westmoreland Country club, but fortunately she isn't often in a sand trap as she was when this picture was taken. The feminine golfers at the club will play off their championship today, tomorrow, and Friday. Next month they will be hostesses to the United States Golf association which will hold its women's amateur championship at the club from Sept. 19 to 23. Mrs. Arthur Purnell of Evanston is chairman of the tournament committee and serving as co-chairman with he is Mrs. Norman Lighthart, also of Evanston.

Shops Are Gay with Smartest of Fall Styles

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Shopping enthusiasm is mounting. All kinds of new clothes are tempting the susceptible souls who have become bored with the last of the summer stuff. Whites and pastels, [anything thin, fluttery or flimsy] have lost the lure they boasted 'way last July.

The sooty black clothes, the lusty new fall colors, and the combines of color in new fabrics and silks, make any woman dissatisfied until something new is found and worn.

Shop the newly unpacked wool fabric showings. Some of the finest and suavest of wool imports, in exciting new tones, are on display. Wools as flexible as a smooth length of heavy satin. Femininized versions of stunning tweed mixtures are as soft as broadcloth. New suedelike textures cling almost as revealingly as crêpe. And the soft spongy stuff probably is the swankiest material obtainable for slim smart street and daytime suits or one piece dresses. Black, dull, or true black is extremely high fashion. . . . It's used as the fabric for the important basic dress, the background dress for costume accessories, hats, gloves, and costume jewelry.

Next to black in popularity come navy blue, a sage green, and a fascinating new collection of purple and violet shades. After these come gold, mustard yellows, coppery golds, and a new tone called spice that resembles ginger combined with cinnamon [if you can visualize that combine].

Thin wools and medium wools are used for dresses and the first fall suits. And there are stunning wool fabrics for topcoats and three piece ensembles. These are sure signs of a new fall and winter season. If you're planning a wardrobe, see these new fabrics, while they're so new and colorful.

Fashion photograph. . . . Copper gold colored checked velvet bag and matching brimmed hat for early fall. Dache, the designer, features a tall shaped crown and a wide ribbon band to contrast the flattering downward sweeping brim. The huge bag has a big decorative clasp of gold metal to hold the unusually cut flap of the capacious bag.

Thomas Sings at an Exciting Park Concert

BY EDWARD BARRY.

John Charles Thomas does not miss a bet. The "Pagliacci" prologue, Figaro's "Largo al Factotum," "Vision Fugitive," and "Di Provenza il Mar"—all of these time tried war horses found a place on the program which the great American baritone sang at the Grant park band shell last night. So did "Home on the Range" and "O, Dry Those Tears."

Mr. Thomas was accompanied in the four large scale arias by the Chicago Civic Opera orchestra under Henry Weber's direction. Any technical difficulties which these pieces may contain have long since ceased to exist for Mr. Thomas. With the freedom of a man who is engaged in a task which is well within his powers, the baritone directed the bulk of his efforts toward squeezing from the well squeezed songs unexpected extra drops of musical expressiveness.

He rides a phrase lovingly, rejoicing and asking his audience to rejoice in the beauty of its contours—but nearly always gets off before the moment arrives when he could justly be accused of exaggeration. Mr. Thomas was in excellent voice, with his limitless tone lending new excitement to the prologue and his finely controled shadings giving to the "Vision Fugitive" an intoxicating delicacy and fervor.

Audience applause—and the audience was one of the largest in the history of the Grant park concerts—necessitated an encore group, and Mr. Thomas brought his accompanist, Carroll Hollister, to the stage. Besides the two ballads listed in the first paragraph he offered the Negro spiritual, "Steal Away," and his own trademarked piece of whimsey, "Sing a Song of Sixpence."

The full flavor of a Thomas appearance comes out in an encore group, when the baritone is quite ready to do a little cutting up and to engage in a bit of banter with the audience. The sixpence song was good comedy, with much gesturing, face making, and vocal horseplay.

The purely instrumental parts of the evening kept to the same level of excitement. There was a performance of the Dvorak "Scherzo Capriciosso" in which the violins played a wonderful unanimity. In Strauss' "Artist's Life" waltzes the conductor drew from his orchestra a bewilderingly beautiful variety of nuance without ever compromising the line of the piece or spoiling its intoxicating flow.

The "Rienzi" overture was nobly done, with the brass instruments playing accurately and sonorously and almost wiping away the memory of a few unfortunate moments in the first movement of the Tschaikowsky Fourth Symphony. Mr. Weber brought the overture splendidly to life. There was compulsion in his phrasing and genuine passion at climactic points.

Smetana's "The Moldau" rippled along with a brightness and a naïveté which were especially apparent in the dewy little folk song toward the middle of the piece. The Tschaikowsky symphony, aside from a minor slip or two, profited throughout by the conductor's determination to make every sequence eloquent, yet to keep even the most temptingly voluptuous phrases within the larger scheme of the symphony.

Annual Methodist Retreat Will Open Next Friday

The annual retreat of pastors and laymen of the Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will open at College camp, Lake Geneva, Wis., on Friday and will continue over Labor day. The retreat will open with the bishop's dinner, when Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Chicago area will deliver the principal address.

Looking at Hollywood — by Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post.

New York, Aug. 30.—On the way in I stopped off at Washington, D. C., to talk to Thurman Arnold, the aid to Attorney General Cummings, who is in charge of the anti-trust probe of the movies. He could spare only thirty minutes: "Tell you what," he suggested. "I've got to buy a pair of shoes before I rush to the train. Let's talk while I'm getting fitted." It's the first time your reporter ever did an interview while the subject was getting a pair of evening slippers.

This Arnold is the only person I've ever met who holds degrees from the Big Three—Yale, Harvard, and Princeton. He hails from Laramie, Wyo., where he was mayor, but his parents are from Sedalia, Mo., which perhaps explains his legally inquisitive mind. Law professor at Yale, his most recent book, "Folklore of Capitalism," is a penetrating dissection of law and men and mice and politics and theories.

He believes that the movies will benefit when production, distribution, and exhibition are separated legally. He has a speech made by Adolph Zukor in 1918 in which Zukor warned the industry to the same effect and forecast the evils which would arise if the industry forgot the fact they essentially were producers.

"What exists now is a monopoly," said Mr. Arnold. "It is holding back the industry and it is crippling small independent producers. That must stop." Yet he isn't approaching the task in any vindictive spirit. "Abuses aren't necessarily evil intent, though they may work out with evil effect," he said. "The heads of the major companies aren't villains or rascals. If a college engages a football coach and he hires football players you wouldn't take the college president out and hang him on a campus elm tree, would you?"

I asked him if he got the chance to see movies often. "Not often," he confessed, pointing to his desk. "I don't think pictures today are as good as they were. The ones I've seen bored me to death. They tell me that 'Algiers' is entertaining, but I haven't had the chance to see it. The possibility that I'd get involved in one of those dreadful double bills fills me with grave forebodings."

I told him that the movies were doing fine work and that some of the pictures were fine dramatic documents. Joe Schenck, head of the Producers' association, out in Hollywood, would perform a valuable work if he'd arrange to show Thurman Arnold four or five outstanding pictures in Washington, D. C. "The Life of Louis Pasteur" could be one; "You Can't Take It With You," a second. "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" a third. I think such a demonstration would have a fine psychological effect, serving as exhibits A, B, and C before the movies take the witness stand.

Broadway has a distinct Hollywood flavor. Zasu Pitts is waving her hands on the Paramount stage; Ben Bernie is a few doors away on the Strand stage; Patricia Ellis is up the street at Casa Manana. The trend back to flesh and blood shows is heartening for the future welfare of the Stem. It is only a question of weeks before the Capitol theater falls into line and adds a stage show, in self-defense. Any picture name, big or small, can get a job on New York stages. The town is hungry for live entertainment.

Finest stage show of all is at the Paramount. Phil Spitalny's all-girl band and choir is holding forth there with Miss Pitts, and it assays high in entertainment value. Spitalny is a "natural" for the west coast and when I get back there it's the first thing I'm going to attend to.

The nation is dance crazy, movie producers might note. At the St. Regis the Lambeth Walk is the rage, an English import. At the Astor Roof twelve kids from South Carolina and Georgia are doing "Peelin' the Peach." They dance barefooted to Hal Kemp's swingy rhythm, and Kemp invites the customers to join in with the southern kids. Quite a few accept and take off their shoes and stockings, too. I was tempted to accept Kemp's challenge, but the truth of the matter is that there was a hole in the toe of the left sock. Had I peeled the peach the sartorial effect would have been that of Snuffy the Cabman.

Broadway is positively dance daffy. The Harvest Moon ball, which is the world series of amateur dancing, sold out 20,000 seats within thirty-six hours and turned back 130,000 orders for Madison Square Garden seats. "You've got to get me four seats," I told Promotion Manager Fritzsinger. "As the master of ceremonies I'm entitled to buy four ducats." Mister Fritzsinger to date has not produced the four tickets and there is a well founded suspicion that he won't.

Be "Different" but, O! Spare the Eyebrows

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

One of the stellar beauty lights of the year appears with eyebrows so irregular you wonder if it is an act to wear them so. Act it turns out to be, and a smart one.

That's the way the woman's eyebrows always grew and that's the way they're going to remain. They're hers, she says. They're going to remain hers, not a movie star's copy; not a line drawing, not anything that hadn't her in mind and her only.

That's your eyebrow cue, girls. If you want them to be a bit bushy, funny and irregular, let them be if you're the girl to get away with them. It means, of course, that you'd better be a personality, an imp, something just a bit different. But isn't that the cue for much of our current beauty fame? Being just a little different in how you look, what you do, say and are?

It may be a bit dangerous exploiting this "different" gospel. The girl who would be better off playing the Miss Average rôle may just take it into her head to shave one-half of her hair off, upsweep the other half, or take an ear off just to be different. You can go quite berserk being different. Not, naturally, to the extremes just hinted, but you've seen women misled terribly on this "being different" theme. If you can be it successfully, it's wonderful. If not, it's apt to be terrible. Like the threadbare charm theme: "You either have it in you or you haven't."

If you have good eyebrows, for goodness' sake, don't monkey with them. Don't try to reshape them to fit some other beauty's face. Something goes out of you. You need your own eyebrows to express you—and believe me, eyebrows are a most expressive feature.

How to brush your hair properly and how often is told by Antoinette Donnelly, Tribune beauty editor, in her booklet, "Bring Out the Beauty in Your Hair." Get a copy today at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

This and that:

If the children have been too much for you and you discover frowns have moved in on your forehead and grooves between your eyes, you really wouldn't be a softy if you tried to smooth out your worried brow. The "erasing" remedy comes in the form of little pieces of gauze, sort of triangular in shape. On the gauze is a transparent film of some material. Moisten the gauze as if it were a postage stamp. The film slides off and all you have to do is to paste it over the offending wrinkle.

If you are a user of liquid powder, you'll find it a lot easier to apply this flattering film over your arms, neck, and shoulders if you'll use a piece of gauze instead of a pad of cotton. The solid part of the lotion is not absorbed as much by gauze and you'll get the full benefit of the lotion and not be left with more liquid than powder. Of course, you'll shake well before using.

Do you wash the back of your neck and give your throat the attention it deserves? Sounds like a schoolboy trick, but it is surprising how many necks get skimmed over. Don't give it a quick swipe just because you happen to be passing by. Scrub it thoroughly, and give it the benefit of the resulting stimulation that does so much to keep the neckline firm and the skin smooth.

And, when you cream your face, cream your throat. It's the perfect moment, too, for dropping the head backward and doing a couple of yawning exercises. Don't forget the one where you turn your head around and look over your shoulder, first to the right and then to the left.

If you are not adept at applying brilliantine, yet find your hair blowing four ways without it, try spraying it on while your hair is damp. Your locks will have luster without too much oil.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

(Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxton arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. Steve Hayward, neighbor ranch owner, tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary interest in him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack. Tim thinks Collins had been there and threatened her uncle with the gun and that her uncle died from a heart attack. Collins calls with Lawyer Bill Jennings and turns ugly when she refuses to sell. When Steve calls and advises her to sell she is cool to him. Steve is offended and jealous of Whitey. To help surmount financial difficulties Anne looks forward to receiving her former boss, Mr. Trainor, and his family, to the ranch as paying guests. Collins serves notice that he is going to fence in the water holes, which he claims are on his property. Whitey takes Anne to a local dance. Steve is there with Gwen. Jake Collins, drunk, insults Anne. Steve fights him. Anne runs off without thanking him. She sends him a note of apology, but receives no answer. Anne tactfully refuses a proposal from Whitey.

INSTALMENT XXI.

A COWGIRL IN THE MAKING.

Anne found the next morning that she might have spared herself the nervous dread with which she had anticipated seeing Whitey again.

No one could have been more matter of fact than he was when they met in the corral. Anne had a feeling, as she looked into his impersonal blue eyes, that she must have dreamed the whole thing.

Her spirits rose with relief. Probably it just had been the May night that had gone to Whitey's head! She could dismiss it from her mind and everything would go on as before. She took the reins Whitey handed her and swung lightly into the saddle.

"Where are we bound today, Whitey? Are you going to let me ride down strays with you?"

"We got another job on hand this morning," Whitey answered. "I ran across a couple of calves by the north buttes yesterday that were all wobbly from screw worms. We'll have to go up there and doctor as many as we can find."

"Screw worms!" Anne's nose wrinkled with distaste. "You mean to say calves get worms just like puppies?"

"I'll say they do," Whitey slipped a bottle of medicine in his pocket. "And if we don't get 'em in time, it's good night."

"Perhaps I'd better go with Joe into the woods to pick out the logs for the fireplace shelves," Anne suggested.

"Whitey shot her a quick grin. "I thought you wanted to know the ins and outs of the cow game? This is an 'out' all right, but it's a mighty important one to nip in the bud."

"Of course, I'll go!" Anne gave a shamefaced laugh, "just for a moment the idea of worms was——"

Whitey let down the corral bars before she finished. Rocket shot out with an experimental buck or two that claimed all of Anne's attention.

Presently they were heading for the distant buttes on the north range. Indistinct in the distance at first, they gradually took shape against the clear blue of the sky.

"There's one now!"

Whitey dashed off at a tangent after a tiny speck in the distance, his rope looped and ready in his hand.

Anne swung about and followed. She topped a rise in the mesa just in time to see Whitey rope the calf and bring him to the ground. A few seconds and he was hog tied and helpless.

Anne dismounted and ran over to the trembling animal.

"Here! Help me get this medicine down him!"

With a shudder Anne forced herself to grip the clenched jaws while Whitey pried them apart and forced the medicine down the calf's throat.

Anne patted the silken, quivering head, gazing into the pitieous, terrified brown eyes.

Whitey jerked the rope loose. There was a wild scramble and the calf streaked off to spread the news of this horrifying new experience.

"He ain't wastin' any time to say 'thank you'," Whitey grinned, "but, believe me, he'll be a happier critter from now on! How about you ropin' the next one?"

"I? O, I couldn't! I mean——" Anne gulped back her instinctive shrinking at the prospect. "I mean, do you think I've had enough practice roping? I might choke it or something."

"Got to try it out sometime," Whitey observed. "May as well do it now. There! Get that one!"

Before Anne realized it she was off at a gallop after another calf. A wild elation gripped her. She looped her rope and spun it about her head as Whitey had taught her.

Every desire in life was automatically concentrated for the time being in a longing to make good. Now! Now was the moment! Swish! The next instant the calf pitched to the ground and the rope tautened.

Hardly hearing Whitey's excited directions Anne was off Rocket running with a short length of rope toward the calf. Her hands trembling with excitement, she looped half hitches around the hind feet and one fore foot.

By the time Whitey reached her Anne was proudly erect, her eyes sparkling, the calf hog tied at her feet.

"Good work!"

Whitey kept his eyes from Anne's radiant face as he congratulated her. "You may make a cowgirl, yet."

In spite of the fact that Anne missed every other throw that morning she came home with a sense of triumph. She'd roped her first calf! Surely that meant she had passed another milestone in her newly chosen career.

"Even if he was only a weak and sickly one, Tim, I got him!" Anne was still bubbling with excitement as she stopped for a moment at the bunkhouse on the way up from the corral. "You'll let me ride in the round-up now, won't you?"

"We'll see," was the most that Tim would promise. "By the way," he called after her, "I reckon it'd be a good idea to hold the round-up the first week in June. How about it?"

"Couldn't we wait until after the 15th, Tim?" Anne turned back at this news. "I know the Trainor boys would enjoy taking part in a round-up. Mr. Trainor mentioned that specially in his last letter."

Tim pushed back his Stetson and scratched his head doubtfully.

"I was kind of figurin' it'd be a good notion to get it out of the way before Jake Collins got strong enough to raise hell generally. Once yuh've got your stock branded he wouldn't have such a pretty case shootin' 'em down. Even if he has issued a warning."

Anne hesitated, turning the question over in her mind.

"I really believe that Jake Collins has given up the idea of fencing in those water holes," she said finally. "I'd hate to disappoint the Trainors about the round-up. Let's take a chance, Tim!"

"Yuh're the boss," Tim answered. "We'll do some of the preliminary roundin' up from the high range and leave the main show to start the 16th. Not a day later!" he warned.

"That will be fine, Tim! I'm sure nothing will delay them in getting here."

She turned to go on to the ranch house when Tim called her back.

"How about takin' a bite of dinner with us?"

Anne firmly put aside the temptation.

"Not today, Tim, I've some odds and ends to use up. Next week you can put your cook on a punching job! I'm going to practice my cooking on the outfit so as to have my hand in catering for a hungry gang by the time the Trainors arrive."

"Yuh're headin' up the wrong trail, tryin' to do the cookin' yoreself." Tim shook his head. "Say, I left yore mail on the desk, there," he added as Anne started once more for the ranch house.

"Thanks!" Anne called back over her shoulder. She felt a sudden rush of passionate gratitude as she pulled open the door into that rough living room that she had grown to love with such a palpitating possessiveness.

Crossing to the desk with quick steps she picked up the mail. At last those seed catalogs had come! She turned one of the pages of a catalog over, idly humming a lilting air.

Her cheeks suddenly flushed as the words "Good-by, Old Paint, I'm a leavin' Cheyenne," fitted into the tune.

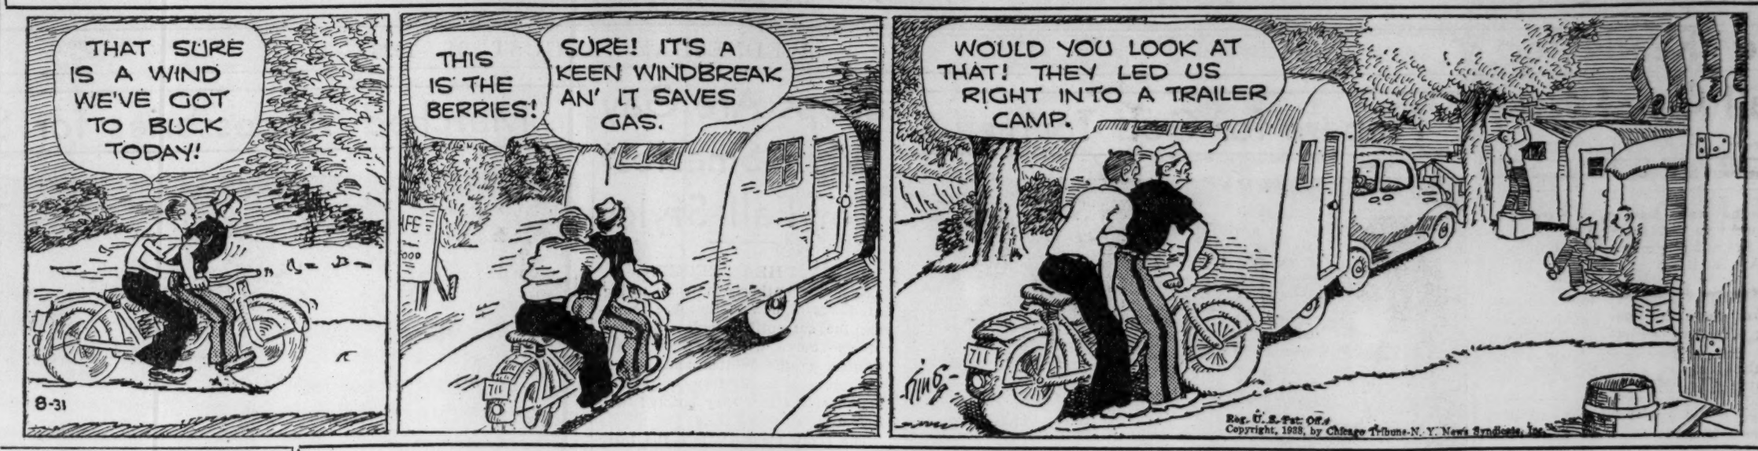
GASOLINE ALLEY—FOLLOW THE LEADER



WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Th' Jig's Up

Marrying Just "Any Man" an Unwise Course

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The woman in this hectic tale is close to 30. Two years ago she was unmarried but met the man who was to play havoc with her life. He was her dream come true, she confides. She fell in love with him and he with her at a first meeting. After seeing each other a few times he told her that he must make a clean breast of his past.

He told her that he had been married very young. It was one of those mad gin marriages. They met in a dance hall, drank, and next day the young man awoke to the fact that he was married. That was ten years ago. The gin bride went her way and he went his.

There was no love lost on either side, apparently, but the incident had a bad effect on the youth. He was so disgusted with himself and life in general that his behavior became anything but creditable, ending with the loss of his job.

Here stepped in an older woman who was familiar with all the circumstances of the youth's case. She took the boy over, restored his confidence, fed him, fitted him out in clothes until he got a job and was on his own feet again. He paid the older woman back the money she spent on him. But her kindness and patience with him can never be repaid, he feels.

Embarrassing, then, was it to find out that the woman loved him. Until Helen came into his life he simply let things ride. Fate, however, didn't alter this older woman's feelings.

Helen's family and friends got to work on her and persuaded her that since she'd waited until nearly 30, she was foolish to continue with the man. In a distracted moment, then, Helen accepted the proposal of a man free to marry her.

"Overnight," she tells, "I made up my mind to take any man I could get and make the best of life. Ten weeks ago I married a man I did not love, can't love, and never will love, a miserable fate if ever there was one. To add to my heartache, my other man turns up heartbroken over my treatment of him and I'm a wreck. What is the answe- to my problem?"

You tell her, readers! What is the answer? To us, there seems but one, and it is to hold to her promise to make the best of life with the one she married.

Eddie Cantor and Film Studio Agree to Cancel Comedian's Contract

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—After a conference between Darryl Zanuck, vice president in charge of production, and Eddie Cantor, it was announced today at Twentieth Century-Fox that the comedian's contract with the company had been canceled by mutual agreement.

Cantor's next picture under the contract was to have been "The Average Man" but the star felt that the story material was too weak. He went to see Zanuck this afternoon and after a friendly discussion both agreed to tear up the contract.

Under the terms of the agreement Cantor was to have made two more productions. Cantor said he has no plans.

The comedian launched his screen career a number of years ago in a musical for Samuel Goldwyn.

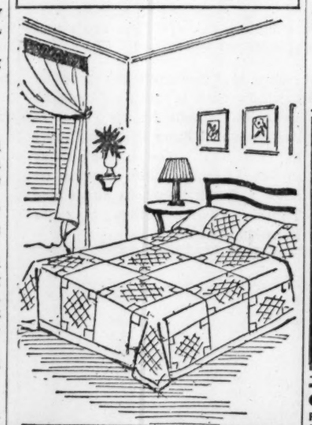
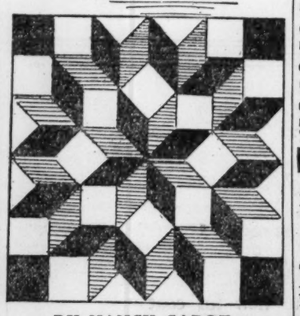
Artisan's Wheel Is the Theme of a Colonial Quilt





BY NANCY CABOT.

Common sources of quilt inspiration were the various trades and professions of the early colonists. "Carpenter's Wheel" dates back to the Revolution, and when the quilts were made at that time women used two shades of red, blending with white. More recent choices have been red, yellow, and old blue combined with white. The finished pattern measures sixteen inches square, and the pieced blocks are set together in an alternate arrangement with plain blocks and edged with a five inch border and half inch bias binding. The overall dimensions for this quilt are 90x105 inches.

For a pattern of the "Carpenter's Wheel" quilt pattern, No. X29, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

The Housewife

Now that we have so many fabrics of synthetic silk it's important to have an iron that does not get too hot, for too much heat burns and ruins curtains of synthetic silk voile, or dresses of rayon weave. We saw a marvelous iron the other day that is absolutely foolproof. It has a little regulator in the handle that turns on the correct amount of heat for silks, cottons, linens, etc. All you do is turn it to the name of the material you wish to iron. The regulator does the rest.

This iron weighs only 3¾ pounds. You can start ironing thirty seconds after you connect it. It has an amazingly large surface, too, so that fewer strokes will do more work. If you are a housewife who does her own ironing you should treat yourself to this appliance.

Postpone Freeman Debut for a Year.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Freeman have withdrawn the name of their daughter, Lucile, from this season's debutante list. Miss Freeman will be introduced next year. Miss Freeman is leaving Sept. 15 to enter Briarcliff Junior college. One of her good friends, Elinor Talbot, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Talbot, who also is to be a debutante next year, is entering Vassar this fall.

Chicago and Lake Forest friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Pirie regretfully are saying good-by to them, for the Piries are moving to New York. Mr. Pirie is going east on Friday or Monday; Mrs. Pirie will follow him in October.

Their children are to have a late summer holiday with Mrs. Pirie's mother, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, at her Beverly, Mass., home, leaving today. Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson and her children, who have been with Mrs. Carpenter, are returning this week.

Johnny and Jerry are the names by which the twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. Cummings Parker will be known. Johnny is the namesake of his maternal grandfather, John A. Bloomington. Jerry's name on the birth certificate is Edwin Cummings Jr., but just as his father always is called Ted, so will the baby be called by a nickname.

Summer "Camp" Tours Southwest.

When Bobby Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Adams, returns from "camp" tomorrow he will have many interesting tales to tell. The "camp" was a tour of the southwest in station wagons during which the boys did archeological work as they traveled.

Bobby's sister, Kyle Adams, is returning from camp tomorrow. She is bringing with her Elizabeth Ess of Kansas City for a visit.

John Coleman Jr. has a guest from Baltimore in Lake Forest. The visitor is Bruce Baetjer, a Princeton university friend.

Mrs. and Mrs. John Adams Chapman have returned to Lake Forest from an eastern trip. They attended memorial services at a recently completed mausoleum in Concord, N. H. The mausoleum was built for the bodies of Mrs. Chapman's uncle, Joseph Stickney, and his second wife, the Princess Aymon de Faucigny. Mr. Stickney built the Mount Washington hotel at Bretton Woods, N. H.

Mrs. J. Franklin Keeney and Perry H. Keeney are members of the Chicago colony now at the Mount Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyer are taking an active part in sports affairs at the Crawford House at Crawford Notch. Mr. Meyer was one of the judges at a recent horse show and Mrs. Meyer was runnerup in the women's annual golf tournament.

Stuart Logans to Have Week-End Shooting Trip.

The Stuart Logans will spend the Labor day week-end at their shooting lodge, Loganberry Lodge, downstate, taking with them one or two friends and some young friends of their daughter, Miss Loraine Logan. The sport of the week-end will be dove shooting. George H. High is to be one of Mr. Logan's guests.

The Logans are moving on Sept. 12 from their big apartment in Lincoln Park West to one at 209 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Logan is especially busy with the moving for she is taking some of the furnishings that were in the solarium of the Lincoln Park West home to Loganberry Lodge, which will have a newly furnished appearance by the start of the duck shooting season.

Miss Logan will return to Smith college for her senior year on Sept. 17.

Find Private Giving Is Declining Because of Tax Ruled Charity

The public is becoming indifferent toward private welfare agencies because of increasing tax support for relief and welfare work. This indifference is one of the chief problems before the 37th annual meeting of the Associated Lutheran Charities of the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri synod. The meeting opened yesterday at the Hotel La Salle.

The Rev. E. B. Glabe of Minneapolis, secretary of the Minnesota state conference of social work, told the delegates that the popular cry, "Let the government do it," does not square with the demands of Christian conscience. He predicted that government would increase its activity in the welfare field. But, he declared, the private and church agencies never can be dispensed with because these set standards and undertake experimental work of which government is incapable.

The Rev. Enno Duemling of Milwaukee, Wis., is president of the Lutheran Charities.

For Dress or Sports

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here's a versatile pattern. You may style it for informal dress occasions or make it strictly in the sports manner. The sketch at the left suggests a scheme in which the dress has a square neckline and short puffed sleeves, both edged with ruffling or lace. Buttons are used down the front of the bodice, and around the slim waist there is a soft crushed sash that ties in a wide knot bow. The gored skirt is cut for width and graceful flare. This styling lends itself well to velvet, velveteen, and silks of all kinds. White or pastels may be used for the trim.

The sports version is stunning in plaids or checks, and either silk or woolen may be used. A brief shirtwaist collar is used at the high neckline. It should be detachable for laundering. The long sleeves, which are puffed at the shoulders, dispense with cuffs. Around the waistline is a narrow lether belt which should harmonize with the fabric or the collar. The same principle applies to the buttons used stud fashion down the front of the bodice.

Style No. 2123 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 39 inch contrasting and 1 yard of binding.

Jewish Charities Have Deficit of $225,000; Launch Fund Drive

Directors of the Jewish Charities of Chicago yesterday made plans to raise funds to meet the $225,000 deficit this year. Contributions will be sought from every Jewish man and woman able to contribute something.

The budget of $3,054,000 this year is already closely trimmed, according to Lester N. Selig, president. If the deficit is not met he warned that the sixteen institutions and agencies supported by the charities face serious curtailment.

Child Puzzled by Too Quick Mood Change

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"My father," writes a young mother, "is a great tease. He takes most of it out on my little boy, his grandson. Also, he likes to rough him around—thinks it's good for him. But let Billy tease him back, or let him punch, get rough in his childish way, and the roof flies off! Then he's in disgrace and I'm supposed to spank him."

The children's father was fooling with them. They'd reached the point of calling each other silly names, each vying with the other. Then, getting wilder and wilder, one of the children used an expression in innocence and fun which affronted the sophisticated, grownup ears of his father. Suddenly a cloud descended. Father's expression changed.

"Now you've gone too far," he said. And all the hilarity and happiness went out of the atmosphere and the children were like little deflated balloons.

Another time mother, who was jolly and strong, was "roughing" with the children. In their exuberance one of the children wound up by delivering a resounding whack where mother thought he shouldn't. Her dignity, which she herself had laid aside, was hurt.

"Now that is disrespectful," she said. "You always go too far." Once again the joy went out of life for the children, wilted by the displeasure of their mother.

Children are bewildered by these abrupt changes of attitude in their grownups. "Children always go too far," we say. Yes, they certainly do, if you start something. Only to them it isn't going too far. They don't know where to stop before offending our sense of dignity. They can't appreciate at all the fine lines we draw. And we can hardly expect them to.

It is unfair to let a black cloud of displeasure descend suddenly upon a scene of fun, to show hurt feelings and frown, or scold or punish for an innocent stepping past our boundary of suitability when we come to their level and play with the children. If we want to call a halt, all right, but let's do it in a good-natured way. Otherwise, if your dignity is so precious and your feelings so delicate, don't get down from your pedestal at all.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Omar's immortal observation: "A line perhaps divides the false and true," must have been aimed directly at bridge players. At any rate it is certainly appropriate. The line between success and failure on certain hands is so thin as to be almost imperceptible. Yet the line is there, and apparently millions of players have trouble in crossing it. For example, if the declarer in today's hand had known how close he was to victory, he probably would have committed hari-kari over the actual defeat.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
6 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the spade jack. Sight of the dummy disclosed that the contract was a good one and that it would meet defeat only if two diamond tricks were lost. One of dummy's diamonds could be discarded on declarer's second heart trick, but this still would leave three diamonds in dummy and it would be necessary either to get a good break in the suit, with the king or jack coming to light, or do some good guessing. Probably declarer thought well of his own guessing ability, because he proceeded with a certain amount of jauntiness.

He won with the ace of spades, drew the opposing trumps, cashed the ace and king of hearts, discarding a diamond from dummy, and led a low diamond to the ace. A diamond then was returned toward the closed hand's Q-10, and if East had been of an obliging nature and put up his king, declarer's problem would not have arisen. Unfortunately [from declarer's viewpoint] East was disinclined to win one trick without the prospect of a second, hence unhesitantly ducked to dummy's diamond lead. Declarer, suddenly less sure of himself, fidgeted and fumbled, first detaching the diamond queen, then the ten from his hand, and finally selected the latter. To his horror he saw West gobble up the trick with the jack. A spade was returned and there was the poor declarer left high and dry with another losing diamond. A sad case, indeed.

I highly approve self-confidence, even to the extent of a player taking pride in his own guessing ability. I do think, however, that such confidence is not quite a match for plays that eliminate the necessity for a guess. As readers undoubtedly have noted, two absurdly simple plays, involving no more than the cashing of tricks, would have made this contract ironclad.

After winning the opening lead, drawing trumps, and cashing the two high hearts, all declarer had to do was cash the other spade trick and ruff his remaining heart in dummy. Then there would have been no mystery as to how to attack the diamond suit. On a low diamond lead to the ace and a diamond return, declarer could put up either the queen or ten. If West had both the king and jack at this point, of course nothing could save declarer, but if he had only one honor it would not matter which it was. Let us assume the worst, that on the diamond return from dummy East ducks, and declarer plays the ten, losing to the jack. West can return only a spade or a heart, on either of which dummy can discard its remaining diamond while declarer ruffs.

Surely to strip the spades and hearts from both the North and South hands before going after the diamonds requires no great vision. It is just another case of "nothing to lose and possibly a great deal to gain."

The meat for this business woman's easy-to-cook dinner won't make much of a dent in the food budget, for a little ground beef goes a long way when it's baked inside of tomatoes.

Lyonnaise potatoes are easy to prepare, especially if the potatoes have been boiled ahead of time. Leftover potatoes will do very nicely or freshly cooked, drained potatoes may be used.

The dessert requires no preparation other than washing and, perhaps, slicing the fruit.

BEEF STUFFED TOMATOES

Select tomatoes of even size, one for each person to be served. A half pound of ground beef will be enough meat to fill four tomato cups. Season it with salt and pepper and add a few bread crums if you want to stretch it. Brown in a small amount of fat and combine with the pulp scooped from the tomatoes. Do not peel the tomatoes. Fill the tomato shells with the meat mixture and place on a baking pan. Lay a strip of bacon over each and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, or in the broiling oven at the same temperature until bacon is cooked and tomatoes are soft.

Lyonnaise Potatoes
[Serves three]
3 medium potatoes, cooked and sliced
1 onion, thinly sliced
3 tablespoons butter
Salt, pepper, parsley

Use cold boiled potatoes or freshly cooked ones. Brown the onion in butter for 5 minutes and add sliced potatoes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, cover, and cook slowly until potatoes are browned. Sprinkle with finely chopped parsley if desired.

For the dessert arrange pieces of fresh fruits on individual plates or use a bowl of fresh fruit as a centerpiece for the table and pass it at dessert time. Green gage plums, pears, peaches, bananas, seedless grapes, and blue grapes make a beautiful combination served individually or in the bowl.

TURNER HOLDS CHICAGO TEAM TO FIVE HITS

Losers Are 6½ Games Behind Pirates.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Leo Jr., the Cubs' blue stocking pennant bee, yesterday got tangled up with Casey Stengel's second division breed of Bees. Long before the swarm from the Boston apiary got through with Leo, the poor fellow was flying backward, just like that fabled bird, the whiffenpoof. Which simply is our smart Aleck way of reporting that the Bees gave the Cubs' latest pennant fever an awful jolt by whipping them, 8 to 1, in the opener of a three game series.

The Chicagoans' encounter with Jim Turner was tragic far beyond the humiliation of again jumping through hoops at the Boston milkman's bidding. The Cubs, with 32 games to go, sagged 6½ games back of the Pirates and blew a chance to go into second place ahead of the Giants who also took a severe trimming in their activities in Pittsburgh.

Cubs Get Five Hits.

As early as the second inning Turner drove in enough runs to underwrite his victory. He sent in a pair with a double off Tex Carleton, starting pitcher, who in years past made a good living by habitually beating the Boston outfit.

Although Turner has lost 14 games this year he kept the Cubs on a sparse hit diet as usual. He yielded five hits, including two singles by Phil Cavarretta, the first and last hits he gave up. One of the others was a double by Augie Galan, which scored Bill Herman, who had drawn Jim's only pass.

The Bees, who have gained some fame this summer as hitless wonders, made sixteen hits, eight off Carleton, five off Charley Root, and three off Larry French. Each of the Cubs' three pitchers was nicked for at least one run.

The setback yesterday pulled the Cubs back to a .500 standoff in their long home stand. They have won and lost nine and have two more with the Bees before taking to the road Friday night in a jaunt that will carry them to all of the National league teams in the western wheel.

Bees Score in Second.

Turner's double to right in the second inning scored the first two runs of the game. Fletcher beat out a bunt to get the inning under way and stopped at second on West's single to right. The runners advanced on Lopez's sacrifice, after which Carleton struck out Warstler. Turner then lined a double over Cavarretta's head, Fletcher and West scoring. Di Maggio fouled to Hack.

The Bees loaded the bases with none out in the third, but eked only one run from the situation. Stripp opened with a single and stopped at third on Garms' double. The bases were loaded after Cuccinello walked. Fletcher hit into a double play, Stripp scoring, after which West flied to Reynolds.

The Cubs in the fourth spoiled Turner's plans for a second successive shutout of the Chicagoans. Herman walked and, after Hack had flied to Di Maggio, scored on Galan's double to the right field wall. Augie's shot was the second hit off Turner, Cavarretta having singled with two out in the second inning.

Carleton Goes Out.

Carleton was knocked out in the fifth. Di Maggio pushed off with a single to left and went to third on Stripp's third hit, a single to right. Root replaced Carleton. Di Maggio scored while Jurges was throwing out Garms. Cuccinello lined to Hack but Fletcher singled to right, scoring Stripp. West popped to Hack.

With two out in the home sixth

RIGNEY'S SIX HIT PITCHING BREAKS LOSING STREAK

Schlueter Makes Winning Run After Doubling.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—The youthful John Rigney today found the solution for a White Sox losing streak which had extended through five games. He dissolved it with a sparkling six hitter against the Senators, who under that sort of harsh treatment accepted defeat gracefully, 3 to 2, in the opener of the series.

The Sox weren't able to back up the Rigney masterpiece, the kid's seventh triumph, with much batting violence, but what little they accomplished in this respect they made productive. All of their seven taps were off Pete Appleton in eight innings. Two of them were converted into the first run in the fifth, one of them became a run in the seventh, and one other grew into a run in the eighth. The reason the latter pair were helpful was that they went for extra bases, Rip Radcliff and Norman Schlueter being the perpetrators thereof.

One Hit a Fluke.

Rigney's display was so impressive that the 3,000 in attendance didn't lack for opportunity to indulge in their favorite sport—needling the home athletes. The needlers got off to a flying start because Rigney didn't yield a hit in two innings and only two in six innings. Of the four remaining hits one was a fluke which Zeke Bonura appreciated and the other a bunt. There were two in the ninth, however, and these were legitimate, the Senators using them for their second run.

Before getting around to a bit of scoring the Sox had enjoyed various chances, none of them very good. Walker doubled with two out in the first inning and expired when Radcliff grounded to Travis. In the second Dykes singled with two out and continued to second on Simmons' fumble. Dykes suspected this was a plot on the part of his old pal to put unnecessary pressure on his aged legs. Schlueter rolled to Lewis for the third out. The only other Sox base runner in the first four innings was Owen, who singled after two were gone in the third and expired stealing.

Hit and Run Works.

A single to right by Steinbacher opened the Sox's one run incident in the fifth. On a hit and run Dykes bounced a single between Bonura and Myer, putting Steinbacher on third. Steinbacher scored while Schlueter was forcing Dykes at second. Then Rigney split the air with a whistling liner, but unhappily it sailed into Myer's hands and Schlueter was doubled off first base.

The only Senator to reach base against Rigney in four innings was West, who opened the third with a single and got an extra base because Steinbacher fumbled. This created somewhat of a tight spot for the kid, but he didn't hesitate. West took third on Guiliani's sacrifice, after which Appleton and Case fouled out.

There was another hit off Rigney in the home fifth and it caused a tie. The hit was a triple to right by Myer with one out. He scored on West's deep fly to Radcliff.

The seventh got under way with Radcliff drilling a three bagger to the fence in right center. A moment later he scampered home on Appling's roller to Myer, putting the Sox in front, 2 to 1. Radcliff also figured in the enemy half of the inning, thereby cooking up some distress for Rigney. Travis failed to beat out a bunt and the next batter was Bonura, who dispatched a fly to left. Radcliff misjudged it and the ball dropped for a double. Simmons lofted to Steinbacher, Bonura taking third. Myer walked but order was restored on West's pop to Appling.

Schlueter Hits Double.

The lone hit that gave the Sox their run in the eighth was a two bagger

VETERANS CARRY REDSKINS' HOPES INTO BIG GAME

Win or Lose, They'll Put On a Great Show.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Ninety minutes of calesthenics, passing, and signals in Soldiers' field last night completed the Washington Redskins' preparations for the All-Star game. It was the world champions' thirty-first workout. Whether it was enough for the most exacting test in football can be answered only by the outcome of tonight's contest.

As Coach Ray Flaherty herded his squad of thirty-one players, eighteen veterans and thirteen rookies, back to their south side hotel, where the final stroke in preparations will be a long blackboard drill, observers were able to make the following definite deductions:

It's a Good Team.

1—Washington is a good football team, better, in fact, because of capable reserves than it was last fall when it won the National league championship.

2—The players are in excellent shape, better than any of their professional predecessors in the series, inasmuch as they have not been fatigued attaining physical perfection.

3—Their attack, built around the matchless passing ability of Sammy Baugh, is capable of scoring against any defense in football, and is the style of play most conducive to a spectacular show.

It is the uncertainties, however, that are bothering Flaherty and followers of the professionals, those puzzling intangibles such as mental attitude and teamwork. Flaherty is beginning to wonder whether he has driven the squad hard enough. The entire training program was based on the thought that special preparation for the All-Star game had reacted against the previous professional representatives. To safeguard against a repetition of this mistake, Flaherty worked the team as if it were getting ready for the league season.

They Get Exercises.

The drills have been marked by an abundance of calisthenics. Flaherty follows the late Knute Rockne in this. Exercises of this type are standard in all football training camps, but no team does more of it than Washington. Each drill is preceded by 25 minutes of muscle stretching. On days when double drills were in order, the squad spent nearly an hour bending, leaping, and going through the routine forms of gymnasium work.

For the last week, workouts have been limited to one light drill a day. This program has brought the Redskins down to the game full of fire. The players are rested and ready to do their best.

The major factor in attaining this perfection, which is known in the trade as clicking, is mental attitude, and it was evident in the final drill that the Redskins were not yet sufficiently inspired by the approach of battle. The old professional jinx still stalks the All-Star game, apparently. The college coaches do not have this trouble. The All-Star game is a spectacular and inspiring climax to the collegians' careers. They always are ready mentally. To the professionals, however, it merely is a difficult opening game to a long, hard schedule.

Ray Knows His Trade.

Flaherty, in his two years as a coach, however, has proved himself somewhat of a genius in lifting the Redskins to the heights. When they were counted out in the eastern division race two years ago he whipped them into a fighting pack over night and beat the New York Giants for the title. Last fall the team had only one chance of remaining in the division race. That was by defeating the Green Bay Packers, who were recovering from the effects of the All-Star game and early season reverses and were bowling over everything in their way. Washington appeared to be outclassed, but Flaherty lifted the club

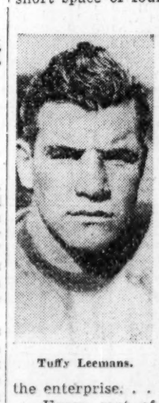
In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

TONIGHT may be your night with somebody else, but it's Sammy Baugh's night with Whizzer White and his sixty-five All-America teammates. . . . At 8:20 o'clock Baugh and his Washington Redskins, champions of the National Professional league, meet YOUR All-America football team in Chicago's fifth annual All-Star charity game. . . . In the short space of four years the All-Star football game has become the giant of sports promotions. . . . The event belongs to no individual, to no organization. . . . It's the fans' game. . . . They chose the college players. . . . They picked a staf of coaches to lead them. . . . Their support at the gate has made the presentation possible. . . . More people have had a hand in this spectacle than in any other event in the history of sport. . . . Thousands upon thousands of college alumni worked tirelessly to elect players and coaches to the squads. . . . Governors and legislatures have halted their work to cast ballots for players. . . . The heads of America's greatest industries have interested themselves in the various campaigns. . . . Newspapers and radio stations from coast to coast have assisted in the development of the enterprise. . . . For coöperative effort it stands alone. . . .



Tuffy Leemans.

Corby Davis.

Every cent of profit will be divided equally, as always, among the United Charities, the Jewish Charities, and the Catholic Charities of Chicago. . . . That is reason enough, perhaps, for the presentation of the game. . . . That angle, however, never is stressed. . . . The All-Star game, like Golden Gloves and other events sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., is sold entirely on a sporting basis. . . . Our aim is to present to the fans of Chicagoland the finest football talent in the land. . . . We don't care whether the players come from California, Florida, or Maine. . . . If the fans want them, we invite them. . . . Their chances of getting into the game depend solely on their ability. . . . The college coaches are required to start the eleven players who received the greatest number of votes in the national poll, provided they survive the training session in good physical condition. . . . They are free, however, to make substitutions any time after the kickoff. . . .

Like the All-Star interleague baseball game, the All-Star football game always has rewarded patrons with performances that will live forever in the records of sport. . . . Who will forget the great defensive work of Chuck Bernard of Michigan, Ed Krause of Notre Dame, and Mike Mikulak of Oregon in the first All-Star game in 1934? . . . The following year brought the brilliant play of Bill Shepherd of Western Maryland, whose reputation previously had been limited to the vicinity of his school. . . . In 1936 it was Babe Levoir of Minnesota and Tuffy Leemans of George Washington, whose remarkable performances enabled the All-Stars to tie the Detroit Lions, 7 to 7. . . . Last year it was Sammy Baugh's pass to Gaynell Tinsley and the latter's run for a touchdown that whipped the Green Bay Packers, 6 to 0, for the only victory the All-Stars have scored. . . .

What will the fifth battle of the gridiron greats develop? . . . Will it be the spectacular forward passing of Sammy Baugh, who now finds himself on the other side of the All-Star line? . . . Will it be the passing and running of Whizzer White or the plunging of Corby Davis? . . .

Whatever the result, this department wishes again to emphasize that the All-Star game is not presented as a test of college and professional football. . . . It merely provides the fans of Chicago and the nation an evening of wholesome recreation. . . . On one field you see the greatest players the 1937 football season developed. . . . That ought to be enough to satisfy any one. . . . We are appreciative of the enthusiastic coöperation we have had from college athletic directors and football leaders everywhere. . . . Our thanks, too, to the owners of the clubs in the National Professional league who have made available to this game all incoming material. . . . Most of all, however, our gratitude to the fans of America, without whose support there would be no All-Star football game.

Ten Years Ago Today—The United States Walker cup team defeated Great Britain, eleven matches to one. . . . The Cubs defeated Cincinnati, 5 to 3, and gained a half game on the league leading Cardinals. . . . Manager Lena Blackburn of the White Sox was suspended for three days by President Barnard for arguing with Umpire Barry.

165 Piece Band Will Parade for All-Star Throng

The All-Star band which will entertain between halves of the game between the Washington Redskins and College All-Americans tonight is made up of 165 musicians from fifty colleges. The band, under the direction of Glenn Cliff Bainum of Northwestern university, is headed by twelve drum majors from as many schools.

One of the band's maneuvers is the formation in electric lights of a bow and arrow 125 feet long which will be shot the length of the field in moving lights. There also will be an Indian tepee and three bonfires formed in lights as a tribute to the Redskins. The All-Stars will be honored with mammoth stars in colored lights.

Snite to See All-Stars Play from His Trailer

Frederick B. Snite Jr., infantile paralysis victim, will view tonight's All-Star-Redskins football game in Soldiers' field from his specially constructed, traveling iron lung. The trailer will be parked at the north end of the field and Snite will view the game with the aid of mirrors.

Airlines Put on Extra Ships for All-Star Fans

Every available airplane is being pressed into service by American Airlines today and tomorrow to accommodate the influx of football fans for tonight's All-Star game in Soldiers' field. Extra planes are being operated from New York, Detroit, Boston, Washington, Los Angeles, and St. Louis.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The All-Americans against the Washington Redskins, champions of professional football.

Sammy Baugh against Whizzer White.

Tonight is the night of the world's most remarkable football game, the fifth annual charity contest between the college All-Stars of 1937 and the champions from Washington, D. C. On Soldiers' field, the same gridiron where Baugh threw the pass that whipped the Green Bay Packers last year, he will seek to pass his professional mates to victory over the All-Americans.

Eighty thousand, a capacity crowd, will watch the battle of skill and power. Several thousand seats now remain, but these $2.20 and $1.10 tickets will be sold before the game. They may be purchased until 6 p. m. at the Tribune public service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. Thereafter tickets will be on sale at Soldiers' field.

Ticket offices also will be opened at 9 o'clock in the morning at Gates 0 and 15 at Soldiers' field.

No One Will Be Disappointed.

No one will be turned away. Arrangements have been completed for sale of general admission tickets at $1. These permit occupancy of the bleacher seats in front of the concrete horseshoe at the south end of the gridiron.

Colorful opening ceremonies will start promptly at 8:20 o'clock. Each year thousands of fans, caught in the trafic jam on the lake front, are unable to reach the field before the start of the ceremonies. It is hoped this year that no one will be disappointed, that when all the lights in the stadium are turned out, and giant spotlights pick up the individuals of the starting eleven as they are introduced, all will see and hear the introductions.

Marty Schreyer, Purdue tackle, is the only one of the eleven players elected in the national poll who will be unable to start against Washington. Schreyer received more than a million votes in the poll conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and 150 associated newspapers and radio stations. In the first scrimmage in Dyche stadium two weeks ago his knee was injured and he has been unable to practice since.

Because he is unable to line up for one play after the kickoff, it has been necessary to move Fred Shirey of Nebraska to left tackle. Shirey finished third in the group of tackles in the poll.

Schwartz Will Start.

Perry Schwartz, California end, who was chosen to open the game paired with Chuck Sweeney of Notre Dame, will start. Schwartz has a broken thumb and his arm has been in a cast for a week, but he will have the cast cut down to permit free movement of his arm and he has convinced the coaches he can start against the Redskins.

Other starting members of the All-Americans were elected by the fans. More than eight and a half million votes were cast in the poll, an all-

SID RICHARDSON TAKES MEDAL IN AMATEUR TRIAL

Shoots Record 65 After Opening with 75.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Sidney Gray Richardson is a determined young man who refused to be discouraged by the fact that he trailed a golfing pacemaker by seven shots. The 21 year old Northwestern university senior demonstrated same yesterday at Kildeer Country club by winning the qualifying honors in the Chicago district trials for the national amateur tournament.

Richardson shot the first eighteen holes of the 36 hole test in a not particularly rousing 75, three over par. That left him seven strokes back of Jack Hoerner of North Shore, who smacked out a 68 on his morning round. While Jack was ascending to a 77 in the afternoon, Richardson was searing Kildeer's water course with a 65, seven under par.

Ties Course Record.

Richardson's card tied the course record held by Professional George Arnold and lowered the competitive amateur record of 66 set by Chuck Kocsis of Michigan in the Big Ten meet a few years ago.

Richardson's total of 140 was four under par and gave him a four stroke edge on the field of 65 starters who were seeking the eleven places alloted to Chicago for the tournament proper, to be played at Oakmont, Pa., from Sept. 12 through Sept. 17. Chicago will have twelve representatives in the big show, Chick Evans of Edgewater qualifying automatically by virtue of being a former champion.

Wagner, Doering Tie.

Yesterday's medalist first made his mark in the western junior, which he won at Sunset Ridge in 1936. He won the Big Ten championship at Kildeer last year and repeated last spring at Minneapolis. He is a senior in the school of commerce.

Four shots back of Richardson were John [Pick] Wagner, like Sid a member of Kildeer, and Art Doering of Westward Ho, Chicago District champion and low amateur in the national open this year. Each had 144, a shot better than Hoerner and Johnny Krutilla of Olympia Fields, the latter finishing with 74—71—145. Deadlocked at 146 were Don Armstrong of Aurora, a national semi-finalist in 1934; Jimmy Frisina of Midlothian; C. J. Farley of Grand Rapids, and Gus Moreland of Peoria, former western amateur king and Walker cup player. John Lehman of Olympia Fields was next with 147, followed by Gardner Brown of Onwentsia with 148.

Hicks Wins Alternate Position.

That 148 completed the quota of qualifiers and proved to be one of the lowest in the history of the event. Outstanding failures were Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., 1937 western amateur titleholder; Ted Adams, St. Louis school teacher who recently won the Canadian amateur, and Chuck Becka of Calumet, one of the district's most consistent qualifiers.

Three 149 scorers played off for the three alternate positions, to be taken in the event that one of the regular qualifiers is unable to compete at Oakmont. Hunter Hicks of Skokie won the playoff with a birdie 3, followed by a four submitted by Chuck Boywid of Big Oaks, and a 5 by Steve Williams of Evanston.

Greyhound Fails in Bid to Break Mark for Mile

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Greyhound failed to threaten his own world record in an exhibition mile here today, trotting the mile in 1:59¼, well above his mark of 1:56. The grey gelding, driven by Sep Palin, trotted an even race, staying close to 30 seconds for each quarter, but was above the track record of 1:58 set by Peter Manning on Sept. 14, 1921.

SUHR DRIVES IN 5 RUNS; PIRATES WHIP GIANTS, 7-1

League Leaders Extend Margin to 6½ Games.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The Pirates, behind Jim Tobin's eighth five hit pitching job of the year, rode over the crippled New York Giants today, battering their way to a 7 to 1 triumph that increased their league lead over New York to six and a half games. Gus Suhr, who has been benched several times this season for failing to hit, paced the Pirates. He had a walk, a single, double, and triple, and drove in five runs.

INVENTION GIVES PLAINFIELD ITS THIRD POLICEMAN

If you hear something bursting from pride today, that'll be Plainfield. It's becoming a three cop town. The telephone company is putting in a dial system. That means no operator to track down volunteer firemen at their homes for excited citizens whose homes are burning. The police could do it, but there have been only two in this Will county town of 1,400. They work eight hours a day each. That leaves eight hours with no one at the station to call out the firemen. And that's why Plainfield's going to be a three cop town.

SEVERAL ISSUES GIVE BOOST TO NEW FINANCING

Utility, Municipal Bonds Offered.

Increase in new financing was indicated yesterday. Announcement was made of a $10,000,000 utility offering for today. Several municipal issues were placed on the market. Additional steps were taken on one $30,000,000 and one $25,000,000 issue. Several large issues were placed with private investors.

A banking group headed by Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc., will offer today $10,000,000 of Gulf States Utilities company first mortgage and refunding 4 per cent bonds, series C, due Oct. 1, 1966, at 104 and accrued interest.

Gulf States recently acquired the Louisiana Steam Generating corporation and all properties and business, except bus properties, of the Baton Rouge Electric company.

Will Redeem Other Bonds.

Proceeds from the sale of the bonds will be used to redeem various bond issues, pay bank loans, and for general corporate purposes. The sum of $3,248,080 will be used for construction. Gulf States operates in southeastern Texas and south central Louisiana.

R. W. Pressprich & Co. heads a group which is offering a new issue of $2,000,000 of 3½ per cent and 3¼ per cent refunding bonds of the Orleans Levee District, Louisiana [City of New Orleans]. Dated Sept. 1, 1938, the bonds are due from 1939 to 1962. The 3½ per cent bonds are priced to yield from 1.50 per cent to 3.30 per cent for the 1939 to 1949 maturities, and are being priced at 101½ to 99 for the 1950 to 1962 maturities. The 3¼ per cent bonds mature in 1962 and are priced to yield 3.50 per cent.

Offer Knoxville Bonds.

A banking group headed by Blyth & Co., Inc., was awarded $6,000,000 Knoxville, Tenn., Electric System Revenue bonds bearing 3½ per cent and 3¼ per cent. Reoffering was made of the 3½ per cent bonds in an amount of $4,280,000, due 1941 to 1954, at prices to yield from 2 to 3.40 per cent. The 3¼ per cent bonds, in the amount of $1,720,000, and due 1955 to 1958, were reoffered at prices to yield 3.40 per cent.

Proceeds are to be used to acquire the properties of the Knoxville division of the electric distribution system of the Tennessee Public Service Co., and for improvements to the system.

Stockholders of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company at a special meeting voted to waive perëmption rights on not more than 500,000 shares of authorized but not issued common stock.

Pave Way for Bond Issue.

They also empowered the directors to confer upon the holders of any securities which may be issued the right to convert such securities into common stock. This paves the way for the issue of $30,000,000 of 10 year convertible debentures, recently registered with the securities and exchange commission. Sale of the debentures is expected early in September.

An amended statement with the SEC yesterday disclosed that the $25,000,000 issue of Argentine bonds, twice postponed, will be placed on the market Sept. 19. The bonds are 10 year sinking fund obligations bearing 4½ per cent. They will be offered by a group headed by Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc. and the First Boston corporation.

Borrow $25,000,000 Privately.

The Consolidated Oil corporation disclosed that it has borrowed $25,000,000 from a private source, reported to be an insurance company. The loan is said to be for twelve years at a rate under 3½ per cent.

Coincident with the loan the company announced that it is redeeming 55,309 shares of its outstanding preferred stock on Oct. 1 at $105 a share plus dividends.

The Pillsbury Flour Mills company will sell $6,000,000 of new 3¾ per cent first mortgage bonds, due Oct. 1, 1953, to the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. All of the $4,317,000 first mortgage 6 per cent gold bonds due Oct. 1, 1943, now outstanding were called for redemption on Oct. 1, 1938, at 102½. The remainder of the proceeds will be added to working capital. Sale of the bonds was handled through Pipe, Jaffray & Hopwood and Goldman, Sachs & Co.

REAR ENGINED 'AUTO PATENTED BY GEN. MOTORS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—A system providing for the rear engine operation of automobiles was patented here today by the General Motors corporation. The inventor is Eric O. Schjolin, Pontiac, Mich.

The General Motors patent is not expected to be followed by the early introduction of rear engine automobiles. Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, on his return from Europe yesterday indicated that there would not be any radical changes in automobiles this year. The Ford Motor company also recently patented a rear engine drive and it is expected that the major companies want to be prepared for such an innovation.

In the General Motors device metal ribbons connect a conventional clutch pedal and gear shifting lever with the engine at the rear. The device provides that the engine block and the housing of the rear axle would be in one piece. The engine is of the conventional type.

Nickel Plate Road Defers Bond Interest

The plight of the railroads was emphasized yesterday by two actions. Meeting in Cleveland, O., the directors of the New York, Chicago, and St. Louis railroad [Nickel Plate] deferred payment of $1,347,187 interest due Sept. 1 on the road's refunding mortgage 4½ per cent bonds. In New York, directors of the Baltimore and Ohio approved the road's plan to modify interest charges and maturities of bonds of that pioneer road.

George D. Brooke tells peril of bankruptcy to Nickel Plate.

The Nickel Plate was the original major railroad in the old Van Sweringen rail empire. It is now controled by the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, which the late Van Sweringen Brothers of Cleveland also controled. It operates about 1,705 miles of line between Buffalo, Chicago, St. Louis, Toledo, and Peoria.

Asks Extension of Notes.

With its earnings reduced sharply by the business decline, the road announced about a month ago that it was asking the holders of its 6 per cent unsecured notes, totaling about $15,000,000, to consent to a three year extension of the issue, which matures Oct. 1.

George D. Brooke, president, in a letter to the noteholders said that reorganization of the line under section 77 of the amended bankruptcy act was inevitable unless substantially all of the noteholders accepted the plan.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, at the conclusion of the directors' meeting announced that the directors had approved the plan for modification of interest and maturities. It was stated previously that the plan was formed as a means of saving the road from seeking relief of the courts under section 77 of the bankruptcy act.

Urges Holders to Accept.

Willard said he will send a letter to holders of the company's securities, explaining that he believes acceptance will be in their best interest. The B. & O. will present the plan to the interstate commerce commission shortly, he said, and after this is done it will be given public notice.

The B. & O., like most other roads, has had to face the problem of rising expenses in the face of declining revenues caused by the business setback. For the first six months of 1938 the road had a loss of $11,741,308 after taxes and charges. Last year it had a net income of $11,756 in the corresponding period.

The funded debt of the road aggregates $667,512,000. It has borrowed heavily from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and its debts to that federal agency aggregate $88,000,000.

Designed to Relieve Road.

The plan to modify interest and maturities was devised to give the road relief after it appeared that it could not meet its fixed obligations.

The plan to modify interest and A number of leading institutional investors, including life insurance companies, are reported to have given their approval to the plan. Subsidiaries of the road are included in the plan.

The United States District court at Chicago has authorized the Milwaukee railroad on Sept. 1 to make principal and interest payments totaling $727,899 in addition to a final payment of $66,000 on series M equipment trust certificates. In addition to payments on other equipment trust certificates, the payment will include interest on Chicago, Terre Haute and Southeastern railway income bonds.

2 STATE BANKS REPAY $161,598 TO DEPOSITORS

Checks aggregating $161,598 have been mailed to approximately 13,500 depositors in two defunct state banks in the Chicago area, Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, announced last night.

Approximately 8,000 depositors of the Central Manufacturing District bank, formerly located at 1110 West 35th street, Chicago, received $126,789. This payment, a 5 per cent distribution, brought total repayments to 40 per cent.

A 5 per cent distribution, aggregating $34,809, went to approximately 5,500 depositors of the Cicero Trust & Savings bank. This brought total repayments to 25 per cent.

Air Passenger Trafic Up in July; Express Declines

Passenger trafic on the nation's air lines was much heavier in July than June or in July of last year, the Civil Aeronautics authority reported yesterday. Transport companies carried 127,590 passengers in the month against 115,255 in June and 120,571 in July, 1937. Express poundage declined during the month, however. Only 541,346 pounds were carried compared with 558,710 pounds in June and 611,562 pounds in July of last year.

Jewel Tea Sales Rise 2.08 Pct. Over Last Year

The Jewel Tea company said yesterday that sales in the four weeks ended Aug. 13 amounted to $1,763,579, an increase of 2.08 per cent over sales of $1,727,631 in the corresponding period last year. For the 32 weeks ended on the same date sales of the company, which has general offices in Barrington, totaled $14,532,468 against $14,069,924, in the like 1937 weeks, an increase of 3.29 per cent.

BOEING, TIMKEN REPORT LOSSES IN 2D QUARTER

Bulova Watch Has Smaller Profit.

The Boeing Airplane company had an indicated net loss of $41,746 in the three months ended June 30, the company's quarterly statement showed yesterday. This compared with a loss of $52,015 in the first quarter, and profit of $137,960 in the second quarter of 1937.

Timken Roller Bearing company also reported a loss for the June quarter. Lower profits for the period were shown by the Bulova Watch company. Stokely Brothers & Co., food canner and packer, had a loss for the fiscal year ended May 31.

The W. T. Grant company reported sharply lower profits for the first half of the 1938 fiscal year than for the same period last year.

Boeing's sales in the June quarter were indicated at $410,664, against $1,058,305 in the first quarter, and $2,134,532 in the second three months of last year.

Works on Flying Boats.

The low sales volume was accounted for by the fact that Boeing's operations this year have been concentrated largely on production of six four engine 40 ton flying boats for the Pan-American Airways and eight four engine land transports. Actual deliveries of these will not begin until this autumn, and work on them is not reflected in sales and income figures for the first six months of this year.

Although Boeing's backlog of orders was not reported in the statement, it is estimated to exceed $15,000,000. It amounted to more than $14,000,000 in March. Since then an army contract for 13 super flying fortresses for more than $3,000,000 has been granted.

This makes a total of 39 army fortresses on order. Deliveries on these will not start until 1939 and about a year will be required to complete the order.

Had Profit Last Year.

Boeing's indicated net loss for the first half of this year was $93,761, against profit of $253,897 in the first half of 1937. For the twelve months ended June 30 the loss was $35,975.

The June quarter loss of Timken Roller Bearing amounted to $109,064, against net income of $273,266, or 11 cents a share, in the preceding quarter. In the second three months of 1937, the company had a net profit of $3,623,976. Profit in the first half of this year totaled $164,201, against $6,792,182 in the first six months of last year.

Bulova Watch company reported for the second quarter a net profit of $154,048, against $566,351 in the corresponding 1937 period.

Net loss of Stokely Brothers in the fiscal year ended May 31 amounted to $353,295. This was in contrast to a profit of $938,714 in the preceding year.

Grant Company's Report.

Net profit of the W. T. Grant company slumped to $154,890 for the six months ended July 31. This compared with $1,394,976 in the first half of the preceding fiscal year. The firm operates a national chain of variety stores.

The American Gas and Electric company had net income in July of $782,561, against July, 1937, net income of $922,485. This brought net income for the twelve months ended July 31 to $11,858,084, compared with $13,028,016 in the preceding twelve months. Gross revenues for the twelve months were $72,764,447, against $72,836,559.

Loblaw Groceterias, Ltd., operating a chain of self-service stores, reported a net profit of $50,070 for the four weeks ended July 23. This was a shade higher than the $49,503 earned in the corresponding weeks of 1937. For the eight weeks to July 23 profit was $108,367, against $107,315 in the 1937 period.

RailUnionWill Ask Ban on HolidayTrucks

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, on a visit to Chicago from his Cleveland headquarters yesterday said his organization was petitioning Gov. Henry Horner to bar heavy trucks from Illinois highways on week-ends and holidays. He said his interest was in public safety on the highways and in reducing competition of railroads.

A. F. Whitney.

The last regular session of the legislature at Springfield killed a bill to curb week-end and holiday trucking. It was pointed out that some freight, including milk and newspapers, must move on week-ends. The attorney general's office advised that the prohibition would be unconstitutional if it provided for exemptions.

Ask Lower Load Limit.

The railroad men are also asking that the next general assembly reduce the maximum legal load limit for trucks in Illinois from 40,000 pounds to 30,000 pounds. Assistant Attorney General Jerome F. Dixon proved to a federal court in Chicago last year that heavy trucks were causing excessive damage to the public's pavements. He defeated a petition by a group of interstate operators to restrain Illinois from enforcing its limitations.

F. Lynden Smith, director of public works, has been in sympathy with previous moves to limit week-end trucking on routes congested with pleasure trafic. However, he has contended that the state police need additional legislative authority.

Expect Action at Next Session.

In the legislature at the last session, representatives agreed that the slow trucks were a menace and a nuisance in holiday congestion. With or without the help of the railroad brotherhood, which has a special economic interest, it is evident that at the next session there will be another attempt to draft appropriate legislation, exempting essential trafic and at the same time keeping the bill within the bounds of the state constitution.

U. S. AND BRITAIN MAKE PROGRESS ON TRADE PACT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The Anglo-American reciprocal trade treaty has reached a stage of virtual agreement on rate changes affecting all major commodities, but has not yet been approved by the formal assent of the heads of the British and American governments, it was learned today.

The United States generally has fared well in the negotiations, but no one who can speak accurately will yet forecast provisions of the treaty.

Certain deductions, however, are considered logical in informed quarters. These are based on the fact that without concessions well understood in advance the treaty could not have advanced to the point where it is certain to be agreed upon.

NEW YORK CENTRAL WARNS OF FORGED BONDS IN CIRCULATION

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The New York Central railroad issued a warning today that counterfeit replicas of the road's ten year 3¾ per cent secured sinking fund bonds, issue of April 1, 1936, due April 1, 1946, were in circulation in certain parts of the country, chiefly the west and middle west.

Some of the counterfeits, the railroad said, had been presented to bankers and brokers in several cities as collateral.

"Although some of these bonds bear the numbers of the bona fide issue, they are forgeries," the railroad's announcement said. "The total so far discovered is about $80,000, of which $50,000 has been confiscated, in connection with eight or ten arrests.

"These bonds have been presented to bankers in Pueblo, Colo.; Seattle, Wash.; Emporia, Kas.; Chicago, and most recently, St. Louis."

Federal as well as local authorities are working on the case, the statement added.

OPEN OIL WELL IN NEW PART OF ILLINOIS FIELD

Fairfield, Ill., Aug. 30.—(AP)—H. E. Sloan, oil operator, said today his well in Leech township came in last night and was flowing at the rate of 500 barrels daily. The well apparently had opened a new field thirteen miles from production. Officials of the H. H. Weinert company said the second well in the Mound township field was flowing more than 4,000 barrels daily for a probable production record in the Illinois basin.

Texas Corporation Cuts Price.

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The Texas corporation announced today it had met the 10 cent reduction made by the Humble Oil and Refining company and the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company by posting a price of $1.25 a barrel for east Texas crude oil.

Crude petroleum run to stills this week by the principal units of the refining industry and gasoline refined both declined again last week, the American Petroleum institute reported today. There was a drop of more than 1,000,000 barrels in stocks of refined gasoline on hand.

Stocks Rally as War Clouds Lift Abroad

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—Again reflecting the action of European stock exchanges and the central European "war" situation—both of which improved—the stock market turned higher today. Active stocks gained fractions to 2 points.

Traders continued to be cautious, however, and only 630,650 shares changed hands. This compares with 1,248,850 shares on Monday, when prices declined 1 to 5 points.

It was again obvious, according to observers, that encouraging domestic business news was shunted to the background as traders speculated on the possibility of war. However, the consensus is that the reich-Czech strife will be compromised.

Professional Traders Buy.

A large portion of the activity today was credited to professional sources. It was said they saw in Monday's sharp slump an opportunity to try for a rally today. Some foreign buying also was reported.

Prices ran up rather smartly at the start, with leading issues rising fractions to 1½ points. Failure of selling to develop after the execution of initial orders encouraged more buying and the early advances were extended. At intervals easier tendencies were apparent, but the major portion of the gains were retained.

Industrial shares showed the largest improvement. Steel, motor, motor accessory, metal, and rubber shares were active. Leaders were United States Steel up 1⅞ points, Bethlehem up 2½, Chrysler up 2¼, General Motors up 1⅝, Anaconda up 1⅛, International Nickel up 1⅝, United States Rubber up 1⅞, and Electric Autolite up 1⅛.

Rails Improve Fractionally.

Improvement in other sections was less pronounced. Rails rose fractionally for the most part, with Southern Pacific the volume leader. Santa Fe, New York Central, and Chesapeake and Ohio, however, advanced about 1 point.

Aviation, oil, and mail order shares ruled irregularly higher. Douglas was a bright spot in the planes, rising 1¼ points.

In the chemicals, Allied Chemical dropped 3 points despite declaration of the regular quarterly dividend.

U. S. Has Loss on Sales of Export Wheat

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The agriculture department inaugurated its wheat export subsidy program today by selling 451,000 bushels of the grain to exporters agreeing to place it in foreign markets.

Bought from grain dealers earlier in the week, the grain was sold to the shippers at $24,520 less than the government paid for it. The aim is to stimulate the sale of 100,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat in world markets and thereby help relieve the pressure of excessive domestic supplies as well as hold foreign markets.

F. R. Wilcox, manager, said the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, agency conducting the export activities, had sold 235,000 bushels of wheat in the Pacific northwest at 4 cents a bushel less than it paid for the grain, and 216,000 bushels in the gulf region at a loss of 7 cents per bushel.

Officials said the volume of sales for export was expected to increase sharply before the end of the week.

British Buy Rumanian Wheat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—At a time when the United States has a big wheat surplus and a new Anglo-American trade treaty is about to be signed, it was announced tonight in London that arrangements are almost complete for the sale to Britons of 400,000 tons of Rumanian wheat worth $10,000,000.

How this will fit in with the plan of Henry A. Wallace, United States secretary of agriculture, to subsidize exports of American wheat and this country's reaction to it were not clear tonight. Evidently it will not make Wallace's problem easier if the British are buying Rumanian wheat.

Contract Being Arranged.

In any case a contract is being arranged, it was reported tonight, between organizations acting for the Rumanian government and an important Liverpool and London grain firm for a supply of this wheat over the next eight or nine months.

The amount represents approximately one-third of the Rumanian exportable surplus from the harvest just gathered. It is a bigger quantity than Rumania usually sends to Britain, and it is the first time Rumania has made a bulk contract for the shipment of wheat to this country.

Under the terms of payment, 40 per cent of the purchase price is to be paid into an Anglo-Rumanian clearing account for a reduction of outstanding debts. Another 40 per cent will be used to finance imports of additional goods from Great Britain into Rumania, and 20 per cent will be placed at the free disposal of Rumanian authorities.

May Checkmate Germany.

The British board of trade, which sent a delegation to Bucharest some time ago, has been coöperating in the negotiations.

The political significance of the deal appears to be that it will strengthen Rumanian resistance to Germany's efforts to gain economic domination of central Europe.

The interest of the board of trade in the transaction, British sources explained, has been to obtain additional funds to improve the position of the Anglo-Rumanian clearing account. This would reduce outstanding commercial debts and at the same time improve the British-Rumanian commercial relations.

Until the wheat is sold in Britain at the prevailing market prices it will remain the property of Rumanian authorities.

CHIEF EUROPEAN MONEYS FALL ON MENACE OF WAR

Price of Gold Rises as Hoarders Buy.

Currencies of the countries that would be most directly affected by a European war yesterday sank further in value in relation to gold and the American dollar.

The British pound fell to $4.8665, its old gold parity in terms of dollars, for the first time in three years. At the same time gold in the London market reached the highest price since May, 1935. The French franc and currencies of other European nations experienced corresponding depreciation in relation to gold and the dollar.

Renewed demand from hoarders swelled the volume of transactions in the London gold market. The buying, brokers reported, originated chiefly in England and continental Europe.

Gold Shipment Reaches U. S.

Meanwhile, the movement of gold to the United States increased in volume. Gold estimated in value near $21,000,000 arrived in New York on the steamer Aquitania, consigned to three New York banks. The shipment was said to be the largest ever brought to this country in one vessel. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported additional gold engagements during the day consisting of $2,380,000 in England and $500,000 in Holland.

The daily report of the federal treasury listed total gold stocks of $13,092,069,804 as of Saturday, an increase of $804,400 over the preceding day. Several millions additional have been arranged for shipment since.

Gold to Pay for Goods.

In addition to capital being sent to the United States for safekeeping and investment, there is a heavy movement of gold from abroad to pay for American merchandise. Sales of American goods to England and some other countries are running far in excess of imports from those countries, a condition which necessitates heavy shipments of gold to this country.

The price fixed for gold by London brokers was 142 shillings 11 pence an ounce, or 2½ pence [about 5 cents] higher than the preceding day. The London quotation was equivalent to $34.78 an ounce, compared with $34.77 on Monday.

Pound Below Old Parity.

The pound fell below its old parity figure on transactions in London before exchange dealings began in New York. The final quotation on the pound in New York was $4.85⅞, or 1⅛ cents below Monday's closing price. The franc closed at 2.75625 cents, off 0.00 9-16 cent. Swiss currency also closed lower. Holland currency did not share the general weakness of foreign currencies, closing 0.03 cent higher at 54.44 cents.

FSCC Will Offer Hides Bought During '34 Drouth

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation has announced that it will offer for sale approximately 107,000 hides acquired during the emergency cattle program in effect during the 1934 drouth. Bids on the hides will be opened Sept. 8. There are said to be comparatively few of the drouth hides left unsold. A majority was disposed of during the rising markets of 1936-'37.

Prices of Automobiles.

Figures compiled by the Automobile Manufacturers' association show that in the last few years the tendency of the majority of Americans has been toward the buying of medium priced automobiles. In 1937 the percentage of total factory sales at wholesale for cars at $500 or under was 33.6 per cent. The factory wholesale price, of course, is the bare price for the car, without the accessories taken by the purchaser. The number of cars sold by the factories in this bracket was 1,368,018.

In the next higher bracket, $501 to $750, there were 2,392,415 cars sold, or 58.8 per cent of the total. In the third bracket, $751 to $1,000, there were 260,280 cars sold, or 6.4 per cent. In the fourth bracket, $1,001 to $1,500, 31,226 cars, or 0.8 per cent, were sold.

In the fifth, $1,501 to $2,000, 11,633, or 0.28 per cent were sold. In the sixth bracket, $2,001 to $3,000, 4,61, or 0.09 per cent, were sold. In the highest bracket, over $3000, only 1,302, or 0.03 per cent, were sold.

In 1932, during the depression, 67 per cent of the cars sold were in the lowest price range. In 1933 the percentage in this class was 80.9. Since then it has dropped to the 33.6 per cent for 1937.

In 1932 the percentage of medium priced cars sold was 22. It 1933 it dropped to 14.6 per cent. Since then the rate has increased each year to the 1937 figure of 58.8 per cent.

DIRECTORS MEET TODAY ON PLANS FOR CHESAPEAKE

Legal Opinion Is Ready on Tax Liability.

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Directors of Chesapeake corporation will meet here tomorrow. They will get an opinion of counsel on the tax liability phases of the proposed dissolution of the former middle unit of the Van Sweringen rail system.

Reluctance of directors of Chesapeake and of the Alleghany corporation to risk possible personal liability for tax assessments and other problems connected with the dissolution caused previous postponements. The Alleghany corporation is the remaining top holding company of the old rail empire.

Approved by Young.

If the attorneys' plans meet with the directors' approval, they are expected to proceed with the dissolution plan. This plan is reported to have met the compromise approval of Robert R. Young, chairman of the Alleghany, and representatives of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway.

The management group of the C. & O. and major policies will not be affected to any substantial degree. Spokesmen for the groups involved refused comment on the legal questions involved.

Offers 24 for Bonds.

A price of 24 to 24.1 was given today by the Guaranty Trust company as the amount which it, as trustee, could pay for Alleghany corporation collateral trust convertible 5 per cent bonds of 1950.

Tenders were asked Aug. 19 at a flat price, the bonds to include the coupons of Oct. 1, 1939, and subsequently. The sum of $50,000 is available for such repurchases.

The price which Guaranty Trust company as trustee may pay is governed by terms of the indenture, involving among other things the current value of collateral.

Sen. Harrison Warns Spending Spree 'Can't Go on for Long'

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the senate finance committee, served notice again today of his independence on major governmental fiscal policies.

Senator Harrison.

Informally addressing the state Democratic committee, meeting here to ratify the renomination of Mississipi's congressional delegation Senator Harrison praised President Roosevelt as a "great humanitarian leader," "but declared "excessive federal spending must cease."

Will Fight for Economy.

Senator Harrison said he would seek in the next congress to reduce governmental expenses.

"No government can continue long to live beyond its means of support and maintain its credit and integrity," he said. "Certainly we must take care of the hungry and the starving, but you and I know there are thousands on the WPA rolls who have no business there. Too many people in America think the government exists just to take care of them."

Senator Harrison defended the tax bill upon which he had differed with the President, asserting that the original capital gains tax was a failure "and even the lawyers and experts couldn't understand it."

Assails High Taxes.

"You can't take 80 or 90 per cent of a man's income in federal taxes and expect him to risk his money in industrial investments," he said. "Money is what makes the mare go."

Senator Harrison thanked the state committee for recently endorsing him for the Presidential nomination, but added he had not been "touched by the Presidential bee."

"I regret to say that I do not believe any man from the deep south ever will be President," he concluded.

WHEAT FUTURES CONTINUE SLUMP; CORN IRREGULAR

Winnipeg Prices Lowest Since 1933.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the September delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .62¾	$ .63¾	$1.03¾
Corn	.52⅝	.52½	.97¼
Oats	.24	.24	.29½
Rye	.41⅝	.42	.79¼
*Soy beans	.77½	.77½	.94½

*October delivery.

Wheat prices declined again yesterday in North American markets with Winnipeg showing the most weakness. Futures closed in Winnipeg with net losses of 1⅞ to 2⅛ cents a bushel in new low ground since 1933. Net losses on the Chicago Board of Trade were ¾ to 1⅛ cents a bushel. Corn futures closed irregularly.

The break in Winnipeg and a continued slow foreign demand was reported as responsible for the decline in Chicago wheat futures. Reports indicating the government expected to sell 350,000 bushels of wheat for export failed to have any effect on the market.

Winnipeg Price at Discount.

December wheat in Winnipeg closed at 2¾ cents a bushel under the same delivery in Chicago. Recently the Canadian market was 7 cents higher than here. The big discount in the Canadian futures was regarded as a barrier to any large export sales of domestic wheat abroad except at extremely low prices.

Holders of September wheat were free sellers yesterday. Between two and three million bushels of No. 2 yellow hard winter wheat are expected to be tendered today on September contracts on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat traders yesterday were inclined to take a rather bearish view of the domestic wheat situation. They expect cut throat competition among the leading exporting countries to dispose of their surplus grain later in the season. The new Argentine and Australian crops will be available for sale in November and December.

September Corn Firm.

Buying of September corn futures by brokers who frequently act for New York exporters gave that delivery a firmer undertone and it closed ⅛ cent higher. New crop months were ¼ cent lower. No export sales were confirmed.

Chicago statisticians will issue their estimates on the corn crop Friday. Many traders expect the anticipated yield to be placed somewhat under the 2,566,000,000 bushels indicated on Aug. 1.

Exports of corn from the United States from Nov. 1, 1937, to July 31, 1938, as reported by the department of commerce aggregated 119,000,000 bushels. There were practically no exports during the same period the preceding season. Clearances of corn during August are estimated by cash grain handlers at approximately 10,000,000 bushels.

"59% INCREASE IN SALES—BY FAR THE LARGEST INCREASE IN THE HISTORY OF OUR BUSINESS"

Mr. D. F. McMahon
Manager, Retail Advertising
Chicago Tribune
Chicago

Dear Mr. McMahon:

Here is a story of results which shows what good merchandising and good advertising can do to make good business.

On Friday, July 22, we ran a full page advertisment exclusively in the Tribune featuring the opening of our 20th store at Devon and Western Avenue and announcing Friday and Saturday values at all our stores.

Sales at our new store exceeded any two days volume for one store in the history of our business. Photographs herewith prove the veracity of our statement.

What the pictures do not show, however, is the 59% increase in sales registered by the other 19 stores over the normal Friday and Saturday volume for this time of year - by far the largest increase in the history of our business.

Our preference for the Tribune is simply a reflection of our own records. On the basis of pulling power and returns, we find the Tribune far and away the best medium for drug store advertising.

The longer we use the Tribune, the stronger it gets and the more it continues to astonish us. Business is good for us because we believe in and use the Tribune as our formula for advertising results.

Very truly yours,

Milton Feinberg

Milton D. Feinberg

This is a miniature reproduction of the full page Tribune advertisment which produced the results described in the accompanying letter.

"On the basis of pulling power and returns, we find the Tribune far and away the best medium for drug store advertising."

Placing more advertising in the Tribune than in all other Chicago newspapers combined, the Stineway Drug Company is another Chicago retailing organization which speaks with authority when it describes the results achieved by addressing its advertising to Chicago's largest constant audience.

Open for business every day of the week, the Stineway drug stores place major dependence on the Tribune to generate the store trafic and sales volume which the large-scale operations of this aggressive merchandising organization require.

Majority Coverage 7 Days a Week!

Stineway depends upon the Tribune to produce the results reported in the letter above because every day of the week the Tribune is bought and read by a majority of all the families in metropolitan Chicago. Reaching more than 690,000 city and suburban families seven days a week, the Tribune carries the Stineway sales messages to from 242,000 to 477,000 more families in this market than can be reached through other Chicago newspapers.

Retailers as a group affirm that Tribune readers make up Chicago's largest market by the way they place their advertising. During the first seven months of the year the Tribune led the second Chicago newspaper in volume of retail linage by 2,208,903 lines, or 63.1%.

Accustomed to Buy!

Day after day the Tribune provides a ready-made audience, attracted by this newspaper's superior coverage of the news, its celebrated comics and helpful feature departments. It is an audience which is accustomed to buy—which voluntarily turns to Tribune advertising columns in a buying frame of mind.

No matter what you are selling, you can sell more by building your advertising program around the sales-building Chicago Tribune. Rates per 100,000 circulation are among the lowest in America.

DEALERS GET FIRST VIEW OF NEW PLYMOUTHS

More than 1,000 Chicago district Plymouth dealers and salesmen yesterday got their first view of the 1939 Plymouths at a special showing behind closed doors at the Palmer house. Full details of the new models will be announced publicly some time before Oct. 8, according to George Malcolmson, Chicago divisional manager. He was a host at a luncheon preceding the showing.

Stressing the part the automobile plays in the economic life of America, H. G. Moock, Detroit, vice president and general sales manager of the Plymouth division of the Chrysler corporation, said that today over 25,000,000 automobiles tie the nation together.

"More than 6,000,000 men and women are employed directly and indirectly in motor transportation," he continued. "No other industry down through the thousands of years covering the history of this world can point to such a record. The industry's merchants and manufacturers working together have placed over 50,000,000 vehicles on the roads of the world since 1900."

The Plymouth advance showings were held in 53 cities throughout the nation.

BUTTER FUTURES RALLY FURTHER; DEALERS BUYING

Butter futures yesterday continued their recovery from the five year lows reached last Thursday. November contracts, gaining ¼ cent a pound, finished at 23⅞ cents, compared with the bottom of 22⅝ cents reached last week. Prices at one time yesterday were up ½ cent, but dipped in late selling.

Yesterday's buying appeared to come largely from butter dealers who sold cash butter and "hedged" their sales by buying in the futures market. In the cash market, the Dairy Products Marketing association, federally financed agency, took 2,455,000 pounds of butter at Chicago and New York. This brought total purchases to more than 66,000,000 pounds, or within 9,000,000 pounds of the authorized limit.

October eggs yesterday closed unchanged at 24 cents a dozen, after moving up ⅛ cent in early trading. Cash eggs were unchanged to a cent higher.

Mercantile Exchange Will Be Closed Next Saturday

The Chicago Mercantile exchange will be closed Saturday, making a three day holiday for the Labor day week-end.

SPEYER WILL RETIRE AS SENIOR PARTNER IN BANKING HOUSE

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Reports of his impending retirement were confirmed today by James Speyer, senior partner in Speyer & Co., upon his return from a European trip.

James Speyer.

The company is one of the oldest International banking houses, and the history of the parent house in Frankfort, Germany, which is now closed, extended back beyond the Napoleonic period. Speyer, senior partner since 1899, is 77 years old.

Speyer's statement fixed no definite date for retirement, although he admitted it would be "soon." The future of the firm has not been decided, he said. Speyer's move leaves considerable doubt about the future of the company, which has been as prominent in banking history as Warburg, Waring, Rothschild, and other firms.

Speyer, a widower, has no children. The only other bearer of the name associated with the firm is a nephew, Herbert Beit Von Speyer, now living in Switzerland. He is a partner in the New York firm and was in charge of the Frankfort house until its dissolution several years ago.

REPORT WHEAT SUBSIDY PLANNED BY AUSTRALIA

Australia is considering an export wheat subsidy, it was reported yesterday. This would enable it to compete with the United States, Canada, Rumania, and Poland, which have already announced plans to subsidize wheat exports.

Addition of Australia to the list of countries subsidizing exports of wheat would leave Argentina as the only large surplus producing country without such a program.

Rumania was reported to have sold 10,000,000 bushels of wheat to Belgium yesterday.

Germany and Italy were reported to have bought wheat in Hungary. The quantities taken yesterday were not given. Previously the two countries were said to have bought 15,000,000 bushels from Hungary on a barter basis.

Electric Refrigerator Sales in July Slump Sharply

The National Electrical Manufacturers' association reported yesterday that world sales of electric refrigerators by seventeen United States manufacturers totaled 95,154 units in July. This compares with 192,052 units in the corresponding month last year and 206,019 units in July, 1936. Sales in the first seven months of 1939 were 1,049,677 refrigerators, against 1,902,742 in the like 1937 period and 1,616,912 in 1936.

BREAK IN HOGS, LAMBS INDICATES CHEAPER MEATS

Cheaper pork and lamb meat for Chicago housewives was foreshadowed in yesterday's break in the markets for hogs and lambs at the stock yards. Live costs to packers of slaughter lambs were cut 25 cents, with prices 50 to 65 cents under last week's close. Top fat native and western stock dropped to $8.50, compared with $8.75 Monday and $9.10 at the close of the week.

A large supply of new crop spring pigs weighing under 210 pounds depressed the hog market. Prices declined 5 to 15 cents, lightest weights selling off the most. The top of $8.85, off 15 cents, was only 10 cents above the lowest point of the season and within 10 cents of the lowest August price in four years.

Receipts of 16,000 hogs compared with 15,404 the preceding Tuesday and 10,523 on the corresponding day last year.

Lower priced beef animals were under pressure again yesterday. Beef cows and most hefers ruled weak to 25 cents lower in a slow trade. Fed hefers and calves held steady. Beef steers and yearlings, however, turned active after a slow start. A few were slightly higher.

Mediation Board Meets Again with Rail Unions

The national mediation board yesterday resumed its meetings with the railroad labor unions in its effort to settle the railroad wage dispute. Whether the board will meet with the representatives of the railroad managements today or will resume its sessions with the unions will not be known until this morning. The unions are fighting the railroads' efforts to have wages cut 15 per cent.

CZECH LIENS RISE 10 TO 12½ POINTS; MOST BONDS DIP

News of French Support Aids Recovery.

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Czechoslovakian issues soared before the close of the bond market today on reports that England and France plan to support that country in its crisis with Germany. At the close the 8s of '51 were up 10½ at 84½, and the 8s of '52 advanced 12½ to 80½.

German loans also showed strength. The 5½s of '65 rose fractionally to 23¼ and the 7s of '51 moved up to 31. Most of the rest of the foreign dollar list slid down badly, however and all other divisions were considerably off for the day.

Rail Liens Mixed.

The rail division presented a mixed picture. Some which were hardest hit yesterday recovered to show net gains ranging from fractions to more than a point. These were more than offset, however, by fairly general fractional declines, with a few running to 2 points or more.

U. S. Treasuries eased on selling by some foreign holders and by domestic owners rearranging portfolios in anticipation of substantial government financing next month. Declines ranged to 9-32 at the end.

Among the rails, gains were registered by Illinois Central 4¾s at 39; New York Central 5s at 59½; Southern Pacific 4½s of 1968 at 47½, and Southern Railway 4s at 44½.

Nickel Plate Bonds Dip.

After the close of the market directors of Nickel Plate announced they would not meet Sept. 1 interest payments on bonds. Before the close, it had been announced the directors were meeting to consider what action would be taken, and Nickel Plate liens suffered. The 4½s of '78 at 35½ and the 6s of '38 at 43 each were off 2½ at the end. The 5½s of '74, series A, were down 1¾ at 41¼.

Corporate losers of fractions to a point included: American Water Works 6s at 100; Goodyear 5s at 104½; Pennsylvania General 4½s of '65 at 96¼; Youngstown Sheet and Tube 4s at 102, and Colorado Gas & Electric 5s of May at 92¾.

CHANGE QUINCY R. R. PLANS TO ABANDON TRACK

Burlington May Operate 104 Mile Stretch.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Plans to abandon entirely the 249 mile Quincy, Omaha and Kansas City railroad have been changed. It is now proposed to give up the operation of only 145 miles of the road in Missouri. This was disclosed yesterday by Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad, which controls the Quincy.

Ralph Budd.

The Quincy railroad last May asked the interstate commerce commission for permission to cease operation because competition made operation unprofitable. The Burlington for years has made up its losses.

The Quincy railroad is now asking the interstate commerce commission for permission to abandon the 145 miles between Milan, Mo., and Kansas City, Mo. It is proposed that the 104 miles between Milan and Quincy, Ill., be turned over to the Burlington.

Budd Explains Change.

Because of the pressure from many of the communities on the Quincy railroad it was decided to change the plans.

In a letter to J. D. James, chairman of the public service commission of Missouri, Budd outlined the reasons for the change.

"The whole problem has been reconsidered with a view to providing service by the Burlington to all points where there is any hope of the service being self-sustaining."

"But year after year the Burlington has made up the constant operating losses and taxes of the Q., O. & K. C. I am sure that you recognize our obligations to conserve the resources of the Burlington to avoid insolvency and maintain adequate service for its lines in every state, including Missouri."

Recommends Operation by C., B. & Q.

Budd told James that he recommended to the Quincy and to the Burlington companies that the Quincy ask the I. C. C. for permission to abandon only that part of the line between Milan and Kansas City and that the Burlington ask the I. C. C. for authority to acquire and operate the Quincy's line between Milan and Quincy.

The Burlington's line from Milan to Laclede, Mo., furnishes connection with the Burlington main line to St. Joseph and Kansas City. Budd said operation of the line west from Milan is hopeless.

The Burlington since 1902 has poured $3,200,000 into the Quincy railroad to make up operating deficits. It sunk another $3,000,000 in the road when it bought its common stock. The Quincy has no bonds outstanding.

FREIGHT TRAFIC LAST WEEK MAY SET 1938 HIGH

First freight reports from railroads for the week ended Aug. 27 indicate that trafic for the week may have climbed to a new 1938 high, the Dow-Jones financial news agency said yesterday. The present high was reached in the week ended Aug. 16, when 662,300 freight cars were loaded by the nation's railroads. Large shipments of winter wheat were responsible for the increase at that time.

Nine of the ten carriers which reported yesterday had increased loadings last week compared with the preceding week. All ten roads had lower loadings than in the corresponding week last year. Car loadings of the railroads which reported yesterday follow:

State Coal Bureaus Oppose Continuing Freight Rates

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The Western Pennsylvania Coal Trafic bureau of Pittsburgh and the trafic bureau of Nashville, Tenn., filed briefs today with the interstate commerce commission in opposition to the railroads' petition for continuance of temporary increases in freight rates on bituminous coal. Temporary increases ranging from 3 to 15 cents a ton were authorized in October, 1937, and are scheduled to expire next Dec. 31.
